VOTE ON DRY REPEAL MONDAY

Agree on $200,000,000 Budget Limit

CERMAK, MYERS, WHEALAN TAKE SAVINGS PLEDGE

Citizens' Board Acts to Avert Defaults.

(Picture on Back Page.)

Fred W. Sargent, chairman of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, announced yesterday that city, county, and school board officials have given the committee "unqualified assurance" of their support in the committee's proposal to keep Cook county's 1933 tax levy below $200,000,000.

This would be a reduction of $90,000,000 from the levy of 1930.

The announcement came following a conference at the Union League club. The conferees, who included representatives of loop banks, came to an agreement, it was learned, that every effort must be made to prevent the city and school board from defaulting on their funded debt obligations which fall due the first of the year. These obligations, including school board maturities on Feb. 1, amount to $23,482,190.

Cermak to See Bankers.

Mayor Cermak, who left immediately after the conference for Washington, D. C., where he will ask the Reconstruction Finance corporation for relief funds for the idle, will go on from Washington to New York this afternoon to see New York bankers. He has already been assured that if New York banks will buy part of the tax warrants to meet the bond and interest obligations the Chicago banks will join in the purchase.

Mr. Sargent made public following the conference the limits which his committee believes the large local governments—city, county, school board, sanitary district and three large park boards—should set on their 1933 levies.

Much Needed for Interest.

An irreducible item which must be met out of the proposed $200,000,000 total levy is bonds and interest, to which the committee tentatively allocates $80,000,000. For all other activities the committee believes that the large governments should levy not in excess of $120,000,000.

This would leave $20,000,000 for more than 400 small taxing bodies in Cook county, including all suburban municipalities and school districts. It also includes the levy for state purposes, at least $13,000,000. That would leave only $7,000,000 for the small governments.

A representative of the Sargent committee pointed out, however, that the small governments will undoubtedly be able to levy much more than this sum without the levies passing the $200,000,000 mark when it is placed on the tax books.

Would Lessen Bond Load.

The 1933 taxes probably will not go into collection before the latter part of 1934. By that time, it is expected, it will have been necessary to sell refunding bonds to meet part of the bond maturities and interest requirements for which $60,000,000 is allocated in the proposed levy. This procedure will make it possible to abate a considerable part of the bond and interest levies now proposed, increasing at the same time the levies of the small governments.

The committee, it was learned, set the proposed $200,000,000 limit on the 1933 levy after it was estimated that tax collections during the coming year will be in the neighborhood of $160,000,000. This estimate includes payments on the 1931 tax bills to be sent out shortly after Jan. 1, and payments of delinquent taxes for 1928 to 1930, inclusive. If local governments adjust their 1933 budgets within the limits set by the committee, its members believe that they will be able to pay their operating expenses for the year and make substantial reductions in their unpaid bills and total tax warrant obligations.

Conference Members Listed.

Present at yesterday's conference, besides Mr. Sargent and Mayor Cermak, were Governor Elect Horner, Controller Szymczak, Deputy Controller Victor S. Patterson, and Ald. John S. Clark [20th], chairman of the council finance committee, for the city; President Emmett Whealan of the county board, President Lewis E. Myers of the school board, Ernest R. Graham and D. F. Kelly, members of the citizens' committee, and John O. Rees of the committee staff; and representatives of four downtown banks. The bankers were George F. Spauld-

A young bandit was shot and killed last night when he tried to rob the Kriegler bakery at 6710 Wentworth avenue. He was slain by Michael Kriegler, 63 years old, the owner of the shop.

The robber entered the place with gun drawn and ordered Mrs. Margaret Burgess, 35 years old, 239 West Marquette road, a clerk, who was behind the counter, to hand over the contents of the cash drawer.

Kriegler, who was in the rear of the bakery, heard the bandit's command. A door, fitted with a small screen panel, separated him and the robber. Kriegler picked up a revolver, placed it against the small screen and took careful aim. He fired one shot. The bullet struck the gunman in the heart.

The dead robber was identified later as Joseph Kryszcosiak, 20 years old, 5112 South Paulina street. Also he was identified by Mrs. Robert Skulina of the South Town bakery at 6916 South Halsted street as the man who earlier in the evening had robbed her of $60. No money was found in Kryszcosiak's pockets, indicating, the police said, that he had accomplices to whom he had given the loot.

Winter Going to 'Seem' Cold, Donnel Thinks

The winter just beginning probably is going to seem like a pretty cold season to Chicagoans, according to C. A. Donnel, chief meteorologist of the government weather bureau here. Not that it's going to be abnormally cold—Mr. Donnel believes it will be just about a normal Chicago winter—but he points out that Chicagoans have been spoiled by the last two winters, which were unusually mild. Not since the winter of 1928-1929 has real winter weather been experienced here, he said yesterday.

The forecaster bases his expectation of blustery weather, with temperatures sometimes well below zero, on the fact that the temperature so far this month has averaged 4 degrees below normal. October averaged 1.5 degrees below normal.

Last Winter Unusually Mild.

"Last winter was one of the mildest we have ever had," Mr. Donnel said. "The average temperature of October a year ago was 4.8 degrees above normal. The average temperature of November a year ago was 9.9 degrees above normal. Thus, it is about 14 degrees colder this November than last, yet it is far nearer to normal this year than last.

"The last really cold winter was in 1928-'29. Then January of 1930 was rather cold, but that February it warmed up and has been warm ever since. November a year ago was quite warm. Day after day there were temperatures of 50 to 70 degrees. Between the 7th and the 24th the temperature was more than 20 degrees above normal on six days, reaching a peak of 29 degrees above normal. The last six days of that month were more nearly normal.

"This year, November started out mildly. On the 9th the temperature went below normal and has stayed there, fluctuating between 1 and 14 degrees below normal, except for two exceptions, when the temperature climbed up to normal.

Looks Like Cold Winter.

"All of this is just weather. Weather never is normal. There is, no doubt, some major change in the distribution of air pressure. It is impossible to say absolutely that we will have a cold winter, but when it starts out this way in October and November, it turns out to be a cold winter 60 to 70 per cent of the time.

"We have had several years of mild temperatures, but that is no criterion for the future. We do not know what causes such phenomena, but suspect that the cause is the sun, primarily. It is difficult, however, to correlate temperature fluctuations with sun spots."

New England had a taste of winter weather over the last week-end, according to dispatches. The temperatures in a number of places dropped below zero, while atop Mount Washington 21 degrees below zero was recorded. Boston reported its coldest Nov. 27 on record, 8 degrees above zero.

ARIZONA'S GOVERNOR SIGNS ORDER KILLING STATE'S DRY STATUTE

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 28.—(AP)—From his bed in a hospital here, Gov. George W. P. Hunt, 73, signed an order today declaring Arizona's prohibition law null and void. He thus carried out the mandate of the Nov. 8 election.

Arizona's prohibition law was adopted six years before national prohibition. The only liquor law now effective in the state is the federal act.

The vote on repeal of the state law was 63,850 to 36,218, the canvassing board announced just before Gov. Hunt made the repeal effective.

6 CHILDREN GONE IN ELOPEMENT, FATHERS FEAR

Five fathers called on Lieut. Edward Birmingham at the detective bureau last night. They lodged a wholesale complaint. Their six children, they said, had gone to Denver, apparently on an elopement trip for four of them.

The runaway youngsters, all said to be pupils at the Lindblom High school, are William Gerth, 18 years old, and his sister, Helen, 16, of 6137 South Seeley avenue; William Stout, 17 years old, 6324 South Campbell avenue; Anna Senese, 15 years old, 1839 West 63d street, and Frank Gorley, 19 years old, and William Cullen, 16 years old, whose addresses were not learned.

"William and Helen disappeared on Nov. 18," said John B. Gerth, the father who had the biggest complaint. "At the same time my automobile and $160 disappeared. I have been notified by a Salvation Army captain in Denver that the whole party is in Denver. The whole thing is just a high school romance, a puppy love affair."

Police heard, but could not confirm the report, that William Gerth had married the Senese girl and that Helen Gerth had married William Stout. The five fathers said they would leave at once for Denver. A dispatch from that city says the youths deny that any of them have been married. All were found living in a house they had rented.

YOUNG ARNOLD WAITS PENALTY AS SAXE SLAYER

Bertrand Arnold, 16 years old, slayer of Mrs. Ellen Saxe, his stepmother's mother, pleaded guilty to murder in the Criminal court yesterday.

The plea was entered over the objection of the boy's attorney, Weymouth Kirkland, who argued that, since the indictment against Bert failed to specify premeditation, the crime should be considered manslaughter.

Chief Justice John Prystalski, before whom the boy was arraigned, asked Bert if he was aware that in pleading guilty he had placed himself in jeopardy of a sentence of fourteen years to life imprisonment. Bert said he understood.

Awaits Third Alienist's Report.

The judge then continued the case to Saturday to allow Dr. Harry Hoffman, head of the Criminal court behavior clinic, to complete a report on Bert's mentality. Two other state alienists, Dr. H. Douglas Singer and Dr. Francis J. Gerty, have held the boy legally sane, but urged consideration of his immaturity and his peculiar mental quirks in mitigation.

The slayer's father, C. B. Arnold, woodenware manufacturer, and his stepmother, Mrs. Frances Arnold, daughter of Mrs. Saxe, are hopeful that Dr. Hoffman, too, will find some mitigation for the offense in which Bert beat Mrs. Saxe to death with a hammer and dropped her body into a cistern in the yard of the Arnold home in suburban Riverside.

With a favorable report from Dr. Hoffman, the parents have been told, Judge Prystalski may, despite the murder plea, adjudge Bert guilty of manslaughter, the penalty for which is one to fourteen years in Pontiac reformatory. That punishment, they feel, would be sufficient expiation, according to Attorney Kirkland.

500 Squeeze into Courtroom.

Five hundred spectators were squeezed in the benches and aisles of the courtroom as the case was called at 1:30 p. m. A fat woman expressed the reaction of the crowd as the neatly dressed boy with the serious face was brought in from the judge's chambers.

"My! My!" she exclaimed. "To think he could have killed that old lady with a hammer."

The small figure, almost hidden in the huddle of his lawyers and his guards, took a position before the bench and squared his narrow shoulders. A hush fell on the courtroom as the judge peered down over the rims of his glasses.

"Arraign the defendant," he said, and Bert raised his somber eyes.

The decorum was broken as the spectators stood up and jostled for a better view. "Sit down," rasped a bailiff, and the proceedings started.

Attorney Makes Reservation.

"Your honor, I'd like to make this situation clear," began Attorney Kirkland. "The defendant is entering a plea of guilty to the indictment with the distinct understanding that the plea is only to the manslaughter count. That is the only crime he has committed.

"I have discussed the case with the father and stepmother and they have agreed to waive a jury. There will be no insanity plea, but we expect that the boy's mental condition will be taken into consideration."

The judge broke in.

"Are you Bertrand Arnold?"

"Yes, sir." The boy's eyes flickered.

"How old are you?"

"Sixteen, sir." His treble voice was clear and firm.

"Before I hear your plea," the judge went on, "I want to warn you of my powers and your constitutional rights. I may sentence you to prison for any number of years not less than 14 for murder, and from one to 14 years in the reformatory for manslaughter. Do you understand?"

Hesitates Before Answering.

The boy's eyes fell. His larynx seemed to turn dry, for he swallowed twice before answering.

"Yes, sir," he answered, with an effort.

"I have been given to understand that the state is willing to waive the death penalty," the judge said, turning to Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne for confirmation. The prosecutor assented.

"Knowing all this, do you still persist in your plea of guilty?" the judge pressed the boy.

This time Bert's answer was more assured.

"Yes, sir," he affirmed. "I've talked

Democrats in House to Call Up Measure

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Democratic strategists of the house of representatives, headed by Speaker John N. Garner, went ahead today determined to bring about a repeal vote next Monday even if they have to swing the party whip to drive reluctant members into line.

The speaker came forth with a joint resolution providing for outright repeal of the prohibition amendment and for ratification by state conventions. The house judiciary committee will meet next Friday to take the resolution under consideration.

Repeal Resolution.

As drafted by the Democratic Vice President elect the resolution reads:

"Resolved, by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled [two-thirds of each house concurring therein], that the following article is proposed as an amendment to the constitution, which shall be valid to all intents and purposes as a part of the constitution when ratified by conventions in three-fourths of the several states:

"Article XX.

"Section 1. The eighteenth article of amendment is hereby repealed.

"Section 2. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the constitution by conventions in three-fourths of the several states within seven years from the date of its submission to the states by congress."

Many Congressmen Disturbed.

Many are the congressional hearts that are disturbed as the hour for the vote draws closer. It was Mr. Garner who caused the wholesale unease when he suddenly acceded to the demand of the once dry as dust Republican leader, Bertrand H. Snell of New York, that a vote on repeal be put ahead of the proposed vote on beer.

Up to that time, with the Democratic leaders insisting that beer come first, certain members of both parties had been parading their fealty to the constitution with loud proclamations that they surely were wet, but that a repeal resolution must be passed before their consciences would let them approve a beer bill.

All Speaker Garner did was to take these members at their word, but the effect has been dismaying. The hesitant moists on the Republican side have not yet recovered from the shock of having Mr. Snell's proposal accepted.

Democrats Also Uneasy.

Their Democratic brethren are having trouble with cold feet. It is this affliction among his followers which has caused Mr. Garner to make up his mind that if signs of running out develop, a Democratic house caucus will be called, the riot act read to them, and the repeal resolution made a strict party measure.

It is possible that the resolution will be amended to outlaw the saloon and leave the protection of dry states under federal control. Such amendments may be voted by the judiciary committee with the idea that they would attract votes now wavering.

Democratic leaders, on the other hand, fear that truly wet votes might be alienated by such a course, and that to start toning down outright repeal might quickly lead to a tangle of verbiage out of which those inclined to backslide could pick an excuse for voting "No."

Speaker Garner said that he was not "wedded" to the resolution as now drawn.

"But it carries out," he said, "the pledges of both parties concerning ratification by convention and the Democratic pledge of flat repeal."

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Tommy Atkins is to have a new uniform. The tunics, the first of which appeared today, are of the open neck type with turndown collars like those worn by officers. An open neck khaki shirt is worn without a necktie. The trousers, still in the experimental stage, are plus fours, to be worn with short leggings like those of the marines. The crowning touch is a deer stalker hat. The new uniforms will be issued first to two battalions of the Queen's royal regiment and the Durham light infantry.

Links Auto Exhaust Pipe with His Bedroom to Die

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—An automobile parked in the yard of a small iron factory in Brooklyn, with its motor running and a hose pipe connecting its exhaust with a bedroom, led today to finding the bodies of the proprietor of the factory, Henry Von Hoeren, 67, and his pet dog. The police listed Von Hoeren's death from carbon monoxide poisoning as a suicide.

KING OF BRITAIN TAKES A HAND IN DEBT SITUATION

Holds Parley with Treasury Head.

Pound Falls to 3.17⅜

The pound sterling, for years the money of international trade, yesterday fell to $3.17⅜, the lowest price in its history and nearly 35 per cent below parity. The fall of the British monetary unit was said to reflect the discouragement of the financial world over war debts.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 28.—King George stepped into the war debt controversy between Great Britain and the United States today. He gave a special audience at Buckingham palace to Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer. It is reliably reported that they discussed Britain's position regarding the payment of $95,550,000 due the United States on Dec. 15.

KING GEORGE.

Speculation was aroused as to whether the king would take an active rôle in pleading Britain's case for a postponement of the December payment.

Frame New Note.

Prime Minister MacDonald meanwhile continued to confer with cabinet colleagues and treasury and foreign office experts on the terms of the second British note to Washington, setting forth detailed reasons why America should agree to forget the Dec. 15 installment.

The premier also had interviews with Sir Herbert Samuel, Liberal leader, and George Lansbury, Laborite leader, in pursuance of a plan to line up all sections of British opinion behind whatever decision the British cabinet finally comes to regarding the payment.

Up to a late hour tonight no formal cabinet meeting had been summoned. However, all the cabinet members are in London and can be summoned on a few minutes' notice. It is considered likely that the new note will be forwarded tomorrow night or Wednesday.

Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, called at the treasury today and had a long interview with Chamberlain. The purpose of his call, he said, was to discuss methods of payment if America insists on getting its money.

There are two schools of opinion on the method of payment. First is the "hope it chokes you" school, which advocates taking bar gold from the Bank of England's reserve and shipping it to the United States. The second is the school which advocates paying the sum in sterling into a blocked account either in the Bank of England or the Bank for International Settlements. The money would then be transferred as gradually as could be done without disturbing exchange.

While officials are talking hopefully about the new note to be sent the United States it is unofficially admitted that they have very little hope that congress will agree to a further postponement. A few are building hope on dispatches from Washington today indicating that America might be willing to let the capital payment ride if the interest is paid.

Begins to See U. S. Viewpoint.

It is becoming clear that there is a growing appreciation of the American point of view here. A few days ago the British were talking about wealthy America and poor Europe. They are now beginning to realize that America has been hit by the crisis as badly as Europe.

The new British note will concentrate, therefore, on trying to prove that it would injure America more than any one else to accept payment now. The Times this morning pointed out that the balance of trade is now heavily against Britain. In the first nine months of this year Britain bought from America goods worth £59,000,000 [about $295,000,000 at par] and sold only £11,000,000 [about $55,000,000 at par].

This balance must be made up in gold and if the gold goes to America to pay debts, it is pointed out, American exporters must suffer because Britain will be compelled to contract purchases still further in order to conserve gold for the debt payments, which will go to the national treasury and will not benefit business.

Other factors which will be stressed will be that America's insistance on the debt payment will compel Britain to collect from European creditors, who in turn will, therefore, be less able to buy American goods.

The government is angry at Lords Rothermere and Beaverbrook for their recent short lived campaign declaring that Britain has not the money and cannot pay. This is declared to be absurd, for Britain has the money, it is declared, and can pay if America insists, but America should not insist because payment would upset world finance.

'ILLEGAL,' FRENCH CLAIM

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 28.—While Premier Herriot, surrounded by aids at the Quai d'Orsay, was putting the finishing touches on a new note intended to soften the heart of the American congress, the government's real intentions regarding the Dec. 15 war debt payment of $19,261,432 were gradually emerging from the shadows.

The idea is simply to question the juridical basis of the payment. While refusing to turn the money over to America, the French scheme is to circumvent the accusation of repudiation by depositing the payment somewhere pending settlement of the dispute. It is felt by the French that this would be sufficient to demonstrate that France is acting in good faith, and also that it would amply protect the French treasury.

French Bank Would Keep Money.

In its original form, the suggestion was to deposit the payment with the Bank for International Settlements. Apparently it has been decided that this is too great a concession to be swallowed by the chamber of deputies and another formula has been worked out.

The exact wording of the scheme is not known, but a hint which appears to be authoritative that the money is to be deposited in the Bank of France—where it comes from anyway—was dropped by Senator Henry Berenger, chairman of the senate foreign affairs committee and a co-signer of the famous Mellon-Berenger debt accord.

The hint appears in an article under Berenger's name which will be published tomorrow by the influential Agence Economique et Financiere.

Work in Concert with Britain.

Meantime, Lord Tyrrell, British ambassador, quietly skipped over to London to strengthen the liaison between the French and British governments, thus giving further rise to the suspicion of a Franco-British united front. It is also considered probable that Lord Tyrrell will try to secure British support for the French scheme of making a deposit in the Bank of France.

The French reply to Washington is expected to be approved tomorrow by the council of ministers. It is understood that it will not be in any way final and will avoid stating whether France will make the payment next month, contenting itself with listing arguments as to why she should not.

The other plan attacking the legal justification of payment and holding the money in deposit pending settlement doubtless will not be applied except as a last resort. If the French and British notes awaken any favorable reaction in America, this course might not be necessary.

Berenger in summing up the legal arguments against payment says that "France's signature was given the United States under certain conditions. It is only binding if these conditions have been respected. If the United States has thrice prevented the conditions from being observed, France is not obliged to pay the Dec. 15 installment, for which its creditor has prevented the debtor from first providing funds."

This refers to the theory that the Hoover moratorium officially recognized some connection between German reparations and war debts.

Poland Sends New Note.

WARSAW, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Poland sent a second note to Washington today asking revision of the Polish war debts and containing a full explanation of the first Polish request for suspension of the Dec. 15 payment.

BOARD REFUSES TO CUT TAX ON FINE OLD LIQUOR

Before Fred W. Brummel and George F. Nixon of the county board of tax appeals appeared last night Attorney Philip A. Conley to discuss the value, actual and assessable, of 633 cases of fine old pre-war whisky, brandy and other beverages.

The liquor was part of the estate of Joseph J. Morand, secretary of Morand Brothers, beverage manufacturers at 800-820 South May street, who died early in 1931. The valuation for tax purposes was $4,529, representing 37 per cent of the supposed actual value.

"As of April 1, 1931, that assessed valuation is too high," said the attorney. "It was based on the fact that I sold that liquor to some speculators for $11,000 recently. My contention is that its value has increased recently in view of the fact that prohibition appears doomed. I believe that its total value in April, 1931, was only $5,000 instead of $11,000."

"To whom was this liquor sold?" asked Mr. Nixon.

"I'm sure I can't remember," replied the attorney.

The board of appeals held liquor prices were just as high a year and a half ago as they are now, and Mr. Conley was informed the $4,529 figure would have to stand.

BRITAIN MAKES NEW MOVE FOR DELAY ON DEBT

Offers to Pay Interest Only on Dec. 15.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The British government today sounded out the Hoover administration on the full extent of the leniency it will be possible to obtain in the payment of the 95 million dollar installment of the British war debt due the United States on Dec. 15.

While the British cabinet was considering the terms of the note to be dispatched to Washington in rejoinder to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, whose note asked why Britain cannot pay, Sir Ronald Lindsay appeared at the treasury and had a protracted talk with Secretary Ogden L. Mills.

Earlier Mr. Mills and Mr. Stimson had conferred with President Hoover for more than an hour on the latest phase of the debt situation as reported by Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon in London.

Offer to Meet Half Way.

Ambassador Lindsay is understood to have indicated that Great Britain will not default if the American government will meet the British government part of the way in the matter. He is said to have been chiefly interested in ascertaining whether the Hoover administration would agree to postponement of the payment of the installment of the principal, which amounts to 30 millions, and in discussing Mr. Hoover's suggestion that payment might be made in sterling of guaranteed value.

Under the terms of the debt settlement a debtor nation may postpone any payment of principal but not of interest for not more than two years upon giving ninety days' notice. To postpone payment of the 30 millions principal due on Dec. 15 the British government was obligated to give notice not later than Sept. 15 last.

This provision appears in all the debt statements, but only three of the debtors took advantage of it on or before Sept. 15. They were Estonia, Latvia, and Poland.

No Notice from Britain.

Great Britain allowed the date to pass without giving notice of the desire to postpone payment of principal.

Inasmuch as the payments due from France, Italy, and Belgium were wholly of interest there was no question of notice from these debtors on Sept. 15.

Great Britain refrained from giving notice of postponement on or before Sept. 15 because of fear of the consequences of injection of the war debt question into the American presidential election.

Britain as well as the other debtors was maneuvering for reduction, if not cancellation, of their debts to the United States. It was feared that if they made the slightest move in this direction during the campaign the American public would become stirred up over the issue and the upshot would be strong commitments by both parties and both candidates against concessions to the debtors.

Democrats Alone Took Stand.

The Democratic party had declared against cancellation and Gov. Roosevelt had announced 100 per cent acceptance of the platform and had developed to some extent his theory that by freeing trade channels of tariff and other obstructions the debtors would be enabled to pay their debts. The Republican party had been silent on debts and President Hoover had evinced a sympathetic attitude toward revision.

Britain and the other debtors were hoping for the success of the Hoover administration, which had proved itself more favorably disposed than the Democrats to proposals to scale down the debts. In order to avoid rocking the boat they kept mum during the election campaign.

The defeat of the President was a staggering blow to the debtors. With the election over, however, there remained no reason for further delay and they promptly fired their pleas across the Atlantic for revision of the debts and suspension of the payments.

As matters now stand Great Britain, having failed to give the required notice, cannot postpone payment of the 30 millions principal. Under another provision of the debt settlements, however, the secretary of the treasury may waive the requirement of the notice. One of the purposes of the British ambassador's call is understood to have been to ascertain whether Mr. Mills would waive the notice and allow postponement of the principal payment after all.

So far as could be ascertained, no definite commitment was made by the treasury secretary. Mr. Mills said afterward that there had been no change in the situation and that nothing would be done pending receipt of the British note, which is expected within 48 hours.

Latvia having already postponed a principal payment of $46,200, filed with the state department today a plea similar to those of the other debtors for suspension of the full Dec. 15 payment, which in the case of Latvia included $102,652 interest.

PAT HARRISON TELLS WHY CONGRESS ASKS EUROPE TO PAY DEBT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—A vigorous defense of congress' unwillingness to grant a revision or postponement of the war debts was enunciated tonight by Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.].

"In the last election," said Senator Harrison, "the American people spoke in no uncertain terms their attitude against any cancellation of the foreign debt."

Referring to President Hoover's recent conference with Gov. Roosevelt and congressional leaders, Senator Harrison said that to revive the debt commission as the President wished would mean joint consideration with the United States standing alone against a union of European debtors.

The Mississippi senator reviewed various proposals for modification, then remarked:

"These arguments are always silent on the burden of these modification proposals on our people. Germany is to go free and pass her burden to the allies. They delay not at all in trying to pass the burden to our government, and our government necessarily passes them on to the American citizen."

JURY IS PICKED TO TRY WATKINS AS MAIL ROBBER

A jury was selected yesterday in the federal court of Judge Charles G. Briggle to try Harold [Fat] Watkins, 42 years old, charged with participation in the $388,000 mail robbery at the Dearborn street station on April 6, 1921. Watkins was captured in September in an apartment at 6045 Harper avenue after postal inspectors had hunted him for 11 years.

Watkins was named in the original indictments voted against the mail robber gang headed by "Big Tim" Murphy, slain labor racketeer. The indictment against Watkins was nolle prossed in 1927. Defense Attorney Richard I. Gavin argued yesterday his client should be released, contending that the charge was outlawed by the statute of limitations, which runs for three years on such a robbery charge. Assistant United States Attorney James C. Leaton held that Watkins became a fugitive at the time the original indictment was returned and that the statute of limitations could not be invoked in his behalf. The controversy on this point was continued until the end of the trial on the suggestion of Prosecutor Leaton.

FORD'S DOCTORS TERM CONDITION 'SATISFACTORY'

Chance to Leave Hospital in Ten Days.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The condition of Henry Ford, who was operated on Saturday, "remains very satisfactory," according to a bulletin issued at the Henry Ford hospital, where he is a patient, at 6:30 o'clock tonight.

The bulletin gave the patient's temperature as 98.8; pulse, 84; respiration, 20.

It was announced there would be no further bulletins until tomorrow.

Family No Longer Anxious.

Mr. Ford's family no longer entertains any anxiety about his condition and, barring unexpected complications, he should be ready to leave the hospital within ten days from the date of his operation, it was said.

A bulletin issued earlier in the day read:

"It was said at Henry Ford's office at 11 a. m. that Mr. Ford's physicians reported he passed a favorable night. His temperature was 99, pulse 82, respiration 18. Normal progress of the case is expected."

Crisis Believed Past.

Physicians not connected with the case said that the bulletin indicated Mr. Ford's physicians, including Dr. Roy D. McClure, chief surgeon of the Henry Ford hospital, who performed the operation, were satisfied that the patient's vitality would carry him safely through the crisis, which usually follows about 48 hours after such operations and in which infection constitutes the greatest danger.

The 48 hour period, which is usually designated by physicians as the observation time, during which there is possibility of the development of infection, passed at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

TRACE AUTO DRAG EMBLEM TO CITY STREET EMPLOYE

The city hall is not without at least one member of the "I gotta drag club," motorists who sport impressive stars on their automobiles.

On the large automobile owned by James D. McNeil, 6839 Dante street, is a bright shield reading "City of Chicago, official." A private motorist, seeing the emblem, might surrender the right of way, thinking that it was a detective bureau car. A policeman might hesitate to issue a ticket to the driver of a machine bearing such a star.

"I'm employed by the city," said Mr. McNeil when interviewed about his star last night. In response to several questions he said he is an inspector for the city street department.

ITALIAN LEADER SAYS U. S. FAILS TO VISION THE TRUE SITUATION

[Copyright, 1932, By the New York Times.]

ROME, Nov. 27.—An impassioned plea for cancellation of war debts and all other international payments resulting from the war was made today by Alberto Pirelli, former member of the Dawes reparations committee and Italian representative at almost all recent economic conferences. He spoke at the annual assembly of the Association of Italian Limited Liability companies in his capacity as president of that organization. Premier Mussolini was present.

"Neither compromises nor half measures, but only a clean slate can avail us," Pirelli said. "Some maladies can be cured with warm, some with cold, but none with lukewarm water."

America, he said, evidently does not yet appreciate the results of the Lausanne conference at their true value. As a consequence of the Lausanne conference, he continued 130,000,000 citizens of Germany's European creditor states are willing to condone reparations amounting to one and one-half times as much as the credits "which almost 130,000,000 inhabitants of America should remit to Europe." America should be far more interested in world recovery than to maintain the difficulty of collecting credits of a political character, Pirelli said.

MANGANO'S SON, 17, IS CAPTURED IN AUTO CHASE

Paul Mangano, 17 year old son of "Dago Lawrence" Mangano, long a Capone lieutenant on the west side, was fired on yesterday by a police squad and captured after a long automobile chase in the Cragin district. Riding with him were two youths who were at liberty on bonds on charges of robbery.

Sergt. Edward McBride, in charge of the police squad, said the trio tossed two pistols and several scraps of paper from the automobile during the chase.

The other youths arrested are Henry Spranz, 17 years old, 5548 Congress street, and Carl Nicoletti, 19, of 5350 West Adams street. They were arrested about a month ago. It was alleged they tried to hold up a driver for a loop store. A youth who was with them escaped in an automobile and the police are investigating to learn whether the fugitive was young Mangano.

Letts died Saturday in St. Joseph's hospital, Aurora. Smith was charged with beating him with a shotgun and crowbar following an argument on Thanksgiving day.

WEST VIRGINIA GOVERNOR HURT; GAS EXPLOSION

Hurled 40 Feet by Blast from Furnace.

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Hurled 40 feet by a gas explosion in the basement of the executive mansion and narrowly escaping death, Gov. William G. Conley today was confined to bed at his residence under the care of physicians for severe face and body burns and for treatment for shock.

The governor was injured last night, it was revealed today by Dr. R. A. Ireland, when he went to the basement to increase the furnace heat. It has been his custom on Sunday nights to attend the furnace during the absence of the servants.

Found by Family.

Mrs. Conley and her sister, Mrs. H. G. Hopwood, hearing the blast, thought it occurred outside the house. Several minutes later they found the governor, his hair singed, staggering to his feet in the basement. He was clad in his night clothes. The extent of the governor's injuries has not been determined, according to Dr. Ireland, but his condition is regarded as good. He is 66 years old.

Unless complications develop, the physician said in a statement, Mr. Conley may be back at his office in two weeks.

Tells of Explosion.

It had been reported the governor's sight was impaired, but Dr. Ireland discounted this. His face heavily bandaged, Gov. Conley late today received newspaper men. He said he had gone to the basement and had noticed there were no flames in the gas furnace. However, he said, he smelled no gas. When he opened the furnace door, he said, the gas escaped from the furnace and apparently became ignited from a pilot light in a nearby water heater.

"If I hadn't been standing pretty far to the side of the furnace door," the governor said, "it would have been the last of me."

The damage to the mansion was estimated at $1,000.

Wife Is Granted Divorce from Leonard Grossman

Leonard J. Grossman, former alderman of the 5th ward, was divorced yesterday by Mrs. Pauline Grossman, 5346 Cornell avenue. Mrs. Grossman charged desertion and her decree was granted by Superior Judge Joseph Sabath. Mrs. Grossman was given custody of her daughter, Flora, 3 years old, and support money of $10 a month.

LOS ANGELES FACING A $1,800,000 DEFICIT; TO LEVY LICENSE FEE

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Los Angeles faces a $1,800,000 deficit for the current fiscal year, the city council today was informed. The finance committee of the council is working out a system of new license fees to make up the difference.

The fees will be imposed on a sliding scale against all wholesale and retail businesses, using the figure of $18,000 gross income a year as the tax unit. For that figure the tax on a business house will be $7.50 and for gross receipts of $800,000 or more the new tax levy will attain a maximum of $500, if the council scheme is adopted as an ordinance.

Many business houses have turned in protests charging that the proposed fees are discriminating against certain interests.

COUNCIL URGED TO O. K. LIGHTER LOAVES OF BREAD

An ordinance changing the weight requirements for loaves of bread was recommended to the city council for passage yesterday by the judiciary committee. The measure may stimulate competition, according to Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady [13th], who sponsored the ordinance. O'Grady hopes this would result in a reduction in the price of bread.

The present city ordinance permits the sale of loaves weighting either 1 pound or 1½ pounds, while suburbs permit the sale of loaves of lesser weights. The ordinance recommended by the committee would authorize the sale of loaves weighing ¾ of a pound and 1¼ pounds. The new ordinance has the indorsement of bakers and union officials, the committee was told.

The committee also recommended ordinances prohibiting the sales of meats and fowls by other measurement than weight; prohibiting wet wash laundries from charging for work on any other basis than by weight; and giving the city sealer the right to inspect measures used by gasoline filling stations.

Speed Divorce Trial for Envoy Expecting Transfer

When Henri Bougearel, French vice consul in Chicago, informed Superior Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday that he expects to be transferred soon, Judge Sabath set hearing of the divorce plea of Mrs. Harriet Prentiss Bougearel for Dec. 6. Bougearel appeared in court to seek an order permitting him to see his 2 year old son; John, who has been with his mother since the couple separated July 20, 1931. Mrs. Bougearel lives at 2928 Broadway and operates an antique shop. The couple married May 28, 1929, at Waukegan.

VON HINDENBURG SHOWS STRAIN OF CABINET SEARCH

Strength Wanes; Doctors Guard His Health.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—The strength of President Paul von Hindenburg is weakening under the strain of trying to find a chancellor to guide Germany through the perilous winter ahead, it was learned today from a reliable source. Physicians have ordered the 85 year old field marshal to refrain from all evening entertainment. Even conversations with close friends are forbidden.

Heretofore, Von Hindenburg spent his evenings with old comrades or political leaders whom he trusted. With them he enjoyed a glass of beer or a bottle of wine. This is prohibited now with the president devoting every ounce of his strength to solve the affairs of state.

Physicians are confident that if the governmental crisis is solved satisfactorily, the strain will be lessened and that Von Hindenburg's condition will improve rapidly.

Von Schleicher in Spotlight.

With the president's health impaired, the rôle played by Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, minister of defense, who is negotiating with political parties in Von Hindenburg's name, increases in importance. Von Schleicher is one of the most energetic men in the government. He is known as the "mystery man" of preceding cabinets who fought relentlessly until his wishes were carried out in all matters.

Von Schleicher is close to former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm. He has privately stated that "the only suitable government for Germany is a Hohenzollern monarchy but that the time is not ready for it now.

His name has figured prominently in reports of a coup d'état which would call for Von Hindenburg's resignation when the president felt the time was ripe and entrust his powers to a regent—the crown prince or some other prince of the former reigning house—to pave the way for the restoration of the monarchy. These reports are given the most serious consideration in diplomatic circles.

Changes His Mind.

Up until the last few days Von Schleicher has energetically refused the chancellorship. The minister of defense now is negotiating with party leaders, inferring that he will accept the appointment if he can induce them to cooperate with him. Political circles believe that Von Schleicher has emerged from his mysterious background because he sees the time is near when preparations must be made for a regency. Von Hindenburg's indisposition is a factor in these plans.

Von Schleicher time and again has warned Chancellor von Papen that the latter's reactionary course were endangering himself and the country. The general favors a reconciliation of the different classes of Germany and believes that the power of government should not be based on the strength of its bayonets.

Today he urged reichstag leaders with whom he negotiated to agree to a "political truce" and tolerate a cabinet appointed by Von Hindenburg, with its main mission to "provide work for the idle."

Hitler Opposes General.

He negotiated with Socialist and labor union leaders, offering to cancel parts of Von Papen's anti-social legislation if the Socialists would support a presidial cabinet. Rudolf Breitscheid, the Socialist leader, declared that the party would oppose a Von Schleicher régime, but official circles believe that the union leaders were more amenable.

Von Schleicher will also negotiate with Adolf Hitler, National Socialist leader, who persists in his refusal to cooperate unless he is awarded the chancellorship. Von Schleicher believes that some of Hitler's lieutenants "realize the importance of cooperating in a national plan to provide work" and that they are trying to swing Hitler into line.

"I will not accept the chancellorship unless I obtain the nation's cooperation," the minister of defense said tonight.

"Werwolf" Revolt Threat.

Meanwhile members of the "Werwolf" organisation, which almost sank into oblivion since the days it partook in the Kapp putsch in 1920, met in Eisleben over the week-end and adopted a resolution that it is broadcasting over the entire country.

"Neither a parliamentary nor a presidential cabinet is able to carry out the necessary revolution," the resolution said. "After ten years of quiet preparation the Werwolf feels ready to take over the leadership of the revolution at this decisive hour."

The Werwolfs announced the appointment of seven members as "revolutionary leaders."

STONE OFFICIALS DENOUNCED IN PLEA TO JURY

Prosecutors Ridicule "Sinking Fund."

Assistant United States District Attorney Thomas Dodd Healy told a jury yesterday that officials of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct real estate investment concern, sold the public unsecured promissory notes of the company, not acceptable at the banks, in a desperate effort to save a failing company.

Healy, with Prosecutor Joseph A. Struett, started the closing arguments in the trial of Henry F. Norcott, president of the Stone company, and eight associates, on charges of using the mails to defraud. Hearing in the case, which grew out of the $14,000,000 failure of the Stone company two years ago, was started two months ago in the federal court of Judge Charles E. Woodward.

Calls Bonds "Big Bubble."

Prosecutor Healy termed the Stone sinking fund gold debenture bonds dated Aug. 1, 1928, as "the first big bubble of these purveyors of 'bonds that never lost a dollar.'"

"What irony in that title—Sinking Fund Gold Debenture bonds," he said. "It might well have been called the $3,000,000 Life Line gold debentures," for it was the plan of these defendants to pump enough of the public's money into their sinking ship to keep it afloat a while longer. These debentures, minus their glorified name and description, are nothing more than the unsecured promissory notes of H. O. Stone & Co."

Reject Unfavorable Audit.

He then called the attention of the jurors to testimony that the Stone officials rejected an audit made by Andersen & Co. in favor of a company made report. The Andersen & Co. audit, he pointed out, showed a loss, while the report compiled by the Stone officials recorded a profit for the year. He also recalled the testimony of government witnesses that the Stone officials represented as first mortgage bonds an issue on Lawsonia. Stone subdivision, while there was an outstanding mortgage already against the property.

The Lawsonia promotion was a failure, he said, and the company needed more money.

"So what do they do?" he asked. "They again turned to old Joe Sucker Public in 1929, and with the stroke of a pen and a few sheets of paper they executed a bond for $1,500,000 and included that as an asset of H. O. Stone & Co. in their statement."

Trade Own Stock for Bonds.

Another effort of the company to obtain funds to save the business, Healy said, was the drive to sell Stone common stock and to get investors to trade valuable bonds for the stock.

Later, Healy said, the cash from outright purchases of the stock was exhausted and the officials again ran short of money.

"So they decided to take their preferred stock off the exchange. George and Needham went over to the stock exchange and there were told by the officials that their sales were objectionable and misleading, in particular their representation as to possible increase in value, and their methods of selling under the market price."

ANOTHER PAY CUT FOR U. S. EMPLOYES IS PLANNED IN BUDGET

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—It is reported that new pay reductions for all classes of federal employes will be recommended by the Hoover administration in the 1934 budget which will cover the fiscal year from July 1, 1933, to June 30, 1934. The best information available today was that President Hoover will recommend increasing the 8 1-3 per cent combined pay cut and furlough to at least 11 per cent and possibly to 15 per cent.

The administration definitely has decided to recommend pay cuts for certain sections of the unclassified service which will exceed 20 per cent. Members of the cabinet, agreed, it was said today, that the old pay cut must be extended for another year and a new cut ordered.

The decision to dig deeper into the billion dollar federal nonmilitary pay roll was taken after President Hoover had informed the cabinet a few days ago that the budget was still $70,000,000 short of his promised 550 million dollar reduction in appropriations compared with that to run to July 1, 1932. It is estimated that the pay cut voted last winter will save less than $100,000,000.

The federal budget which goes to the printer this week will carry recommendations for total appropriations in excess of 4 billion dollars including postal activities financed out of postal receipts.

If postal receipts financed by postal revenues are omitted the budget estimate is expected to range around 3 billion 700 million dollars compared with 3 billion 942 million dollars contained in last year's budget estimate.

BANK EMBEZZLER TO MAKE PAROLE PLEA TOMORROW

Walter Wolf, who embezzled $3,666,929 from the Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust company, will appear tomorrow before the subcommittee of the state board of pardons and paroles at Stateville penitentiary to ask parole on the first of ten consecutive sentences of one to ten years for embezzlement. Attorney Frank Sullivan, representing the bank, and Prosecutor Henry Ayers told the subcommittee yesterday that they would not oppose the move.

If Wolf's plea is granted, he will be placed on technical parole for six months and remain inside the prison walls. At the end of the six months he will start serving the second sentence. It was pointed out that if the same procedure were repeated on each of the sentences, Wolf, who entered the prison on Oct. 12, 1931, would gain his freedom in 14 years.

Mrs. Esther Wolf of Oak Park, wife of the prisoner, appeared yesterday before the subcommittee and asked complete freedom on parole for her husband. Prison officials said there was little hope of success for this request. Prosecutor Ayers said that he would take action to block the parole move if he found that Wolf had hidden away any of the money taken from the bank.

MACHADO ORDERS RELEASE OF 80 POLITICAL FOES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 28.—President Gerardo Machado today ordered Gen. Alberto Herrera, the army's chief of staff, to release at once 80 political prisoners. He also promised to liberate the remaining 153 within two weeks.

"I am acting spontaneously without influence or interference either from the United States or any other country," Machado said. "Within ten days I shall announce news of far greater significance than a release of prisoners."

Opposition Denies Deal.

Despite Machado's declarations, opposition circles denied they had made any pact or compromise with the government. They explained Machado's amnesty order by saying that "his attitude is due solely to pressure from the United States and other foreign powers because the lives of their representatives are continually threatened by unclassified opposition elements."

Opposition leaders announced that American Ambassador Harry F. Guggenheim's life was threatened recently in an anonymous letter which said that the killing of diplomats was intended to create an international conflict which would overthrow Machado's régime.

It is reported that similar notes were sent to other diplomats including Minister Rais of France. It is also alleged that foreign diplomats, fearing death, have made official representations to Secretary of State Orestes Ferrara, urging President Machado to solve existing political problems immediately.

Claim Deal With Exiles.

Opposition leaders claim that Guggenheim held several interveiws with former President Mario G. Menocal and other prominent exiles now in the United States during his recent summer vacation and that he promised to mediate upon his return to Cuba.

Three youths were sentenced to death today by a military court for the killing by bomb of Lieut. Dies Diaz, chief of the rural guards at Artemisa, on May 21. The wife of one of the men was sentenced to life imprisonment as an accomplice.

SLUG THEATER MANAGER; TAKE $2,500 IN OFFICE

George Christos, manager of a chain of four motion picture theaters, surrendered $2,500 in currency to two gunmen yesterday when they held him up in the second floor office of the Empress theater, 5230 South Halsted street. One of them struck him with a blackjack when he was slow in opening one of the two safes which were rifled. Christos had just reached his office when the pair entered. With revolvers pointed at his head they forced the manager to open one safe containing Saturday's receipts from the Empress, Wabash, Regent, and Rex theaters. The second safe contained Sunday's receipts. Christos objected to opening it and one of the bandits hit him. The cash was soon scooped up and the pair ran from the office.

EIGHT WOODMEN SPARE TREES ALL DAY LONG

Arboreal Surgery Is Art in the West Parks.

An air of peace and contentment hovered yesterday over seven men who lounged in a secluded glade in the west end of Garfield park. They were dreamily contemplative as they watched an eighth man hack with an ax at a dead tree.

The axman did not disturb the tranquillity of the scene with too energetic strokes of the blade. He performed his task with quiet confidence but with respect for the woodsman's art. His blows were leisurely and the pile of chips grew slowly. They were well formed chips, uniform in size and shape. There was admiration on the faces of the watchers as the notch in the tree grew deeper.

Sun Smiles on Scene.

Pale yellow sunlight shed a soft benediction upon the place. The man with the ax stopped now and then to join the others in deep inhalations of the crisp November air.

Then came tragedy. The handle of the ax splintered. The axman was disconcerted. Warm sympathy appeared on the faces of his companions. The seven stood for several minutes, solemnly regarding the axman, who slowly revolved the broken shaft of wood in his hands.

Several of the other men carried axes, but none offered to lend his implement to the unfortunate axman. Neither did any of them attempt to finish the job which he had started. It was apparent that the dead tree was that man's own tree, and no other might approach it.

One Tree; Eight Surgeons.

This incident was witnessed by a reporter and photographer who had been summoned by a call from a citizen who had observed with some curiosity that it now requires the services of eight tree surgeons to cut down one tree in the west park system. It was learned that the eight men were employes of the west park board, which has recently been subjected to some criticism concerning the padding of pay rolls, squandering of funds, and misuse of bond issue money.

The photographer elevated his camera to take a picture of the woodsmen. Immediately the quietness of the scene was shattered. Cries of alarm came from the men, and they shielded their faces much as do swaggering hoodlums being shown up at the detective bureau. Several hastened to get out of range of the lens.

The camera clicked. The tension was relieved. The men looked reproachfully at the reporter.

"What's all the excitement about?" the men were asked. "There's no harm in taking a picture, is there?"

"We don't want our faces in no newspaper pictures," said one of the men grufily.

The camera was leveled again. The men again hid their faces. One man with an ax, at a whispered command from a companion, sprang forward to wield an ax on the tree. The one who had whispered to him stood outside the range of the camera. The reporter approached him.

He Refuses His Face.

"Don't think I don't know what it's all about," he muttered to the reporter. "You wanna get a picture showing the men loafing. I know what it's all about. You don't get my face in any picture."

The men sauntered away through the park. They refused to answer most of the questions put to them. One said they were paid 63 cents an hour and up. Another declared the majority of the crew were civil service employes and not political appointees.

They attacked another tree. Again, the seven stood watching the one. But peace had disappeared from their midst. They wore hunted expressions, watching apprehensively the man with the camera. The sober beauty of the day had been lost for the eight tree surgeons of Garfield park.

RACKETEERS TRY TO LEVY ON KENO GAMES IN HOTELS

Seek a 50-50 Split, Police Told.

Hyde Park hotel and restaurant owners laid a weighty grievance before two detectives yesterday. The racketeers, they said, just wouldn't let an honest business man alone when he had a chance to pick up a bit of easy money and at the same time stimulate trade and popularize eating.

The magic word that spells money to both legitimate and illegitimate promoters is keno, defined by a dictionary as "a game of chance played by drawing numbers from an urn and covering with buttons the corresponding numbers on cards."

"We are the new keno syndicate," a swarthy man who gave his name as Garfield told the restaurateurs of the Hyde Park neighborhood. "Starting Dec. 5 (which is the day Thomas J. Courtney becomes state's attorney) we run your keno games for you, or, if you prefer, you run them and we take a fifty-fifty split."

An Old Carnival Game.

It wasn't much of a secret to the detectives that the old carnival game of keno had been revived to add to the pleasure of the diners in the fashionable places. Is it gambling? The detectives weren't sure, but why should this Garfield demand a cut on the take? Who were the syndicate members, the police wanted to know.

"This Garfield person threatened gun play," was the complaint of several of the keno promoters. "He said if we went along with the syndicate they would increase our dining room business. What are we going to do about it?"

The law enforcers went into a huddle. The business interests must have protection from racketeers, but must they buy protection from racketeers for the operation of a racket—if keno could be called a racket. They wanted to see how keno operated. They were shown.

How the Game Is Played.

"Everybody can now get a keno card," said the announcer in one hotel dining room. Knives, forks and spoons were dropped. Cards were distributed. It was explained that the game could be played for any amount to which all the diners agree. A keno card contains twenty-five numbers in five rows of five, each card having different combinations of numbers.

The master of ceremonies puts a handful of numbered cards into a hat, bowl, casserole or other receptacle. With deliberation he removes one card [not blindfolded, either] and announces the number thereon. The dining room guest participating in the healthful sport looks at his numbered card. If the announced number is found thereon, he shouts "keno" and puts a button, a coin, a salt cellar, or, as in the carnivals, a kernel of corn on the designated number.

How Winner Is Decided.

The master of ceremonies continues drawing numbers. The winner is the lucky person who first covers five numbers in a row on his card, vertically, horizontally, or from corner to corner. This lucky persons gets all the players have contributed, minus a percentage which the host now takes out "to pay the help," and in the future it will be minus what the syndicate claims, according to the hotel men.

"My kids play that game and call it lottoes," said one of the detectives.

"Let's refer it to State's Attorney Elect Courtney," said the other law enforcer, thereby unburdening both of a weighty load of duty and ethics.

PURSE BAFFLES THIEF, SO OWNER HELPS UNLOCK IT

A bandit held up Mrs. Gertrude Judson, 30 years old, of 912 Noyes street, Evanston, last night as she passed an alley at Ohio street and Menard avenue on the way to the real estate office of her brother, Otto E. Herring at 5810 Chicago avenue.

The robber took Mrs. Judson's purse and started away. As he walked he tried to open the purse, but couldn't so finally he turned back and called Mrs Judson to him. "Open it," he ordered She obeyed and the robber extracted $77, returned the empty purse, and departed.

MEETING SEEKS A DECISION ON SUBWAY LEVIES

After a conference yesterday between city officials and representatives of loop property owners Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, announced that progress had been made toward a decision as to whether the city should proceed with the special assessment cases involved in the State street subway project. Another meeting will be held next Monday, he said.

In the interim the city officials will work on a plan for submission to the property owners. Whether this plan will provide for a complete cessation of legal and engineering activities in connection with the proposed subway the city officials refused to say, but an opinion was expressed in the city hall that not all of the work would be stopped. The property owners have asked the city to discontinue the prosecution of the special assessment cases on the ground that they cannot pay the assessments at this time.

Others at the conference yesterday were Corporation Counsel Sexton, Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman of the council local transportation committee; D. E. Kelly, Attorney Walter L. Fisher, James Simpson, chairman of the board of the Commonwealth Edison company; B. M. Winston, who represented property owners, and B. F. Lindheimer, president of the board of local improvements.

GUY LOMBARDO TAKES ADVANCE PEEP AT NEW DODGE SIX

New York, N. Y.—Guy Lombardo, personable leader of one of America's most famous dance orchestras, and musical idol of the younger set, deserted his baton today for an advance showing of the new Dodge Six.

"It's a hit!" was the enthusiastic comment of the rhythm king afterwards. And since Mr. Lombardo has been responsible for some of the biggest hits in the song world, his statement may be considered prophetic.

"The new Dodge Six will click with everybody who wants a smart, youthful car that is sporty and smooth. And it's so peppy! It has the zip and go of a snappy fox-trot, combined with the gliding ease of a dreamy waltz. It has everything the public wants—good looks, impressive power, flashing speed and brilliant performance. And when you add to that the amazing value represented by this great car you've got a combination that will take the country by storm."

GUY LOMBARDO

Although details of the new car have not yet been officially released by the Dodge organization, rumor has it that Dodge is prepared to spring a real surprise when the car is formally presented. According to reports, the new Dodge Six will be offered with an astounding array of features, at a radical low price which is going to completely upset all established standards of value in the motor car world.

AGREE ON FARM AND BEER LAWS AS FIRST ACTION

Roosevelt and Robinson Confer on Program.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Strenuous efforts will be made by the Democrats in congress to pass farm relief and beer legislation in the coming short session, it was announced today by Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader of the senate after a lengthy conference with President Elect Roosevelt.

SENATOR ROBINSON

Senator Robinson said that he and the President elect and Senators Key Pittman of Nevada and John H. Bankhead of Alabama had discussed the entire legislative program and the policy to be followed by the Democratic leadership in both houses.

Special committees of senators, all Democrats, will be appointed immediately upon the convening of the short session, Mr. Robinson said, and these committees will coöperate with other agencies in the preparation of specific bills for farm relief and for the legalization and taxation of real beer.

Reserve "Plums" for March.

That the Democrats will take steps immediately to reserve for themselves any patronage plums that may be ready for the plucking was indicated when Senator Robinson announced that all recess appointments, and any others that may be made by President Hoover during the next two months, would not be confirmed by the senate, except in one or two cases.

"We expect to carry all these appointments over," the senate leader said, "until after March 4, and then President Roosevelt will make his own appointments."

Asked definitely whether this would apply to all cases, Senator Robinson said there would be a few exceptions, but he did not know what they were at this time. Asked about whether the senate would confirm the appointment of Roy D. Chapin as secretary of commerce, Mr. Robinson said "of course that will be done."

Hold Up Wilkerson.

The senator said he thought the senate would confirm the appointment of Charles R. Crisp, a Democrat, to the tariff commission. But other pending appointments, including that of Judge James Wilkerson, elevated by President Hoover from the federal District court at Chicago to the Circuit Court of Appeals, will be held up, he declared.

Judge Wilkerson's appointment, coming after he had sentenced Al Capone to the penitentiary, provoked a stormy battle in the senate committee when railway labor representatives declared him to be "unfair" to organized labor and protested against confirmation.

The appointments of Atlee Pomerene and Gardner Cowles, Des Moines publisher, to the Reconstruction Finance corporation, will also be held up, it was indicated by the senator, who said the procedure would apply to all appointments of judges, postmasters, marshals, district attorneys, collectors of customs and other similar posts.

Follows Precedent.

"How do you justify such action?" Senator Robinson was asked.

"O, it has been the custom for the incoming administrations to inherit the patronage made available during the interim between the election and the inauguration," he answered.

Senator Robinson said that the estimates on revenue to be derived from a tax on beer ran from 40 to 400 million dollars, and declined to give an estimate of his own. He declared his party had no intention of attempting to reorganize the senate with the aid of the radical Republicans, but would go along in the lame duck session with the special committees of Democrats functioning informally.

Asked if his party would seek the support of the radical Republicans such as Hiram Johnson, Robert M. LaFollette, Bronson Cutting, Gerald Nye and others, Senator Robinson said the party would find support from any senators who favor the legislation proposed in the Democratic platform.

The senator was doubtful as to how much legislation promised in the Democratic platform could be enacted at the short session, but he said a start would be made. As to economy, and the attitude the Democrats would take to balance the budget, he declared "Everybody favors economy; the only disagreement is in details. We will work it out."

Gov. Roosevelt was visited today by Henry A. Wallace, editor of Wallace's Farmer of Des Moines, son of the former secretary of agriculture, who helped turn the farmers of Iowa Democratic with his support of Roosevelt.

J. A. Farley Arrives.

James A. Farley, national Democratic chairman; Frank C. Walker, the Democratic treasurer, and Forbes Morgan, an uncle of Mrs. Roosevelt and a member of the Democratic finance committee, arrived in Warm Springs today and joined in the discussion of political appointments with Senator Robinson. Their primary purpose is to discuss with Gov. Roosevelt means for funding the deficit of the party campaign fund, which is $700,000. Of this sum, $300,000 remains unpaid of the debts of the 1928 campaign committee.

Mr. Farley and Treasurer Walker have prepared quotas for each state organization to raise immediately in order to wipe out the deficit. New York state is expected to produce half of the $700,000 sum.

ROOSEVELT MAY VISIT CHICAGO ON JAN. 7 FOR JACKSON DAY DINNER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—President Elect Roosevelt may go to Chicago for a big Jackson day celebration on Jan. 7, it was learned today.

Warren Bartholomew, a Chicago lawyer delegated by Irvin Rooks, president of the Iroquois club, to invite the President elect to Chicago on that day, called upon Mr. Roosevelt today and came away in high hopes that the nation's next chief executive will accept the invitation.

The President elect was most cordial," said Mr. Bartholomew, "and he repeated what he had said in a letter to Mr. Rooks, that he was eager to attend a big victory dinner in Chicago. He thought the Jan. 7 date was a good one, and he promised that as soon as he gets back to Albany, about Dec. 11, he will send us a message as to whether he can come.

"We are planning a grand celebration in Mr. Roosevelt's honor, and have been working on the details since he told a delegation from our club, at Milwaukee during the campaign, that he wanted very much to come back to Chicago after the election."

Jackson day usually is celebrated on Jan. 8, the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans, but since this date falls on a Sunday this year, the Iroquoians have advanced the date one day.

Mr. Roosevelt has made no announcement of his plans following Jan. 1 when he retires as governor of New York, except to say that he plans to spend part of the winter in his "Little White House" in the pines here at Warm Springs.

CRUSADER SEES MORAL CRISIS IN DRY LETDOWN

Clark Finds U. S. Wide Open to Bootleggers.

The greatest moral crisis this country has ever faced is now before the American people, Commander-in-Chief Fred G. Clark of The Crusaders told the Agate club yesterday in an estimate of the prohibition situation. He spoke at noon in the Medinah Athletic club.

A complete letdown in all branches of prohibition enforcement, resulting from the widespread but mistaken belief that repeal of the 18th amendment is "just around the corner" brought the crisis, he said.

Finds Country Wide Open.

"Since the election," he added, "the country is being left wide open to bootleggers, gangsters, racketeers and corrupt politicians. Speakeasies are flourishing as openly as the old-time saloons, bootlegging is practiced without any sort of camouflage, high school pupils are being solicited to buy gin at 75 cents a quart, and already the governors of two states have issued orders releasing all prisoners held on liquor charges."

Although beer, or beer and light wines, may be legalized by congress next month and some revenue produced, it would not solve the liquor problem, Commander Clark declared.

"This great problem can never be solved," he added, "until the way is made clear for the adoption of a system, or systems, of liquor control which will not only wipe out the evils of prohibition but also will prevent the return of the obnoxious conditions which existed before prohibition was adopted."

Calls Repeal "Toughest Nut."

Explaining that one system of control might be satisfactory to such a manufacturing state as Ohio, yet wholly unsatisfactory to the agricultural state of Kansas, Mr. Clark asserted that "it is obvious that before we can build a system of liquor control which will meet the various conditions which exist throughout the country we must repeal the 18th amendment. And this," he said, "is the toughest nut to crack."

The fanatical drys believe, Clark continued, that because only thirteen states could block ratification of a repeal resolution, they can block repeal. The election, however, he said, sent many so-called wets to congress. The Crusaders have figured the lineup in the housce and senate as follows:

HOUSE.		SENATE.
Wet	343	Wet	61
Dry	29	Dry	30
Doubtful	63	Doubtful	5
Total	435	Total	96

"It is obvious," said the commander, "that there will be no trouble in the house. But in the senate, although the figures show almost two-thirds majority wet, there are many so listed who may not vote for outright repeal. So here is where we must center our present attack."

VETERAN HEAD OF MORTON SCHOOL TO FIGHT OUSTER

Harry V. Church, veteran superintendent of the J. Sterling Morton High school in Cicero, who has criticised the administration of affairs by the high school board, yesterday learned that Frank A. Svoboda, the board president, would like to see him removed from his position.

"Mr. Church has been here 34 years," said Mr. Svoboda. "He should realize he is pretty old for the job and retire at the end of the school year."

The superintendent delivered a tart answer.

"When I came here in 1899 the school had fifty-four pupils," he said. "Now it has 6,600. I can play tennis and walk six miles any day, and I doubt if the president of the board can do that. I do not intend to quit. The fight will be carried on. Even if the ship is sinking because of faulty work by the board it still can be saved, and I am ready to do my best."

The force of 21 "house detectives," which was placed in the school by the board—its enemies said it was only to make jobs for the men—was out to eleven yesterday. The presence of even that many is to be considered at a meeting of a newly organized parent-teachers' association Thursday evening in the school auditorium.

HOTEL REMODELS SPECIAL SUITE FOR THE GARNERS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Although Speaker Garner may continue to decline "invitations out" as vice president, he already is equipped for more lavish entertaining at home.

He and Mrs. Garner have just moved into a luxurious suite at the Washington hotel, with large drawing room and dining room, etc., especially remodeled for them during the summer recess.

All through the last session the simple living Garners were quite content with a smaller suite. Often they took their meals by preference in the hotel's coffee shop.

But furniture done in old ivory, green brocade hangings, and carpets soft to the tread have taken their place in the busy days of the Garners, indications of the social prestige which goes with the vice presidency.

CERMAK, MYERS, WHEALAN BACK BUDGET LIMIT

Officials and Bankers Act to Avert Defaults.

ing of the Northern Trust company, Frank Gordon of the First National bank, Frank McNair of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, and John Dennison of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company.

"Mayor Cermak and Ald. Clark, Mr. Whealan and Mr. Myers gave unqualified assurances that they will go to any lengths possible to reduce expenditures for 1933, so as to live within anticipated revenues for the coming year as worked out by the citizens committee," said Mr. Sargent, who was named spokesman for the conference at its end.

Mr. Sargent said that his committee agreed to work on drafts of bills to be presented to the legislature in January, designed to accomplish three objects. These, he said, are a "general central method of budgetary control," to bring all expenditures of the 419 taxing bodies in Cook county under the supervision of a central body; establishment of uniform accounting systems for all of the 419 governments; and improved methods of tax collections.

Another Meeting This Week.

The Sargent committee is to have another meeting some time this week, at which it is expected that the committee will release detailed figures on what it believes each of the local governments should levy for 1933.

The bond and interest obligations which were discussed at the meeting, due on Jan. 1, follow:

City—	Principal.	Interest.
Water certificates	$ 300,000	$ 383,143
Bonds	15,036,500	2,836,858
Board of education—
Educational fund bonds		216,684
Revolving fund bonds	3,500,000	470,000
Totals	$18,836,500	$3,906,690

In addition, the school board must meet $700,000 in principal and $46,000 in interest on educational fund bond maturities on Feb. 1.

Savage Warns School Heads.

Howard P. Savage, business manager of the board of education, instructed the board's department heads yesterday that in preparing their estimates for the 1933 budget they shall not include any expense "which cannot be justified by present conditions."

"The business manager must, under the law, present a balanced budget to the trustees," said Mr. Savage. "We are going to keep within our anticipated revenue and offer a lower budget than last year's. Probably the board will cut below that."

Mr. Savage added that before he finishes his budget estimates, he will ask the school trustees to decide as a matter of policy whether they wish economies to be effected by staggering work for employés, by reducing the staff of employés, or by a general cut in salaries and wages.

Governor Elect Horner assured the committee that he will exercise all of the power of the state executive department to reëstablish the credit of local governments throughout the state, including those in Cook county, Mr. Sargent said. The question of consolidation of local governments was not broached to Judge Horner at the meeting, it was learned.

MRS. ROOSEVELT SPEAKS FOR GIRL WITHOUT A JOB

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—In behalf of "the girl without a job," Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President elect, made a speech tonight.

She spoke in Carnegie hall, at a benefit concert for the Woman's Trade Union league of New York, asking her audience to give this winter to the league, the Y. W. C. A., and other organizations that are trying to help the jobless girls, "not only all the money you can afford to give, but also a little of yourselves."

"We women," she said, "who have learned what other women's lives are like, know that the average wage earning woman in the past could not save enough to meet a crisis such as we are going through.

"The very fact that in order to live people will work any number of hours, and take any wages that they can get, and that this is a necessity during this crisis, means that we must guard against having these standards remain permanently as prosperity returns to us."

R. F. C. WILL HEAR NEW ILLINOIS LOAN PLAN TODAY

Cermak Heads Group Seeking 5 Millions.

Mayor Cermak headed a delegation of city, county, state, and relief officials who departed for Washington yesterday afternoon to apply to the Reconstruction Finance corporation this morning for another loan to the state for the relief of the idle. The state will need slightly more than $5,000,000 to continue relief next month, officials said.

The delegation was composed of President Emmett Whealan of the county board, President Edward J. Kelly of the south park board, State's Attorney Elect Thomas J. Courtney, at present a state senator, Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton, Edward L. Ryerson, chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, and Charles B. Goodspeed, a member of the relief commission.

Hearing Set for Today.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the relief commission, arrived in Washington yesterday morning to place data on Illinois' relief needs before the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and De Witt Billman, legislative adviser to Gov. Emmerson, is to meet the delegation there today. The group has an appointment with the R. F. C. board for this morning.

The Illinois delegation will point out to the R. F. C. five projects which are under way at home as evidence of the state's good faith in trying to care for its own problems, relief officials said. The points include the drive for a $7,500,000 fund being conducted by the Emergency Welfare fund, to be spent for the support of local private charities other than relief of the idle, and the recently enacted law allowing the counties to divert their shares of the 3 cent state gasoline tax to relief. This law is expected to make many downstate counties self-sustaining from a relief standpoint.

20 Millions Loaned to State.

The other points are the three measures passed at the last special session of the legislature, authorizing Cook county to issue $17,000,000 of bonds without referendum; authorizing the adoption of county sales taxes at the option of the counties, and authorizing the counties to issue bonds financed by the issuing counties' shares of the state gasoline tax.

Illinois has borrowed a total of $20,303,150 from the R. F. C. to date, and the maximum to be loaned to any state for relief has been set at $45,000,000.

The relief commission has estimated that the state will spend $6,505,000 for relief next month. Mr. Ryerson said that a diversion of Cook county's share of the gasoline tax and other sources of revenue in view in downstate counties will reduce the amount now needed from the R. F. C. to slightly more than $5,000,000.

May Seek Advance on Bonds.

"I would not say that our application will be for only $5,000,000," Mr. Ryerson said. "I don't know whether we will talk in terms of one month, or several months. I believe it is the intention of the delegation to take up the subject of the disposition of the $17,000,000 of county bonds with the R. F. C. as well."

Mr. Whealan said the bond issue, and means of disposing of it, will be discussed with the R. F. C., but he also said emphatically that determined efforts will be made to market the bonds.

The delegation departed at 1:45 p. m. on the Capitol Limited of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

Governor Frees Zack Miller from Jail

Zack Miller of 101 Ranch fame, who was freed from jail at Newkirk, Okla., yesterday by Gov. William H. Murray. Miller had been sentenced for contempt of court for failure to pay back alimony.

[Acme Photo.]

Gets a Pardon

Newkirk, Okla., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Col. Zack Miller of the 101 ranch was released late today under a pardon of Gov. W. H. Murray from a jail sentence imposed Saturday for contempt of court growing out of his failure to pay temporary alimony to Mrs. Margaret Blevins-Miller.

Prepared to use force if necessary, two National Guard officers executed the freedom order for the rancher over the protest of the Kay county sheriff, Joe McFadden.

Neither he nor District Judge Claud Duval, who sentenced Miller, recognized the governor's right to free a civil prisoner.

"False imprisonment and the liberty of a citizen," Gov. Murray said, "are concerns of the chief executive. Under the Oklahoma constitution a citizen cannot be imprisoned for debts."

Miller went to jail for failure to pay $100 attorney fees and $40 a month to Mrs. Miller, from whom he was divorced in Louisiana in March, 1931. An appeal is pending.

DELAYS TAX ON MEMBERSHIPS IN STOCK EXCHANGE

Judge Orders Jacobs to Await High Court Ruling

Circuit Judge William V. Brothers issued an order yesterday restraining Assessor J. L. Jacobs from assessing memberships in the Chicago Board of Trade and Chicago and New York Stock exchanges as personal property until the Illinois Supreme court rules whether they are assessable as such.

The action involves personal property assessments totaling about $5,000,000. Mr. Jacobs had valued board of trade memberships at $4,875 each for purposes of taxation, those in the Chicago Stock exchange at $7,400 each, and those in the New York exchange at $111,000 each.

Attorney Lester L. Falk, representing members of the two stock exchanges, informed Judge Brothers that the Koester mandamus case, one of the numerous actions brought by the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers, involves among other points the contention that brokers' memberships in exchanges are taxable as personal property. The Supreme court is expected to rule in that case within a month.

Overrules Tax Objections.

County Judge Jarecki yesterday overruled objections to 1928, 1929 and 1930 taxes in 375 cases involving more than 1,000 parcels of property and approximately $200,000 in taxes. Among these were 18 parcels belonging to the University of Chicago. Attorneys for the university asked that half the penalties be waived by the county and agreed to pay aggregate taxes amounting to more than $100,000.

Attorney Paul H. Moore representing the Honoré and Potter Palmer estate, asserted that his clients had paid a total of $2,165,866 in taxes for the years from 1927 through 1930. He said that he was protesting approximately $450,000 in 1929 and 1930 taxes, after Judge Jarecki sustained his objection to $57,548 in 1928 taxes. The lawyer said that his objections to 1929 and 1930 taxes were on practically the same grounds as those made to the 1928 levy. The estate was included in a group of cases for which Judge Jarecki sustained his objection to $57,548 in 1928 taxes. The lawyer said that his objections to 1929 and 1930 taxes were on practically the same grounds as those made to the 1928 levy. The estate was included in a group of cases for which Judge Jarecki announced Sunday that he would demand immediate trial.

Parke E. Simmons Protests.

Parke E. Simmons, 73 years old, wealthy retired lawyer of Evanston, appeared yesterday before the board of tax appeals and protested a $37,000 personal property assessment made against him for 1931.

In his complaint Simmons swore that the full net value of his personal property, including stocks, bonds and cash, totaled $1,730. Fred W. Brummel of the appeal board ordered a reappraisal and continued the case to Dec. 5.

The appeals board was informed that Simmons employs four servants, has a $150,000 home, a valuable art collection, memberships in seven clubs and balances exceeding $1,000 each in two banks. Simmons lost a suit several months ago to annul his marriage to Mrs. Mary Demar Wright Simmons. She divorced him later and won a $35,000 settlement.

Slayer Loses Plea

VARNER CORRY.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Judge Thomas J. Lynch ruled yesterday that Varner Corry, 16 years old, must stand trial a second time in the Criminal court on a charge of murder. The court overruled the motion of Defense Attorney James M. Burke that the case be transferred to the Juvenile court.

Corry shot and killed Policeman Edward Smith on Memorial day, 1931, when the policeman caught him in the swimming pool of the John Marshall High school. Corry was sentenced to 18 years in the penitentiary in the first trial, heard by Judge Joseph Sabath without a jury. The case was reversed by the state Supreme court and remanded for trial.

Prosecutor Harry Busch opposed the motion of the defense and said that "coddling" of boy criminals was responsible for the many murders by boys. He pointed out that the Juvenile court has no jurisdiction in a murder case.

Attorney Burke argued that the blame for boy criminals belonged to society for permitting children to view motion pictures and read sensational literature in which gangsters are glorified.

H. J. BYRD STARTS MOVE FOR LOWER UTILITY RATES

County Board Bill Asks Governor to Act.

Immediate action by the Illinois commerce commission toward reduction of gas, electric, and telephone rates was demanded yesterday in a resolution presented to the county board by Commissioner Homer J. Byrd. The resolution petitions Gov. Emmerson to insist that preliminary measures be undertaken by the commission.

H. J. BYRD.

Present rates should be reduced to conform with the new standard of living and the cost and value of service with a fair return to the utility companies, Commissioner Byrd said. He pointed out that, though wages, salaries, rents, and prices have declined, the cost of public utility service has not been reduced.

Attacks Suburban Rates.

The commerce commission was charged with failure to assume the responsibility of protecting the public against exorbitant rates. The commission has the power to "examine public utilities and keep informed as to the general condition" under legislative enactments.

"It is claimed that rates charged in that part of Cook county lying outside the city for gas, electric, and telephone service are far in excess of the rates for consumers in the city and exceed reasonable cost of value for the service," the resolution said.

Commissioner Amelia Sears congratulated Commissioner Byrd as performing "a real service" to his constituents. Other commissioners joined in support of the resolution, which will be discussed at the next meeting.

The board rejected a proposal of bankers to take over the $17,000,000 of relief bonds voted last week by the legislature. The bankers demanded that the bonds bear 5 per cent interest. The finance committee of the board limited the interest to 3 per cent at its meeting Friday.

Ousted Employés to Be Paid.

A delegation representing the 250 temporary employés of the assessors' office, ousted by Assessor J. L. Jacobs when their work was completed, were told their salaries soon will be paid in full. The employés have a total of $135,000 due them. The board has negotiated sale of 1931 tax warrants to make the payment.

Commissioner Sears introduced a resolution suggesting the board invite representatives of the citizens' committee on public expenditures to sit in on all county budget meetings to aid in preparation of a 1933 budget.

PHILADELPHIA GETS $1,500,000 LOAN, BUT JOBS MAY BE CUT OFF

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Payless since Nov. 1, the 23,000 employés of Philadelphia city and county will receive during the next two days the two weeks' salaries due them on Nov. 15, as the result of negotiations completed this evening for a bank loan of $1,500,000.

In announcing the fact Mayor J. Hampton Moore said there was no certainty of further payments "for some time to come" and warned that further layoffs among employés, 2,700 of whom have been dropped so far this year, might be necessary. In some quarters it was reported that it might possibly be the last pay for this year.

Since Nov. 15 Mayor Moore and his associates have been attempting to negotiate a loan of $6,000,000 from banks to meet all pay roll obligations to the end of the year. The bankers decided to lend only $1,500,000 at this time.

Ten Per Cent Tax in New York.

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—A 10 per cent tax on the salaries of all city employés, beginning Jan. 1, was suggested to the board of aldermen considering the 1933 budget today. At the same time the hospitals department informed 800 low paid employés that they would be dismissed the first of the year.

It was possible, police said, that he had been lured to his death by a woman.

POLITICIANS GET BUSY ON COUNCIL, COURT ELECTIONS

F. A. Bicek Indorsed for Kerner Vacancy.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The old dictum of politics that life is one election after another was demonstrated yesterday when the politicians began to prepare for the next contest over city council seats and for the June judicial elections. The first aldermanic petitions appeared in circulation during the day. First day for filing is Dec. 24, and Christmas eve is expected to find a long line of aldermanic hosiery hung up. The election is Feb. 28, when candidates for aldermen receiving a majority vote are declared elected. In wards where none gets a majority, the highest two candidates have a runoff race in a supplementary election April 4.

Picked for Court Vacancy.

The Democratic organization by unanimous vote recommended Frank A. Bicek for appointment to the vacancy on the Circuit court which will be occasioned when Judge Otto Kerner resigns from the bench to be inaugurated as attorney general in January. Mr. Bicek is a master in chancery. He is prominent in Bohemian-American circles, lives in the 22d ward, Mayor Cermak's ward, and is one of the directors of the Associated Catholic Charities.

Democratic leaders likewise began to mull over the judicial elections in June. Twenty judges of the Circuit court of Cook county are to be elected at that time. So also is a member of the Illinois Supreme court in the Seventh district. Justice Frederic R. De Young, Republican, comes up for reelection in the district which is composed of the counties of Cook, Lake, Will, Kankakee, and Du Page.

Democrats Oppose Coalition.

Coalition on a bench ticket so far seems to find little favor among the victorious Democrats. At the same time, a feeling is expressed by some leaders that some of the outstanding Republican judges should not fall victims to party politics. The general talk around headquarters is that the Democrats might indorse some Republicans if they will run on the Democratic ticket.

The situation would be somewhat similar to that of the judicial election of 1929, which was a pivotal election—it is generally accounted the decisive political battle which was followed by the Democratic landslides of the last two years. In that election, the Democrats, under Cermak leadership combined with the Deneen Republican group, and the joint ticket ran as Democrats on the Democratic ticket.

DEATHS OF THREE IN AUTO CRASH FOUND ACCIDENT

The three persons who were killed early Sunday morning when their automobile struck a steel bridge pillar in Jackson boulevard, came to accidental deaths, a coroner's jury decided yesterday after hearing the statement made to the police by one of the survivors.

The dead were Dr. William E. Werninghaus, 138 Broadway, Melrose Park, dentist and trustee of the Proviso Township High school; Karl Gregor, 1418 North 18th avenue, Melrose Park, salesman, and Miss Dolores Orzulak, 22, of 2121 West Chicago avenue. Other passengers in the machine were Mrs. Harriet Putchaven, 22, of 1857 South Loomis street, and Leslie J. Smith, 7606 Harrison street, Forest Park. They are in the Garfield Park hospital. The crash occurred beneath the viaduct where the Belt railway crosses Jackson boulevard near Kenton avenue.

There were two deaths in Chicago yesterday, increasing the Cook county automobile toll for the year to 1,023. The victims:

James Wood, 60 years old, 222 South Morgan street. Died at the County hospital. He was hit by a truck earlier in the day at Madison and Des Plaines streets.

John Fadie, 50 years old, 5225 Calumet avenue. Killed last evening by an automobile at Indiana avenue and 50th street. The driver fled.

PANAMA CANAL TRAFFIC TIED UP BY HEAVY RAINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Nov. 28.—Panama canal shipping is tied up by the heaviest rains since 1923. The Chagres river rose 21 feet in six hours and is flowing at a rate of 114,000 feet a second. Gatun's fourteen spillways and three lock culverts and Miraflores' four spillways are releasing the water at a rate of only 110,000 feet per second.

At Madden dam, a $15,000,000 project which is being constructed to give added control over the river, derricks and other machinery were swept over a cofferdam. The damage is estimated at $80,000. The entire force of two construction companies battled for eight hours to save what they could.

Should the rains continue, the canal's operations must be halted until the river's current slows down, officials announced today. Nine ships, including the passenger steamship Tainue, bound from England to New Zealand, are tied up. Currents from the spillways and culverts prevent the operation of the locks.

'IGGY THE KILLER' IS EXAMINED BY HIS OWN ALIENIST

Granted a Private Test After Court Battle.

James (Iggy) Varecha was subjected to a two hour examination last evening by Dr. Orlando Scott, retained as a defense alienist, after Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court had ruled that the 17 year old confessed killer-rapist might be examined outside the presence of state alienists.

Dr. Scott made a thorough physical examination of Varecha, then sent the youth back to his cell in the behavior clinic section of the county jail. Dr. Scott said that he will examine his client twice more, and that other alienists will probably be called to help him. The tests are expected to be the basis of an insanity defense.

Case Set For Dec. 7.

Varecha is scheduled to appear on Dec. 7 before Judge Prystalski charged with the murder of Frank Jordan, who was shot to death on Nov. 16 during an attempted robbery on the south side. The murder, Varecha admitted in his confession, was followed by the kidnaping and rape of Miss Lillian Henry.

Judge Prystalski appointed Dr. Scott to make the examination of Varecha after an argument in his court, in which Joseph Nosek, defense attorney, won the right to have his client examined in private.

Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler opposed the private examination, urging that the state be permitted to have alienists present. Attorney Nosek objected, on the ground that such an arrangement would be a violation of Varecha's constitutional rights and would amount to the defendant's giving testimony against himself.

Judge Prystalski's Reasoning.

"This is a criminal case, a trial for murder, and one of the defenses is insanity," said Judge Prystalski. "If this were a civil trial it would be a different situation. I believe I would be on dangerous ground and heading toward a reversible error to force the defendant to submit to an examination in the presence of a state alienist.

"The defendant has a right to be examined by such persons as he deems proper without interference. True, there is no law on the matter, but why go through legal maneuvers to find out that such a move might result in reversal?"

Prosecutor Butler said he could produce no legal decisions to support his argument and the order for the private defense examination was entered.

Before leaving the courtroom Prosecutor Butler asked if the trial would proceed on Dec. 7.

"We will proceed on that day or very soon thereafter," Judge Prystalski told him. Attorneys pointed out that a case in which an insanity defense is offered must be heard by a jury.

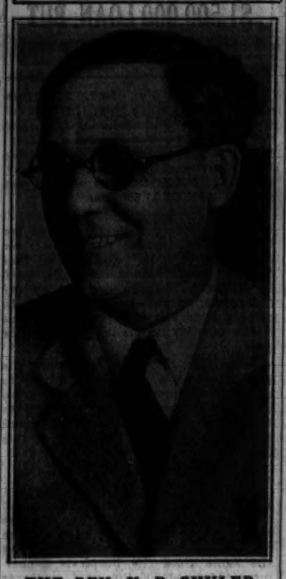
Loses Radio Plea



THE REV. H. P. SHULER.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The District of Columbia Court of Appeals today upheld a decision of the federal radio commission prohibiting the Rev. Robert P. Shuler from operating station KGEF in Los Angeles. Shuler ran for the United States senate on a prohibition ticket in the last election, but was defeated by William Gibbs McAdoo.

The radio commission barred the Los Angeles minister from the air a year ago on the ground that his station had been "used to attack a religious organization and members thereof, thus serving to promote religious strife and antagonism." The commission at that time refused to relicense the station, which was originally licensed to the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, South.

The Court of Appeals in sustaining the commission today declared that not only had the clergyman broadcast attacks against the Roman Catholic church, but likewise had attacked judges of the California bench who rendered a decision against him, and he had attacked other civil officials in California.

In two instances, said the court, Shuler "had been convicted of attempting in his radio talks to obstruct the orderly administration of public justice." Likewise, the opinion found Mr. Shuler's broadcasts "sensational rather than instructive," and declared "continuance of the broadcasting program of the appellant is not in the public interest."

to my father. I know what it's about. I know what I'll have to go through."

The clerk entered the guilty plea and noted down the waiving of a jury. Again the judge admonished the boy.

"You understand that you are pleading guilty to the crime of murder, you're sure of that?" Bert was becoming impatient at the reiteration. He shifted his feet and determinedly nodded his head.

State Offers Three Witnesses.

Prosecutor Ditchburne announced the state was ready to begin presenting the evidence immediately if the court desired. He had subpœnaed three witnesses, Chief Clarence C. Neuschaefer of the Riverside police, Sergt. A. A. Vickery, and Policeman William Crowe.

"First, is there any question of insanity to be raised?" the judge asked. "If the defendant's mental condition is to be an issue, it will be necessary to have the report of the court alienist, Dr. Hoffman."

Dr. Hoffman stepped forward. He had examined the boy on three occasions, he said, but required further time to complete his report.

"We're not contending that he's insane," said Attorney Kirkland. "We have no objection to the court alienist. We'd like to see the case disposed of this week. This is in accordance with the wishes of his mother."

"It usually takes two weeks to obtain a complete report," the judge reminded the attorney.

"We don't want the case to drag out," Mr. Kirkland reiterated, then, addressing Dr. Hoffman, said, "Can't you make an examination in less than two weeks?"

The alienist reflected a moment and answered that he couldn't.

Defense Asks Continuance.

"I suggest a continuance to Saturday," Attorney Kirkland said. "If the examination has not been made by that time it can be postponed. If the report is ready at that time, then let's go ahead."

All acquiesced. The court then set the case for Saturday at 9 a. m. This brought an objection from Mr. Ditchburne.

"We can't have the witnesses on hand at that early hour," he said.

"Issue subpœnas and see that the witnesses are here," the judge ordered.

During this discussion Bert's mind seemed far away. His head cocked a little to one side, he was studying the patterns on the ceiling with a dreamy look when the judge's words brought him back sharply.

"I expect all witnesses here at 9 o'clock sharp," said the judge. "I want the full evidence presented to me, including the evidence of this defendant."

Father Squeezes Hand.

That concluded the arraignment. Bailiffs flexed their shoulders to clear an aisle. Bert, lapsing into his dreamy lassitude again, turned to straggle along with his guards, when a hand was laid on his shoulder.

It was his father. The boy looked up with a wry smile. The father's hand squeezed once, in a gesture of affection. Then the boy went on through the crowd, back to the county jail.

Police Big Game Hunters Called to Catch 'Possum!

Chicago gained added fame as a center of wild life yesterday when Sergts. Michael Naughton and James McInerney, of the Scotland Yard detail, were sent out hunting. They were told an animal was terrorizing the neighborhood of Canalport avenue and 21st street. They took a high powered rifle, but the only animal they found was a 'possum, while no one was much terrified. The 'possum was taken to Scotland Yard.

NEVADA GASES KILLER; CALIFORNIA WARDENS WATCH; OPINIONS VARY

Carson City, Nev., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Everett T. Mull, former building contractor of Morganton, N. C., was put to death in the lethal gas chamber at the Nevada penitentiary today. He was the fifth to die by that method since its adoption in this state in 1921.

Two California prison wardens and their physicians, who observed the execution with a view to possible substitution of gas for hanging by their state, indicated afterwards they had reacted differently to the proceedings.

To Warden James B. Holohan of San Quentin prison, gas seemed "the simplest and most humane way of disposing of such cases."

Warden Court Smith of Folsom said only that he was "not very hot for it."

They witnessed the execution at the request of Gov. James Rolph, who two years ago vetoed a lethal gas bill in California, not wishing "to experiment with human misery."

The entire proceedings, from the time Mull entered the death chamber until he was officially pronounced dead, required only 13 minutes.

Mull was convicted of slaying John C. O'Brien, his partner in bootlegging, at Las Vegas more than a year ago. Mull disappeared from North Carolina in May, 1931.

A. F. L. DEMANDS 5 DAY WEEK, 6 HOURS DAILY

Supports Its Chief in Starting New Fight.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—A call to the militant spirit of organized labor was sounded at the convention of the American Federation of Labor today by President William Green. He declared that labor would strive with all its strength to compel the universal adoption in industry of the five day week and the six hour day.

Stirring the delegates to waves of applause Mr. Green said labor's patience with industrial management was at an end. Labor's paramount policy, he said, henceforth would be to resort to "forceful methods," if necessary, to establish the shorter work week. By those methods he meant use of every weapon in the union armory—economic, political, and industrial.

Approves 5 Day Week.

The speech was followed by the unanimous adoption of a report calling for the "universal adoption without delay" of the six hour day and the five day week, with the maintenance of present wage rates at least and wage increases if possible. The declaration included strong opposition to the share-the-work movement "with its pay reduction policy now urged in many quarters and which would defeat the very purpose it is proclaimed to serve."

It was indicated by Mr. Green that the spearhead in the movement for the thirty hour week would be a demand on the federal government that it set an example by establishing that reform.

Mr. Green and the executive council were empowered to present labor's demands to President Hoover and the United States congress, together with a copy of the former's speech emphasizing that labor would no longer be denied the shorter work week and day.

Follows Doak's Speech.

Mr. Green's forensic effort came at the end of a busy day which began with an address by Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, who said death threats had been made against him because of his immigration policy.

Mr. Green said the country was faced with a momentous decision "whether we shall dismantle industry or whether we shall provide opportunities for those able and willing to work."

"Are we going to resign ourselves to an economic situation where eleven to fifteen millions are to be continually idle?" he asked. "How long are we going to be patient? Will our social order sustain such a condition? How long will it be tolerated? These are questions to which answers will not be denied."

Mr. Green spoke of the vast sums poured into increasing productive capacity, into stock dividends and extra dividends, and he asserted that, instead of further increasing production, part of these sums should have been paid out in wages to stimulate consumption. It was this "erroneous policy," he said, that hastened the "evil day" of industrial collapse.

O. K. Unemployment Insurance.

Late tonight the resolutions committee most of whose members have been opposed to compulsory unemployment insurance capitulated and agreed unanimously to approve the proposal as recommended by the executive council which suggested that the entire cost, at least 3 per cent of the payroll, be borne by industry.

The endorsement of the committee of which Matthew Woll is chairman will be placed before the convention tomorrow.

NONUNION COOKS IN BLIND PIG RESULT IN PICKETS AT ITS DOOR

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Police officers found themselves faced with a new situation today when they discovered two sandwich men walking back and forth in front of a Columbia street address bearing signs which read, "Don't patronize this blind pig."

Pained and surprised the police arrested the men and pressed them for an explanation. The men gave their names as Carl Walles and Fred Plaser and said they were picketing the place in behalf of the Greater Detroit Chefs' and Pastry Chefs' association.

"They're hiring nonunion cooks in that joint," the men told the police.

Police said they were going to order the proprietor of the establishment to close up.

"If he doesn't he's going to have a couple more pickets out there, only this time they'll be policemen," they said.

NEW WAR TANKS UNFAIR TO HIM, CHRISTIE SAYS

Demands Bids for Five Be Disregarded.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Walter Christie, inventor and manufacturer of the light Christie combat tank, today made public a letter to the war department. He charged he was not being given a fair deal by officials of the ordnance branch of the army.

Christie charged they had so altered the specifications for five new Christie type tanks, on which bids were opened today, his concern had refused to bid. He demanded that the bids be thrown out and the specifications be changed so his firm would have an opportunity to build the machines.

Last year's appropriation bill carried funds for the purchase by the army of five new medium tanks of the type manufactured and developed by Christie. The war department has been working off and on with Christie in the development of his tank for years. Some years ago the department purchased his patents. Christie now contends that did not include future improvements he might make.

"I am very reluctant in saying," Mr. Christie wrote Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, "that we are being unjustly treated by this bureaucratic ordnance department, which fact can easily be verified by referring to the congressional records and hearings on the high speed tank subject.

"The new chief of ordnance has been rather bitter in his attempts to deprive us of the little business justly due us, and I think if he had his way he would drive me to European governments for the sale of our new system."

"HAD CONSTIPATION SINCE BIRTH OF MY FIRST CHILD"

Then Mrs. King Discovered ALL-BRAN.

We quote from her voluntary letter:

"I have suffered from terrible constipation since the birth of my first child—9 years ago! I have tried everything and nothing had any lasting results. Very reluctantly I tried your 'ALL-BRAN' with no faith in it at all. Much to my surprise, I have not had to take any medicine since starting to use ALL BRAN, 4 months ago."—Mrs. Doris Eyre King, 16 Abbey Road, Oxford, England.

Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN contains two things which overcome constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of waste.

Certainly this is more natural than taking patent medicines—often harmful. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

HEAR YE! GENEVA! MONACO TO SCRAP ARMY OF 96 MEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, Nov. 28.—The famous Monegasque fighting machine, consisting of 96 men, including officers, will be disbanded in the interests of disarmament and economy, it was officially announced today. This step, which is the first tangible fruit of the Geneva disarmament conference, follows another move in the interests of peace—suppression of the Monaco foreign ministry.

The forthcoming reform was announced by Boulloux Lafont, minister of state, as part of a program of the liquidation of Monaco as an independent state. It had been previously decided that because of the desperate condition of Monegasque finances due to the falling off of roulette receipts, France would be allowed to take over most of the government services.

CIVIL PRACTICE ACT DRAFTED TO SPEED JUSTICE

State Bar to Present Plan to Legislature.

To speed justice and end legal red tape by simplification of civil procedure the Illinois State Bar association has drafted a civil practice act for presentation at the next session of the legislature. Attorney Harry N. Gottlieb, chairman of the drafting committee, yesterday outlined the program of revision.

The proposed act abridges the law relating to civil practice from many volumes to scarcely more than 100 pages. More than three years have been spent on its preparation. The work was begun by a committee of the Chicago Bar association and then taken over by the committee on judicial administration of the state association during the chairmanship of Floyd E. Thompson, former justice of the Illinois Supreme court.

Reduce Litigation Time.

Enactment of the measure, according to its supporters, will reduce time of litigation, modernize practice, clear courts of congestion, eliminate confusion, and save money for litigants and taxpayers. The act will coördinate provisions under the existing law. About 75 per cent of the present provisions will be represented.

"The proposed act does not constitute any radical or unreasoned departure from the existing system," Mr. Gottlieb said. "None of the traditional rights of litigants to a fair and full hearing would be denied. The coördination of scattering and conflicting provisions together with the other 25 per cent of new matter in the proposed act provides as a coherent whole a modern practice for Illinois in the interest of simple, speedy, and economical administration of justice."

Summarizes Changes.

Mr. Gottlieb summarized the changes in the act as:

1. Replacement of antiquated forms of pleadings and obsolete chancery procedure by simple, concise forms.
2. Procedure for summary judgment with proper safeguards so as not to delay relief and clog courts.
3. Use of declaratory judgment.
4. Provision for preliminary procedure, such as discovery before trial and other measures, to expedite the disposition of cases.
5. Improved methods of instructing and selecting jurors.
6. Provisions on such subjects as service of summons, joinder of parties and joinder of causes of action, consolidation, and severance of actions reflecting wisdom of modern experience.
7. Simplification of appellate procedure.
8. Provision for regulation of practice, within proper limits, by rules of court. A schedule of rules is appended to the act.
9. Creation of a permanent judicial advisory council to aid courts in formulating rules and for the performance of many additional functions to assist the courts in keeping abreast of the times.

Declaratory Judgment.

Use of the declaratory judgment, Attorney Gottlieb explained, would enable a person to have a controversy settled in court without the necessity of perpetrating something. If a tenant wished to determine, he said, whether he had the right to erect a new building or whether he would forfeit the lease by such action the question could be settled by courts. Under the present system, courts would hold the question insufficient to warrant court action.

"In England it took 75 years to accomplish legal reform," Mr. Gottlieb said. "Work was begun there more than a century ago and completed in 1875. The practice England abandoned is still in vogue here. Illinois is the most backward state in this respect.

"Complaints have been many that the practice is antiquated, needlessly technical, and cumbersome. The complaints are usually coupled with a statement that lawyers ought to do something about it. The lawyers of Illinois have done something about it. The question is now whether the people, through the legislature, will avail themselves of what the lawyers have done."

Prof. Edson R. Sunderland of the University of Michigan and Prof. Oliver Le Roy McCaskill of the University of Illinois helped draft the act.

Members from Chicago.

Chicago members of the Gottlieb committee are George A. Cooke, Walter F. Dodd, E. W. Hinton, William H. Holly, Chester A. Legg, Charles O. Loucks, Charles P. Megan, Robert W. Millar, Judge John M. O'Connor, Erwin W. Roemer, Isaac Rothschild, Judge John J. Sonsteby, and Judge Daniel P. Trude.

Downstate members are George D. Burroughs of Edwardsville, J. Paul Califf of Aledo, State Senator A. S. Cuthbertson of Bunker Hill, T. F. Donovan of Joliet, G. E. Feirich of Carbondale, Judge W. J. Fulton of Sycamore, Clarence W. Heyl of Peoria, Roy C. Martin of Benton, A. A. Partlow of Danville, Henry B. Safford of Monmouth, Judge E. D. Shurtleff of Marengo, W. C. Townley of Bloomington, Cairo A. Trimble of Princeton, John E. Wall of Quincy, and Henry C. Warner of Dixon.

The committee will meet Thursday in the headquarters of the Chicago Bar association to plan a campaign for passage of the act. The midwinter meeting of the state bar association will be held on Friday.

MISSING SLEUTH SURPRISES COURT IN KUHN SUIT

Defendant Dudley Appears to Testify.

Edgar Dudley, former operative for the Secret Six, made a surprise appearance yesterday in the courtroom of Judge Peter H. Schwaba, where he is one of the five defendants in the false arrest and malicious prosecution suit brought by William S. Kuhn Jr. Dudley's whereabouts had been something of a mystery since the start of the suit, in which his name has figured prominently. He announced on taking the witness stand that he is now living in Hollywood, Cal.

Spectators in the courtroom had yawned through a dull morning session, disappointed at the nonappearance of Miss Marion Wright, society girl and co-defendant with Dudley, who was reported ill at home with grip. Miss Wright, the recipient of extortion letters on the eve of her debut two years ago, had been expected to take the stand and testify as to her acquaintance with young Kuhn, who was later arrested and charged with being the author of the letters.

Defendant Appears in Court.

Dudley's presence in court was revealed suddenly as Attorney Frederic Burnham, representing Kuhn, cross-examined Sergt. William T. Knowles of the Chicago police, who was acting as an investigator for the Secret Six during the investigation which led up to Kuhn's arrest. Knowles originally signed the complaint on which Kuhn was arraigned in the Felony court. Miss Wright substituted her signature when Judge John Lyle refused to accept that of Knowles.

"Who went with you to have Kuhn take the lie detector test?" the lawyer had asked.

"Mr. Dudley," was the reply.

"Is that the man sitting in the third row on the right?"

Dudley Called to Stand.

Dudley's call to take the stand came late in the afternoon following the testimony of his co-defendant and former chief, Alexander Jamie, director of the Secret Six. Jamie, who entered a categorical denial of any responsibility for the arrest of Kuhn, admitted that he assigned Dudley to investigation of the case when William Van Doren Wright, father of Miss Wright and also named as a defendant, gave him the first of the extortion letters. Jamie admitted that he had worked on the Kuhn case personally.

On direct examination by Defense Attorney Edward Everett, Dudley recited the story of Kuhn's detention as a suspect in the case and of his movements in attempts to get evidence to prove his case. He repeated the story of his visits to speakeasies already related by previous witnesses and of having been informed at the brokerage office where Kuhn was a clerk that he had been dismissed because of drinking.

His testimony will be continued this morning up to the point where the youth was placed under arrest by Police Lieutenant Leo Carr. On the stand a few days ago Carr asserted that he alone was responsible for the arrest, for which Kuhn asks $100,000 damages from the four defendants in court yesterday, and Dr. Ferdinand Watzek, now in Vienna. Dr. Watzek, while he was attached to the crime detention laboratory at Northwestern university, submitted an opinion that samples of typewriting from machines available to Kuhn in the brokerage office where he worked were identical with that in the extortion missives.

GOVERNMENT COSTS DROP; SENATE, HOUSE RESTAURANT CUT PRICE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The capital has become economy conscious. The national legislators gathering here realize the cost of government must come down. When the senate restaurant opened, pie had dropped from 15 to 10 cents. The thick bean soup, famous at both ends of the capitol, was 15 cents instead of 20. Other charges were down accordingly.

The house restaurant also put out a new menu. Prices matched the senate rates.

"We had to come down," was the house manager's explanation. "The senate cut, and we couldn't have representatives complaining they could eat more cheaply over there.

"Of course, food is cheaper. But if we run a deficit this year it will be the first in a long time and the senate's fault."

GOOD FELLOWS START WITH 57% GAIN OVER 1931

You, Too, Can Give Joy to Needy at Christmas.

The Good Fellow business is rising from the depression. Yesterday, the first day the headquarters was open, there was an increase of 57 per cent over comparable records of last year in the number of families who were scheduled to receive baskets on Christmas eve.

Among the first to enroll for this Santa Claus service was a group of employes of a cheese factory. They notified the Good Fellow headquarters, in THE TRIBUNE public service office at State and Madison streets, that the holiday spirit had invaded their doors and that they were raising a fund to bring Christmas cheer to seven or eight families.

A matron living in Lake Shore drive was assigned four families whose Merry Christmas will depend upon her baskets of toys and holiday foodstuffs.

Christmas for 5 Children.

A housewife from a neighborhood of wage earners on the west side wrote that she would like to provide a Christmas for about three girls and two boys in two families. She said she would not be able to do more than assure the children of a Santa Claus. She's a Good Fellow, 100 per cent.

A newsboy, also from the west side, mailed $1. Every penny will be used in some home where stockings would be empty on Christmas morn were it not for this Good Fellow. THE TRIBUNE pays all administration expenses.

A south side girl in her teens filled out the Good Fellow coupon applying for the name of a worthy family in her neighborhood where it will be convenient for her to call with her gifts on Christmas eve.

From a north side resident came a request for the name of a childless old couple who would be without cheer were it not for some Good Fellow. The plight of the aged destitute on Christmas gives as great an opportunity for the Good Fellows' work as does the distress of children.

A Joy for Good Fellows.

These Good Fellows are going to enjoy giving happiness to homes otherwise gloomy. Those who won't be able to make the basket delivery personally on Christmas eve will still have the wholesome satisfaction on Christmas day of knowing they have helped others to enjoy the holiday.

If a west side newsboy can help, you can do as much. There's a coupon in a nearby column for your convenience. Inclose a 3 cent stamp and mail the coupon, filled out, to Good Fellows, THE TRIBUNE, Chicago. By return mail you'll receive the name of a family recommended for your basket by the United Charities, the Central Charity bureau, the Cook County Bureau of Public Welfare, the Juvenile court, or some other unit of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies.

There are destitute who can ill afford the carfare, telephone or postage who, through a misunderstanding, appeal directly to the Good Fellows for assistance. Only families investigated and recommended through the Chicago Council of Social Agencies are assigned to Good Fellows.

Four Typical Families.

Here are four such families near the top of the long list awaiting the Good Fellows:

No. 1. Four children, of American born parents. Mother supported them until she recently became ill. Father, long employed and believing himself more of a financial liability than an asset, abandoned his family.

No. 2. Two undernourished children, ages 3 and 1, of Rumanian parentage. Father unemployed. Charity doctor recommended that the children get oranges for Christmas.

No. 3. Three children, 11, 10, and 8, in wholesome American home, with father unemployed due to slump in automobile business.

No. 4. Four children, ages 5, 4 and 2 years, and 2 months. Father earning from $8 to $16 a week. Oldest child a charity patient in hospital.

Do you want to be a Good Fellow to some such family? Tear out the coupon and mail it, or telephone Superior 0100, or call in person at THE TRIBUNE Public Service office at Dearborn and Madison streets.

JAPANESE ARMY FIXES ITS GOAL AS PEACE IN ASIA

Hero of Manchurian Conquest Tells Aims.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 28.—The mark which Japanese officers set as the "noble ideal" to which all of the mikado's faithful fighting men should aspire, has been clearly set forth by Lieut. Gen. Shigeru Honjo, conqueror of Manchuria, and popularly known as "the devil tycoon."

Writing in the current number of Chuo-Koron, [Central Review], the warrior whose spartan ways have made him the idol of the younger military officers says:

"Japan's duty is to bring supreme happiness to the Asiatic races. As savior of the people of the far east, this country must strive to make the continent of Asia a land of peace and happiness. Look at conditions at home and abroad and consider the path which the Japanese empire should follow. There is no other course for the Japanese army to follow than to lead the Asiatic races to a new life.

Sets Forth Aims.

"Our pride and honor make it our duty to transform Manchuria into a paradise of the human races. We must realize the ideal that peace in the far east springs from Manchuria. Thus alone will the spirits of those who sacrificed their lives for the establishment of the state of Manchukuo and for the realization of the ideal of world peace, find peace and contentment in the world beyond."

Surprising though it may seem to a westerner, the average Japanese army officer actually believes the pursuance of the policy outlined by Gen. Honjo to be his purpose in life and he is prepared to give up his life to uphold it. This, undoubtedly, is because the perspective from which he sees everything is through the eyes of the emperor.

The navy man, having seen more of the world, looks at things from a somewhat broader outlook. The army man is convinced that Japan cannot be happy unless there is peace and prosperity on the Asiatic continent.

Calls for United Effort.

"The strength of Japan lies in the united effort of her people, both high and low, to solve any serious question that faces the country," Gen. Honjo continues. "When an important incident occurs a unification of all opinions takes place.

"Japan's only desire is to exist and prosper with the people of Manchuria and China. As a matter of fact, Japan cannot survive without these two countries, nor the latter without Japan. We must, therefore, realize the ideal that peace in the far east springs from Manchuria. I believe there is no need for Japan to feel any restraint or reserve regarding her decisions in respect to Manchuria. They were based on the ideal of attaining world peace."

These words serve as an explanation why the Japanese army is convinced that the nation was solidly behind it during the Manchurian conquest.

Borah "Absent" During Campaign, Wagner's Joke

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—During the St. Lawrence waterway hearings today before the senate foreign relations subcommittee, headed by Senator Borah of Idaho, Senator Glenn [Rep., Ill.] referred to the recent presidential campaign.

"What campaign was that?" Borah inquired, smiling.

"The one that took place in your absence, senator," Senator Wagner [Dem., N. Y.] interjected.

HELD AS PURSE SNATCHER.

Robert Gusik, 21 years old, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $5,000 by Judge Frank M. Padden on a charge of snatching a purse containing $2 from Mrs. Reta Pareseo, 2350 Allgeld avenue.

LEAGUE PASSES LYTTON REPORT TO ASSEMBLY; JAPANESE OBJECT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Nov. 28.—Over the usual Japanese reservation, Eamon de Valera, president of the league of nations council, today passed the Lytton report on Manchuria on to the special league assembly. Calls were immediately sent out for the assembly's committee of nineteen to meet on Thursday and for the sovereign body to convene on Tuesday, Dec. 6, when the attitude of several of the big powers toward the far eastern situation may at last be clarified.

De Valera ordered the Lytton commission—over another objection by the Japanese, the last in a week's obstructionist campaign before the council—to be available to submit whatever information the assembly may require.

"As you know," said Yosuke Matsuoka, Japan's special representative, "we have been taking the view that the commission is no longer in existence."

His reservation is in line with the Tokio policy that the assembly is not competent to handle the Sino-Japanese question.

DEBATE MILK PRICE 6 HOURS; CALL NEW PARLEY

After six hours of deliberation representatives of the Chicago milk dealers and of the Pure Milk association, representing the 19,000 farmers, announced last night at the La Salle hotel that no progress had been made toward reduction in the price of Chicago's milk from 10 to 9 cents a quart.

The day was spent in discussing the milk market, the increasing amount of surplus milk, and the inroads of country roadside milk selling and cut rate dairies, according to Don Geyer, manager of the Pure Milk association, and Fred A. Webb, vice president of Borden's Farm Products company, spokesman for the dealers.

A continuance of the sessions was announced for this afternoon. Both the farmers' and dealers' spokesmen asserted after yesterday's meeting that any saving made in the cost of the milk to the dealer will be reflected in a lower retail price, this slash to include the $5 a week wage reduction accepted last week by the milk wagon drivers.

GEORGE H. WILSON, BANKER, LEAVES $250,000 ESTATE

The late George H. Wilson, former vice president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, left an estate of $250,000 it was disclosed yesterday. His will was filed and approved before Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to the Probate judge. Mr. Wilson died at the age of 71 years on last Nov. 19.

His will left his entire estate in trust, and bequeathed one-half the income to his widow, Mrs. Ethel J. Wilson, 5128 Hyde Park boulevard. The balance is divided between his sons, Hugh and Robert. The will also provides that an annuity of $6.0 each is to be paid to Mr. Wilson's sister, Mrs. Mary C. Morrison of Long Beach, Cal., and Elizabeth H. Wilson, who resides with Mrs. Wilson.

At the death of Mrs. Wilson and after Robert, now 19, has reached the age of 30 years, the principal will be divided between the sons.

URGES FEDERAL INTERFERENCE IN MILK WAR HERE

Independent Dairy Lays Evidence Before U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Active federal intervention was forecast today in the war which the old line milk dealers and union drivers of Chicago have been fighting with the independent Meadowmoor Dairies, Inc.

New evidence was placed in the hands of the department of justice by Edgar J. Cook of Chicago, attorney for the Meadowmoor company, in an effort to support the company's contention that the Pure Milk association of Chicago, the Bowman Dairy company, the Borden's Farm Products company, and more than a score of other dairy companies have entered into a conspiracy with Milk Wagon Drivers' union, local No. 753, to drive the independent company out of business. The independent company, said the attorney, has been selling nine cent milk as against eleven cent milk distributed by the old line companies.

Confers with Trust Division.

Attorney Cook conferred with William R. Benham, attorney in the trust division of the department of justice, and Lorenzo T. Plummer, special agent of the bureau of investigation.

At the conclusion of the conference Mr. Benham declined to make any comment, although it was understood that a recommendation would be made to Attorney General Mitchell that agents of the bureau of investigation be sent to Chicago to collect evidence.

Photostatic copies of letters from Wisconsin dairy farmers were brought to Washington by Mr. Cook and turned over to the federal authorities. They purported to show that representatives of the Pure Milk association had attempted to intimidate the producers supplying the Meadowmoor company.

Letter Reveals Threat.

One letter stated that at Elkhorn, Wis., on Oct. 8, the writer had heard a representative of the association say that "the farmers who shipped their milk to the Meadowmoor Dairy company of Chicago were doing so at great risk because the milk market in the city of Chicago belonged to the Pure Milk association and that they—the Pure Milk association—would let nothing stand in their way to protect it, even if the members of said association would have to use machine guns to force the invaders to dump their milk in the ditches."

Mr. Cook declared he was prepared to produce between 50 and 75 dairy farmers who would tell substantially the same sort of story. Previous affidavits brought to Washington by Mr. Cook alleged threats and beatings administered to Meadowmoor drivers and patrons.

Ready to Lower Prices.

Attorney Cook said the Meadowmoor company was ready to meet the recent decision of the Pure Milk association to cut the price of milk to 9 cents by lowering the price of their product to 8 cents. He said the independent company was distributing between 30,000 and 40,000 quarts of milk a day and he asserted the extra 2 cents which other companies have charged cost Chicago consumers more than half a million dollars a month.

The Meadowmoor dairies, through Attorney Cook, recently filed a bill of complaint in the federal District court at Chicago charging the Pure Milk association, the various dairy companies and the milk drivers' union with conspiracy in restraint of trade, and asking an injunction against them.

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out!

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

DANDRUFF Ends Overnight!

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get plain, ordinary Liquid Arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it gently with the finger tips.

By morning most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get Liquid Arvon at any drug store. It won't cost you more than thirty-five cents. This simple remedy never fails.

GRAND CHAMPION STEER WILL BE CHOSEN TODAY

Boy of 14 Seeks Highest Stock Show Honor.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The spotlight of farm showdom will be turned into the main arena of Chicago's 33d Annual International Live Stock show this morning as the finest fat cattle in North America are lined up before the judge, who will name one of them the grand champion steer of the year.

Walter Biggar, veteran Scotch beef judge, yesterday spent a full day carefully selecting from among the 750 sleek contenders for high honor those which might be presented in the final contest of all beef breeds today. Cattle men and authorities on animal breeding who watched him yesterday said he was facing the most difficult selection in all the years of international beef shows.

Boy of 14 Is Contender.

Interest in the outcome has been heightened by the fact that one of the steers to be reckoned with was grown and shown by a 14-year old farm lad of Dane county, Wisconsin, Kenneth Zink. His calf, offspring of both Hereford and Angus parents, has a jet black body and white face and weighs about 800 pounds. The steer already has won for Kenneth the grand championship in the junior live stock feeding contest.

Kenneth, who has been in 4-H club work for four years, yesterday broadcast to farm youngsters of the nation the hope that he might represent them successfully today against the best adult beef producers of the United States and Canada. His steer will compete against those from state agricultural colleges who won many breed championships yesterday.

Shows Agriculture's Change.

The stock show gives one of the most dramatic demonstrations of the transformation in American agriculture, according to Alvin H. Sanders, vice president of the show and its founder three decades ago. As he commented on the young animals which are now the accepted source of the world's beef supply, he contrasted these animals, marketed at the age of a year or two, with the large, matured beef supplied by the early western country, on which Chicago gained its reputation as the packing center of the world.

The economies in production which this change has wrought are to be counted in millions of dollars, Mr. Sanders pointed out yesterday. It has produced a commercial meat supply to meet modern demands and is the main outlet for the vast corn and hay crops within a day's drive of Chicago.

Third Successive Victory.

For the third successive year and the fourth time in the records of international grain shows here, Herman Trelle of Wembley, Alta., was chosen as the world wheat king yesterday. He won with his red spring wheat sample over Thomas Edson Smith of Darby, Mont. Smith showed durum wheat of the same type as that which last year won Trelle the highest honors. Trelle's sample this year was said by the judges to be the finest wheat they had ever seen. They pronounced it flawless. It weighed 67 pounds to the bushel and was the Reward variety. Smith, the runner-up, is only 25 years old, one of five sons of a former wheat king. He is a forest ranger when not growing wheat.

Fred Hamm of Goodfame, near Hynche, Alta., won the oat king title over Dr. J. F. Meitzer of Lajara, Colo., with Victory oats weighing 51.6 pounds to the bushel.

Thomas Peterson and sons, Ida Grove, Ia., won high honors in the car lot swine contest, defeating Notre Dame university. Championships in the hog and sheep departments were won yesterday by state colleges of Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Tennessee, Michigan, Indiana, California, and Iowa. Canadian shepherds took most of the long wooled sheep prizes.

Purdue university, for the fourth consecutive year, won the prize for the grand champion wether with a Southdown entry. The university's pen of Southdowns also won the grand championship for pens of wethers.

Crowds continued to visit the 22 acres of farm displays yesterday, the total attendance for the first three of the eight days being placed at more than 100,000.

FLOWER OF U. S. FARMING YOUTH GOES ON PARADE

1,100 4-H Boys and Girls March at Stock Show.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Eleven hundred boys and girls from farms in 43 states and Canada paraded in the International amphitheater of the stockyards last night before the crowd of 10,000 that attended the evening program of the live stock exposition.

Wearing the green and white caps emblematic of their membership in the 4-H club, the young farmers marched around the arena behind the 4-H band of Webster City, Ia. A wagon carrying the national 4-H champions in such diversified contests as live stock feeding, crop judging, and dress making, was drawn in the parade by four pairs of Shires.

Nation's Farm Youth There.

Tall, bronzed young men from Texas, blond giants from South Dakota, and girls from the south and west mingled with representatives of Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, and Vermont. All are attending the 4-H club congress which is being held this week in conjunction with the stock show. The banners carried in the parade bore these messages among others:

"Our Bank Accounts Average $170."

"We own 200,000 head of live stock."

"The market value of our products this year is $17,000,000."

"The ideal American farm home is the goal of the 4-H club."

After the parade the national champions were presented to the audience by George Farrell of the United States department of agriculture, in charge of 4-H club work, and loving cups and prizes were awarded.

All 1,100 Attend Dinner.

Preceding the parade the 1,100 boys and girls attended an annual dinner given for them by Thomas E. Wilson, the packer, chairman of the national committee on boys' and girls' club work, in the Wilson & Co. plant at 4100 South Ashland avenue.

As the steak dinner was consumed various state delegations gave their songs and cheers. The Mississippians sang about cotton, the Kansans sang of wheat and corn flowers. The South Dakota delegates, the girls wearing green tams and sweaters, cheered lustily. A half dozen girls who might have stepped out of a musical revue wore blue and red tams marked "Georgia Crackers."

Following the dinner Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, trans-Atlantic flyer, spoke to the 1,100 and Mr. Wilson also addressed them. Mrs. Putnam wore the khaki trousers, silk shirt and leather jacket which she wore on her solo ocean flight, with a sunflower in her lapel presented by the delegation from Kansas, her home state. She arrived as a passenger over United Air Lines earlier in the day and expects to depart today.

"Flying will be in your lifetime as commonplace as railroad travel is today," she told the young people.

She encouraged the girl farmers to take up flying if they desired. "There is room for more women in the industry," she declared.

Scholarship Winners Feted.

The first prize winner in the national 4-H meat animal project, Floyd Weaver, 19 years old, of Westpoint, Ind., had arisen from a sick bed in a hotel to attend the festivities. Other winners were William Ralph Bennett, 19 years old, of Bristol, W. Va., and Vernon F. Epting, 17 years old, of Prosperity, S. C.

Three winners of scholarships chosen for outstanding records among exhibitors in the junior live stock feeding contest of the stock show were announced. They are Robert Spangler, 20 years old, of Franklin Grove, Ill.; Jacob Hanes, 19 years old, of Decatur, Ill., and Harold Anderson, 19 years old, of St. Peter, Minn. The scholarships are available for any agricultural college.

In the afternoon events, participated in by the 4-H club members at the exposition, the Nebraska team won the crop judging contest against teams from seven other states. The winning team was composed of three boys from Valley county, Neb.—Valerian Ciochon and Bud Brickner of Ord and Charles Bernhardt of North Loup. Valley county also sent a champion crop judging team to the show in 1930.

The second team to place was that from Kansas—Harry Smith, Chester Burgess and Frank Burgess, all of Ottawa. Brickner of Nebraska was the high scoring individual in the judging.

Jane Lynn was not present to see her cotton dress of green and white material resembling linen win in the cotton school dress exhibit. Jane, whose home is in Petersburg, Ill., is 11 years old and too young to be a delegate.

Shirley Stewart, 17 years old, of Johnson, Wash., proved the best judge of meats in a contest in which boys and girls from seven states competed.

CARLSTROM PUTS SALES TAX BILL UP TO THE COURTS

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom today returned to Gov. Emmerson the relief program of the fourth special session of the general assembly. The attorney general, however, did not pass on the constitutionality of the sales tax law, suggesting that question was one for the courts to decide.

Other bills returned were the Igoe bill, giving Cook county the right to issue $17,000,000 in relief bonds, without referendum; the Meents bill, giving counties the right to issue bonds for six times the amount they receive from the gasoline fund, and also the Barr bill, S. B. 25, providing for the payment of bonds issued under the Meents bill. They were pronounced legal as to form.

In his letter to the governor on the Tice sales tax bill the attorney general returned it without objection as to its form or constitutionality. He states, however, that if the governor considered the bill as appropriate from the standpoint of policy the legal question should be passed upon by the courts.

Confidence Man Accused by Women Gets 90 Days

James D. Fowich, 24 years old, 1926 South Lawndale avenue, yesterday was sentenced to 90 days in the Bridewell by Municipal Judge Jay A. Schiller for operating a confidence game. Several housewives testified that they had given Fowich deposits on the purchase of hosiery, which he did not deliver. He asserted that he had lost his sales book bearing the addresses of his customers. Police testified that he had a previous record as a confidence man.

WELFARE FUND REACHES TOTAL OF $2,572,429

A total of $2,572,429 has been subscribed toward the $7,500,000 goal of the Emergency Welfare Fund of Cook County, Inc., it was announced yesterday by Robert A. Gardner, chairman of the committee conducting the public drive. The new total was reported as additional gifts from wealthy individuals were announced.

Campaign chairmen and workers in the public drive will meet at lunch today at the Hotel La Salle to report new contributions in the public drive. The fund is being raised to support ninety-nine private charities' welfare work other than relief for the idle.

"There are now 15,000 families in the city alone that must have special consideration, aside from the 150,000 families obtaining relief from federal funds," Mr. Gardner said. "The need is very acute—worse than at any other time in the city's history."

INDIANA SLASHES PROPERTY TAXES BY 43 MILLIONS

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Indiana's direct taxes on real and personal property, paid into state, county and municipal treasuries, have been drastically reduced from $140,069,591 paid this year to $97,524,506 expected revenue next year, according to official figures unofficially compiled here tonight. This constitutes a reduction of $42,545,086, or 30.3 per cent.

In 1929 Indiana direct taxes reached their peak at $150,468,477. The 1931 state legislature, deadlocked by split control of the two houses, did little to alleviate the situation despite insistent demands, especially from property owners and farmers.

The special session of the 1931 legislature which met last July and August finally enacted a law limiting 1933 levies to $1.50 on each $100 assessable property.

avoid "PINK TOOTH BRUSH" with IPANA and MASSAGE

Here's what science says: "Civilized man eats cooked foods—too soft to stimulate circulation through his gums. Hence, his gums become flabby—then tender—and he's likely to have 'pink tooth brush.' His gums bleed."

"'Pink tooth brush,'" your dentist will tell you, "is often the forerunner of dull, gray teeth. It may lead to gum troubles as serious as gingivitis, Vincent's disease, and even pyorrhea. It sometimes endangers sound teeth."

Here's what to do. Clean your teeth with Ipana. And each time, rub a little extra Ipana right into your gums. The ziratol in Ipana, with the massage, keeps the gums toned and firm.

Follow this Ipana regime regularly—and your teeth will be thoroughly clean, and bright. Your gums will be hard and healthy. And you won't have to worry about "pink" on your tooth brush.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE MORAL OF THE DECLINING POUND.

The continuing decline of sterling provides the American people with a clear warning of what lies ahead of a nation which heedlessly piles tax upon tax. The political advantages of this policy may seem to justify it for a time, but the day of national humiliation cannot be postponed indefinitely. Taxes in Britain have absorbed a large part of the British reserve of capital and have severely handicapped British industry. The English people have been eating their savings and the fact is reflected in the decline of their money in the terms of sounder currencies.

The British made the ruinous mistake of bleeding white their going industries and their solvent individuals. This was done in the belief that the money so acquired could be used to better advantage if redistributed to those in moribund industries like coal mining. The result has been that the coal mining industry is still moribund, while men who call themselves miners, though they may not have dug a pound of coal in five years, have come to regard idleness as a virtue and a living at the expense of others as a right.

The dole provided a bare subsistence for a time, but now, with a decline of the pound to two-thirds of its former value, even that miserable minimum will have to be lowered. A large part of what the British population eats and wears must be bought abroad with gold. As the value of the pound declines the purchasing power of the dole must also decline.

Of course, it is not only those on the dole who suffer. Every Englishman will find his income will buy less and less as time goes on. Thus far the cost of living in Great Britain has not risen in step with the decline in the value of British money, but the rise in living costs cannot be permanently avoided. Certainly the scheme of the government to stabilize the pound through the agency of a huge government fund for speculation in foreign exchanges will fail of its purpose, just as the farm board's half billion dollars failed to stabilize the prices of wheat and cotton.

The example of Britain is there for the enlightenment of American office holders who may be tempted to increase the tax extortions in this country as a humanitarian measure. If we in this country employ the taxing power to destroy the solvent in the vain attempt to rescue the insolvent we shall reap the same harvest of disaster which the British are now garnering.

EDEN AGAIN ON THE FOOTBALL FIELD.

The Carnegie endowment, pressed like many other endowments until the last two years or so to find ways and means of spending the income, used a lot of money in surveying American football, but apparently muffed most of the social phenomena which would make it an interesting study.

A compilation of figures would probably show that thousands of American young men and boys are playing this tough, exhausting game. The effort required may very well be the most exhausting and absorbing that the players will encounter in life. They engage in it with the utmost abandon and recklessness. Many of them never again, short of experience in a possible war, will dedicate themselves so sacrificially to any other effort, not even the one of earning their own living.

There is an occasional scandal to the effect that some of these boys are induced to go to particular schools by the temptation of being allowed to do furnace work or shovel snow or wait on table or something of the sort at pay about half which would be demanded by the average job hunter. Aside from rumors of such imperial subsidies the boys are engaged in these tremendous athletic services for no other reward than the acclaim which comes to effort well done or well tried.

Now there, for the observation of our socialists, radicals, liberals, and communists, is the social consciousness required for the success of any substitute for the motive of private profit. When that spirit animates the Tammany chieftain, the Dakota farm hand, the stock broker, the banker, the West Virginia coal operator, the Illinois coal miner, the Gary steel puddler, the New England cotton mill proprietor, the Florida hotelkeeper, and the Pittsburgh steel millionaire we can call in the architects of the planned society and tell them we are ready to begin work on their blue prints.

Football represents one of the highest forms of American organization, not for profit but for the general good of the people to whom it is offered. Even the cheer leaders do not function merely in monkeyshines. They are the censors and moral police of the assemblage. When a ruling on the field is misunderstood in the stands and brings forth a roar the little string of jumping jacks in white pants down in front can stop the demonstration by merely raising their hands to show the crowd that it is out of order. Socialism can find its Eden at nearly any great game. All it has to do is to transplant the motives and behavior to Wall street, the Democratic national committee, the wheat fields, coal mines, steel mills, the railroads, and elsewhere. Then back to Eden.

THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY.

VII. How Much Cargo Is Available?

The debate over the power provisions of the St. Lawrence treaty has pretty generally avoided the real issue—namely: whether the power can be sold at a price to justify the expenditure in building power plants. The only way that issue can be determined is by a careful study of the growth [and, in recent years, the decline] in power consumption, together with a canvass among prospective purchasers of power to determine how much additional power is usable and what the market can afford to pay for it.

In much the same way the value of the seaway for transportation can be determined. Estimates have been made of the tonnage which may be expected to move through the seaway, and, as might be expected, these estimates vary widely. The most painstaking attempt to estimate the probable traffic was that made under the auspices of the Brookings Foundation by Harold G. Moulton, Charles S. Morgan, Adah Lee, and Edwin G. Nourse. They concluded that the seaway would carry, in all, about 10½ million tons of traffic a year, both American and Canadian, both import and export. That was not enough to make it pay, they said. This estimate was published in 1929. Estimates by others of probable traffic run as high as 25 and 30 million tons.

The approximation of the traffic to be developed is the crux of the whole matter. A critical examination of the estimates is required, and the Borah committee ought to undertake the task, tedious and difficult as it may be. The committee should summon before it shippers, traffic experts, ship owners, industrialists, and others with detailed knowledge of present and potential traffic movements in particular industries. The total traffic on the seaway will be the sum of the individual items which this kind of testimony will discover. No other basis of estimating what the seaway will carry is worth bothering with.

It may be observed in passing that this method was followed by Moulton and it is his largest contribution to the subject. His conclusions, so his opponents have said, have been colored by his skepticism regarding waterways in general; but no criticism can be made of his method of analysis and the committee can do no better than follow it. If his results are inaccurate it is not because his method was unsound, but because his data were at fault.

COMPOUNDING FELONY.

It is reported that an indictment of the west park policeman, Chapman, for shooting fatally the youth Cianni was not prosecuted because the park board promised a payment of $2,500 to the family of the victim. The report deserves strict investigation. The public has a right to know whether an official body proposed to compound a felony. It seems to be a fact that the family refused to prosecute, and it is said the second indictment resulted from the failure of the payment to appear. The report, if true, and the known facts give it plausibility, discloses ethical and legal standards in an official body that call for punishment. All officials connected with such an affair should be exposed, if possible, and prosecuted for complicity in the defeat of law and justice.

EUROPE'S ARMED CAMP.

There would be more hope for the reduction of military forces in Europe if the incentive for it came out of a sensible European recognition that it was unwise and unnecessary to continue to maintain nations as armed camps in peace time. Any scheme of conference and horse trading which requires as its essential the moral urging and dialectical effort of the United States seems perfectly hopeless, and indeed it has heretofore proved to be. The security of Europe prior to 1870 did not rest upon these gigantic establishments, but all that war taught of the dangers and provocations inherent in an overspreading militarism seems to have had small effect in the region affected.

Europe's redemption in this matter cannot proceed by bargaining with the United States, but must come rather from a real conviction in Europe that the present system does not mean security but insanity.

Editorial of the Day

THE GREATNESS OF HARRY NEWMAN.

[Detroit News.]

It is a truth well known to all who mingle with athletes that many of them lead two lives, in that the figures they cut in public are often quite apart from their personalities off the field. How far this applies to Harry Newman we are only in a position to guess; but judging by his performances on the college gridiron his Michigan career, which ended Saturday, has seemed to us and to others a sort of progressive triumph over himself.

The list of his feats in three years is the most impressive since Friedman threw his last pass as an amateur. As a sophomore his were the scoring plays that brought victory in five major games, and his fault, if he had one, was no matter of technique and certainly not of intelligence, but what some regarded as a defect of temperament, a cockiness of the sort that the crowd is quick to sense and that one's colleagues in sport are at great pains to correct.

Last fall the sandpapering of young Mr. Newman was on, and only one who recalls the capacity of youth for inflicting a cruelty more painful than the physical buffeting of a foe can appreciate the strength of spirit a boy of 20 needs to accept it without a sign. This year he bounced back as buoyant as ever, as sure of himself, and courted criticism in the earlier games by a tendency to take over the business of scoring entire. How well he has adapted himself to that criticism was evident at last in the Chicago game, where others took the play. Even then his spirit was irrepressible, for all the scoring was his and the last touchdown made on one of his few runs from formation.

It is a greater triumph than any against a foe that a boy can stand against the intangible attitude of the crowd and win it finally to his side. That utter confidence in one's self which the crowd can never quite accept, even in a Cobb, was skillfully employed by Newman to constitute the basis of Michigan's success this year. In the later games he lay back as a threat, striking when the foe was unaware, and how well the plan has worked is patent in Michigan's final standing in the conference and the country.

The leading pro coach in America calls him one of the few college players in this year's galaxy who rank with pros. We doubt if the professional game entails any such trial of the spirit as the one from which Harry Newman has emerged with the acclaim and affectionate good will of sports followers everywhere.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

AGAIN WE HEAR IT REPEATED that "the art of cooking in America is dead." Ah, no, it was not death, but rather a case of suspended animation. When the Sacred Eighteenth appeared on the scene then, of course, cooking as an art went into a trance. There could be no more of the delicate trifles known to France. Many of the most delectable dishes require fine wines. Hootch and white mule won't do a bit of good. Even our good old American mince pie had to go, for it needed brandy or rum. And fruit cake! O what good fruit cake we used to have before the great calamity! But it had to go because fruit cake just simply had to have a few shots of sherry or brandy in it or it didn't have any more class than a hot dog sandwich. And welsh rabbit! Ah, in the dear old days gone by what joyous welsh rabbits we had. But welsh rabbit had to be made with beer, real beer, and, of course, under the blight of prohibition, there was no real beer. There was synthetic beer, and other kinds, from the speakeasy, but no honest, self-respecting American cheese would have anything to do with such horrible stuff and it shuddered in horror and leaped from the pan when the imitation beer tried to get chummy with it. And rum omelette! O the gorgeous rum omelets of those other days. How beautiful the golden omelette looked with the great blue flames leaping up joyously from all around it. People have tried to make rum omelette with bootleg rum, but that kind of rum instead of leaping up in tongues of gorgeous blue flame was quite liable to explode and blow everybody out of the room. But if wines and rum and so on return, then good cooking will return, too. * * * * And listen, waiter! A rum omelette—a piece of mince pie, and a slice of fruit cake. And hurry!

WALLS OF TYRANNY.

I know a prison wall
High and gray;
It never traps men
For a day;
It folds on them
For a thousand years;
But every day they wash it
With salty tears;
They scale it hourly
In wild dreams;
But they never leave it
So it seems;
For it is a high wall
And also wide;
No one ever left it
Until he died.
If I find that heaven
Is a walled town,
I'll turn my back upon it
And come right down;
Any city with walls
Must have cells,
So if heaven has a wall
Give me several hells.
I've had enough of walls
And a narrow place;
I shall need a heaven
Coextensive with space;
For even walls of jasper,
With gold over all,
Couldn't blot from memory
A certain prison wall.

"ANOTHER BARREL of backbones will be in today," advertises a groceryman in White Cloud, Kas. "Three pounds for 10 cents or eight pounds for 25 cents. There is no meat on these bones, but you shouldn't expect any at this price." A richly merited and highly justified rebuke. People who expect to find porterhouse or sirloin steak clinging to a backbone expect entirely too much for 10 cents. Besides it is anatomically impossible. There is no sich animule.

THE COMPLETE FIGURES for traffic accidents in 1931 have just been completed and show that in that period 35,000 people were killed and over 1,000,000 injured. By way of comparison we might take the greatest battle of the Civil War or War Between the States, as it is quaintly called south of Mason and Dixon's Line, the number of killed on both sides was 6,234; wounded and missing, 46,257. And yet nations still rely on repeating rifles, bayonets, and bombs, cannons and airplanes in war. Some time some nation will get wise and organize a shock battalion of hootch, amateur, unlicensed, and hit-and-run drivers and just naturally annihilate every enemy that dares to fight 'em.

PAIN IN THE FACE.

In yesterday's article we quoted the opinions of Dr. Joseph Wasserman on the subject of tic douloureux. We are in accord with most of Dr. Wasserman's opinions, though there are some of them from which we might dissent. One of the promising qualities of medicine is this fact, that it is fluid, and growth and change are the order of the day. Every one who has been in a position to judge for more than ten years knows that the most widely accepted views and the opinions of the world's greatest authorities in medicine today are quite likely to be found in the garbage can tomorrow.

The writer cannot understand Dr. Wasserman's classification of trifacial neuralgia into one kind that he calls true tic, in which the pain is stabbing and discontinuous and with which the sinuses and teeth have nothing to do, and the false tics in which the pain is more steady and in which the seat of the trouble may be in the teeth or sinuses, unless we also admit that in between the two groups of typical cases there is a middle zone which cannot be classified and in which fall most of the cases of facial neuralgia.

Of the garden variety of facial neuralgia probably most of the cases are due to pyorrhea. The pain of such cases is very apt to be relieved by inhalations of trichlorethylene, or by the spray of alcohol into the nasopharynx, or by the application of local anesthesia to the same general area.

Fortunately not many persons take opiates for these face pains and, in consequence, we cannot charge facial neuralgia with responsibility for much drug addiction.

However, it is not enough to relieve attacks of pain, and all facial neuralgia, whether tic douloureux or not, has a way of coming and going in waves. What we would like to do is to get rid of the difficulty. To accomplish this where the cause is pyorrhea may require that all the loose teeth shall be pulled and the gums of those left behind be treated. This is not as much of a misfortune as we think. The dentist generally leaves his patient with a better looking mouth than nature provided.

Some of the facial neuralgias are due to pulpstones. If the dentist has any cure for this other than removal the writer does not know what it is. Probably infected sinuses rank close to pyorrhea as a cause of this garden variety of facial neuralgia. The cures for sinus infection are multiple and, as is always the case where there are multiple cures, treatment is apt to be disappointing.

BOTH PREVENTABLE.

Mrs. G. D. writes: I am subject to huge carbuncles or abscesses. They come on my face and neck and swell up and have cores that leave holes as big as a marble and then leave ugly scars. What causes them? What can I do when I see one coming on? I am a married woman 23 years old.

My little boy has sties. What causes these and what can I do once they start?

REPLY.

Both carbuncles and sties are preventable.

To prevent carbuncles: Since diabetes is a frequent cause, be examined for that. If you have either diabetes or high blood sugar, diet accordingly. Next to dieting comes care of the skin. The skin should be kept as clean as the beard area of the face of a freshly shaven man. This can be done by steaming, taking Turkish baths, using soap and water, and elbow grease. The next requisite is to avoid whatever scratches, rubs or irritates the skin.

In some cases the use of staphylococcus bacteriophage is of great service.

To prevent sties: Have the child wear glasses, if examination shows them to be needed. In some cases a diet that is poor in vitamins is the cause. Those cases call for change in diet. In some there is need of more cleanliness of the eyelids. Loose eyelashes should be pulled out—that is, if they come away easily.

EFFECT OF SODA.

Mrs. O. W. W. writes: What effect will soda have on the stomach if taken frequently for indigestion?

REPLY:

It will stimulate the stomach to produce an excess of acid and will disturb the acid-alkali balance of the body.

Baking soda leads to something of a habit.

MORTGAGE RENEWAL.

Villa Park, Ill., Nov. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A sells B a piece of property for $5,500 on a contract, subject to a $2,500 first mortgage on the premises. At the expiration of the first mortgage there is only a small balance due A. Upon the renewal of the first mortgage there is a commission to be paid of $120. Who, in your opinion, is obligated to pay this fee, A or B? C. D. C.

The mortgage holder is under no obligation to renew and hence in general he can foreclose if his terms are not accepted. Whether the commission will be paid by A or B depends upon the facts as to whether it is more to the interest of A or B to handle the renewal. Ordinarily B would be the one who would be most interested in the renewal, but if B is willing that the mortgage be foreclosed and A wishes to postpone personal liability, then it may be to A's interest to arrange the renewal and pay the commission.

MORTGAGE.

Chicago Heights, Ill., Nov. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can the three partners who have a mortgage on my home start foreclosure proceedings after I have secured by their consent a two year extension? 2. Can the real estate firm legally demand 3 per cent commission on the two year extension? The notes which call for the two year extension covering the amount of the mortgage were signed by wife and myself. The interest became due in July, 1932, which I have not paid. 3. Does foreclosure cause expense to the note holders?

P. H. K.

1. Ordinarily an extension agreement entered into by both parties is binding.
2. Yes.
3. Presumably they would have to advance court costs and attorneys' fees, but these items would be charged against the proceeds of the foreclosure sale.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PAID OUT OF ASSETS.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If a man makes a personal loan without co-makers or any guaranty are his heirs responsible for this debt? 2. Can they take a lien on the property which was signed over to his sister-in-law a month before death? C. G. G.

1. His heirs would not be personally responsible, but if he leaves assets his debts could be collected out of those assets.
2. In general a gift made by a person who is in debt can be set aside as a fraud on his creditors.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 29, 1916.

PARIS. — The Rumanian government and diplomatic authorities have left Bucharest and gone to Jassy, according to a Havas dispatch from Bucharest. (Jassy lies about 200 miles northeast of Bucharest, near the Russian frontier.)

LONDON.—With the forces of the central powers in possession—according to German official reports, which hitherto have proved accurate with regard to recent events in Rumania—of Curtea de Arges, an important railway terminus ninety miles from Bucharest, and Giurgiu, on the railway forty miles southwest of the capital, anxiety as to the fate of Bucharest is greatly increased. Field Marshal von Mackensen's capture of Giurgiu shows that his army has advanced thirty miles in a single day. Further, a Bulgarian official communication claims that the Danube has been crossed near Lom Palanka and Vidin and the town of Kalafatu, opposite Vidin, captured. Nothing is yet admitted by the Rumanians of these enemy advances, but it is assumed that the Rumanians are continuing their orderly retirement toward the line of the Argesiu river.

LONDON.—Police reports, told in an official statement, showing that nine persons were injured by bombs dropped by a hostile aeroplane in a raid on London at noon today, did not succeed in dampening the enthusiasm aroused by the British success earlier in the day in bringing down two of the Zeppelins which participated in last night's invasion. British airmen in thrilling battles in the sky accounted for the huge German ships, two of several which had come across the northeast coast and the north midland counties during the night, dropping more than 100 bombs, killing one woman, injuring sixteen persons, and doing some damage to property.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—While American relations with Germany and Mexico were under consideration at White House conferences today there came confirmation of the report that the American steamer Chemung had been sunk in the Mediterranean by a German submarine. The American consul at Valencia, Spain, cabled the state department that the crew of the vessel had been landed safely at that port. The Chemung is the third American steamer to be torpedoed within the last month.

MEXICO CITY.—The report that Gen. Trevino had evacuated Chihuahua is discredited here. The recent victory of the government troops is believed to have removed the danger of a Villa raid on Chihuahua. It is also pointed out that Gen. Murgula is in supreme command of the northern operations and that Gen. Trevino could not evacuate Chihuahua City except under orders from Murgula, whose reports do not indicate any such intention.

CHICAGO.—Trust busting by condemnation suits was suggested by Senator James Hamilton Lewis as a means of lowering the high cost of living. He offered it as an alternative to the plans for embargoes, contending embargoes would result in retaliatory legislation which would bankrupt the commerce of the country.

TAXPAYER AND DEADBEAT.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Unpaid city employés are very bitter in their denunciation of the people who have not paid their taxes. They know that their salaries come out of the pockets of the taxpayer. If the taxpayer pays his taxes they get their salaries. If he does not pay his taxes their salaries are in arrears. Are these same city employés really worthy of their hire; do they render such service to the taxpayer that the taxpayer is justified in paying his taxes promptly?

I am a widow and have paid my taxes promptly, at a great sacrifice. I am dependent on the rent of a piece of property for my support. The rent from this property is scandalously low in comparison with the exorbitant high taxes and upkeep expenses. I rented to a Mrs. B., who came in with so-called excellent references, money coming to her from various sources, etc. When I came to collect for the second month's rent I find that Mrs. B. is living under various aliases; the names on the mail box, gas bill, electric light bill, collectors' books, and lease do not correspond. She does not pay her rent, boasts that she has a drag and does not intend to pay any rent. She beats the doctor, the grocer, neighbors, and landlord. I have an applicant for this flat who would make a very satisfactory tenant. I cannot give this applicant possession because the courts have dawdled from August to November in evicting the deadbeat. The court is made up of unpaid city employés, who help these delinquents by misplacing records, postponements of trials, and other delays which are advantageous to the deadbeat but not to the taxpayer. In this way taxpayers are cheated out of money they so sorely need for taxes, etc.

I have been trying for months to have an error in my tax bill rectified. I am sent from one clerk to another, and always get the same grin and evasive answer. The bill is still in error. I know of other taxpayers who are having similar experiences. These same unpaid employés are threatening to take away certain privileges that taxpayers are supposed to get. As far as I can see, the deadbeats get all the privileges and pay no taxes.

Perhaps the people who are not paying their taxes have, like myself, a real grievance, and are using this method to get an accounting of stewardship. Are the judges, the clerks, and the teachers really worthy of their hire? Does the judge ever consider the taxpayer in his postponements of trials? Does the clerk have any other training for his job than mere allegiance to his political boss? Does the teacher take into consideration the deadbeat when teaching good citizenship to the pupils? Mrs. A. H.

PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Much emphasis has been laid by the assessor on the importance of individuals filing schedules of their personal property for taxation. In my own case I filed a sworn schedule with an honest valuation and mailed it to the assessor within the time limit set. Now the list of assessments for my neighborhood has appeared and I find that the assessor has placed a value on my belongings more than sixty (yes, 60) times that I stated. No representative of the assessor's office has visited my premises to make an appraisal, so this absurd valuation is a purely arbitrary and imaginative fiction created in the assessor's office and has no basis whatsoever. All the personal property I ever owned, when it was brand new and if it had been paid for at peak prices, would not have totaled a fraction of the value placed by the assessor. My furniture for a modest apartment is 25 years old and I have a 1928 model of the cheapest make of automobile on the market which was purchased second hand. In this same neighborhood are large hotels and business establishments which are given a lower assessment on the published list.

Of course, I shall make an appeal, but I cannot see why the sworn schedule of a taxpayer honestly cooperating with the authorities should be ignored and he should be forced to lose time going through all the red tape necessary to make an appeal. If the assessments are to be made this way, of what use is it for any one to file a schedule?

H. B. H.

MORE OF THE SAME.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—I am a stenographer and rent a room in a private home. I have never been fortunate enough to be a legatee, nor have I been the recipient of diamonds or jewelry. A deputy assessor has valued my personal property at $400. I must appear before the board again next week (thereby losing another half office day) to convince said board that 25 per cent of that amount represents more than I own in the way of personal property. WINNIE WINKLE.

THAT'S GRATITUDE.

Highland Park, Ill., Nov. 23.—I take it from your editorial, "That's Gratitude," that you are accusing California and the post-reconstruction states of not staying bought. This is considered by politicians as serious as not paying gambling debts. It should not be charged lightly. McRUFUS.

THE WAR DEBTS.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—In his statement of views on the war debts President Hoover said: ". . . I do not mean to say that, if extraordinary circumstances, such as depreciation of currencies and general fall in world trade, have rendered immediate transfers of this next payment in dollars impossible to some nations without losses on both sides, our government should be unwilling to consider a proposal that payments of this installment be made to our account in foreign currencies, transfers to be effected from time to time as the situation of the exchanges permits, of course with guarantees as to the value of such currencies."

A critical analysis of this proposal shows that it really is a surreptitious suggestion to cancel the debts. Of course, the "situation" of the exchanges would never permit the transfers. The debtor nations can and will see to that. Is any one so simple as to believe that "the guarantees as to the value of such currencies" would be worth the paper they would be written on? Such a settlement should not be accepted unless each congressman is willing to accept the currencies at full value for his salary and to pay the President's salary and expenses in the currencies. H. G. HENDRICKS.

OUT OF THE MOUTHS, ETC.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—I read in your newspaper today that Europe can't pay her war debts to the United States. I want to know why Europe doesn't give her battleships to the United States, which were made with our money. I am ten years old and attend the Budlong school, Room 206-5B. SOLON A. BENNETT.

QUALITY....the Better Salesman

Day in and day out, quality is the better salesman.

The more that quality is associated with a product, in the public mind, the greater the goodwill value.

It is quality that adds appetite to foods, durability to furnishings, wear to clothes, performance to cars, tone to radio...

Quality in men and service establishes the strength and reputation of institutions.

It delivers satisfaction, creates confidence, makes customers, builds business —for merchant and manufacturer!

This advertisement speaks from experience—in manufacturing and selling a newspaper for thirty-seven years.

Each day more than half a million people buy The Philadelphia Bulletin.

That is two and one-half times the sales of any other Philadelphia evening newspaper;—

More than all morning papers combined.

A city's preference for a newspaper that has never departed from high standards in news handling or circulation building;

Never resorted to prize, premium or circulation contest to win readers, even in the days of its small beginning.

Because it delivers a fine newspaper day after day to readers, The Bulletin is able to offer manufacturers and merchants the economy of advertising coverage of Philadelphia in one newspaper, at one advertising cost.

And is able to offer this coverage at a rate that makes The Bulletin's advertising cost one of the lowest in America!

GLENN ATTACKS DIVERSION PART OF SEAWAY PACT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The charge that the state department had sacrificed the interests of Chicago and Mississippi valley states in order to successfully negotiate the St. Lawrence seaway treaty with Canada was made before the senate foreign relations subcommittee today by Senator Otis Glenn [Rep., Ill.].

The Glenn accusation climaxed a lively afternoon session during which Assistant Secretary of State James G. Rogers spent a busy two hours defending the state department's handling of the treaty negotiations which culminated in an agreement sharply limiting the diversion of water from Lake Michigan at Chicago. Senator Glenn asserted that the treaty failed to supply sufficient water to make the lakes to the gulf waterway commercially successful.

Rogers Lauds Pact.

Senator Glenn opened the fight on the section of the treaty limiting the Chicago diversion after Assistant Secretary Rogers had highly lauded the terms of the pact, asserted that the seaway eventually will be constructed and denied accusations that the treaty would make the United States bear the lion's share of the cost.

Tomorrow or next day Cleveland Newton, as spokesman for the Mississippi valley states, will follow up the attack of the Illinois senator with a demand that article 8 of the treaty, that deals with the Chicago diversion, be eliminated.

The Glenn attack was leveled primarily at article 8, under which the United States and Canada agree to limit the diversion of water at Chicago eventually to 1,500 cubic second feet.

U. S. Gave In, He Says.

Senator Glenn asserted that the United States in agreeing to this restricted diversion had given in completely to the Canadians in defiance of the wishes of Chicago and the states along the lakes to the gulf waterway. He intimated also that political considerations have had something to do with the statement of the corps of engineers to the effect that 1,500 cubic second feet would give Chicago a successful waterway.

History Novels Lift Worries of Present Day

Four Books Recommended in This Review.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Wanton Mally" by Booth Tarkington. [Doubleday-Doran.]

"Charmian Lady Vibart" by Jeffery Farnol. [Little-Brown.]

"Anne Boleyn" by E. Barrington. [Doubleday-Doran.]

"The Empress" by Carola Oman. [Holt.]

ONE of the best ways to weather what the little boy called "the slump in the depression" is to read about days when depressions were merely the cobblestone roads of everyday life.

BOOTH TARKINGTON.

There have lately been offered tired businessmen and their even tireder wives four books of historical romance which are warranted not to mention the foreign debts, and to shun the possibilities of a scientific age in dealing with such nice questions as whether last year's hat can be reblocked to look like new or not. They are all about times when the surfaces of life were so different that they can make the reader forget today's up-sidaisies and their consequent flops.

But only the surfaces of life are different. Man is personally pretty much what he always was except for a little more efficient plumbing and overhauling system devised by the medicos. Nobody has done an awful lot about changing the human heart.

In "Wanton Mally," for instance, there is a heroine who was "wild" in the days of Charles the Merry in England. She sought sensation and excitement just as the most modern heroine of the most ultra-modern tale of sophistication seeks expression for her ego and release for her inhibitions. But in the end she is just exactly the same contented young wife that any girl is when she marries the one man she wants to marry.

And the wise Chevalier de Champvallon says "You said you would show me the wild new woman produced by this age, and for a time I believed you had done it. No, my friend, no! There is no such creature; it is only an appearance. It is a different manner in courtship—only a different manner and not a reality at all. Your new woman is a woman in every respect the same creature that always she was, which is but too plain as soon as the courting is happily finished. There never can be a new woman."

In other words, each generation sighs that woman is not what she once was, and echo answers, "and she never was." But it is not a moral that Mr. Tarkington points in this novel of the adventures of Mistress Jenny Wilmot, nor any moral at all. Like "Monsieur Beaucaire," "Wanton Mally" is historical romance pure and delightfully simple.

The fact that Mistress Jenny was harder than the proverbial rocks which modern girls are supposed to be is merely a stepping stone (as it were) in the action rather than comment on the feminine sex. The title comes not at all from the tendencies of any of the characters but from the name of both a moor and a road through it which bore that strange label.

Mr. Tarkington has done a charming piece of embroidery in "Wanton Mally," like "Monsieur Beaucaire," but more mature. He did it because he once saw a portrait of a young French gentleman and at another time a portrait of a strangely fascinating "Ugly Lady," and it intrigued him to imagine what the lives of the debonair gentleman and the alluring lady might have been.

"The Broad Highway" brought Jeffery Farnol immense acclaim and fortune, and the tale of Charmian and Peter Vibart is still fresh in the minds of many readers. In "Charmian Lady Vibart" Jeffery Farnol has written a sequel to that alluring romance. Twenty years after its excitements this book takes up the story of many of the principal characters of the best seller of 1911. Twenty years have passed in the lives of both of the characters and the author since then.

"Anne Boleyn" is another of E. Barrington's intriguing fictionized biographies. Its heroine has filled reams of history, biography, drama, and fiction, but never has she been portrayed as a more fascinating creature than E. Barrington portrays her.

"The Empress" by Carola Oman is another fictionized life—of Mathilda, daughter of Henry I. of England. The author has done an astonishingly vivid picture of the times (the twelfth century) and she has written one of the best of the current popular historically fictionized biographies.

Sailing Ships Stir Blood at Art Exhibition

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

There are two sights in this mechanical age which never fail to stir the blood. The one is of ships under full sail and the other is of horses stretching themselves in the race. We have not the horses to consider today, but we have the ships. An exhibition of marine paintings by Edgar L. Bloomster of Chicago opened yesterday in the Carson, Pirie, Scott galleries, to continue through the month. It is an inspiring show.

Rough water swept into blue or green ridges by a spanking breeze carries on its crest great many-sailed boats. A few of these are lake boats, the rest are riders of the salt seas. The best of them all is "Roaring Down the English Channel," a stunning canvas of gale-lashed waves and sailing boat, the boat so high in the picture that its top is lost to view. It is a gallant, stirring, exciting painting.

There is delicate coloring in "Towering Sales," a boat on a quiet sea either at dusk or dawn, for a pinkish quality tinges water and air. Another painting remarkable for the shimmering quality of its color is "South West Breeze," an old lumber schooner on the Great Lakes seen at a moment when the world was tingling with a vibrant light green.

"Arc de Triomphe," "San Michel," and "Notre Dame" take us to firm land and Paris.

Recent etchings by Marguerite Kirmse add to the interest of this exhibition, which will carry over the Christmas holidays.

A new gallery is making a formal opening today. The Arts Center galleries at 161 East Erie street, with a marked lack of capital letters in its announcement, presents a first exhibit consisting of work by Francis Chapin, Louis Cheskin, Theodore Johnson, William Schwartz, Raymond Katz, Marvin Albright, and Olga and Edouard Chassaing.

Two Books of Photos Will Interest Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Two distinguished books of photographs for children have recently been published. The first is "In My Zoo," by Paul Eipper. Photographs by Hedda Walther. [Viking Press.] This book, which is so beautifully illustrated with photographs by Hedda Walther, would be highly prized by any child who loves animals—and are there any who do not? The text is by Paul Eipper, whose passionate love of animals shows in every word of the book. This new fashion of books for children illustrated by photographs is becoming quite a vogue and has much to recommend it.

The second book of this type is "Men at Work: Photographic Studies of Modern Men and Machines," by Lewis W. Hine. [Macmillan]. Those people, whether children or grownups, who can scarcely be pried away from an excavating machine, from a locomotive, and from a derrick lifting girders to the sky, will be enthralled by this book of photographs of men at work, by Lewis Hine.

And perhaps it will help them to understand in terms of everyday living the challenge that present day living is, the adventure that it represents, the dignity of manual work, the beauty of the machine, and our part in it. Mr. Hine has appropriately prefaced his book with an excerpt from William James that may help our young people in feeling the richness of life:

"Not in charging fights and desperate marches only is heroism to be looked for, but on every bridge and building that is going up today, on freight trains, on vessels, and lumber rafts, in mines, among firemen and policemen, the demand for courage is incessant and the supply never fails. These are our soldiers, our sustainers, the very parents of our life."

Isn't that a stirring thought?

Film Theater Owners Seek Peace in War Against 'Block' System

Representatives of independent and chain motion picture theater owners throughout the country met yesterday at the Congress hotel in an attempt to settle their differences on the "block" system of booking motion pictures. Under the block system the theater owners are compelled to take from thirty-five to fifty pictures without being able to select them individually.

W. A. Steffes of Minneapolis, president of the Allied States Association of Motion Picture Exhibitors (the independents), and M. A. Lightman of Memphis, head of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America (the chains), met to discuss the matter through an arrangement by Aaron Saperstein of Chicago, head of the Allied Independent Theater Owners of Illinois.

The independents insisted they intend to support legislation for relief from "block" booking and exclusive selling to the chain houses. The meeting is to be continued today in an effort to reach an accord.

Hats Require Coiffure That Is Just Right

See Beauty Experts, Then Get Millinery.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

If the millinery trifles that perch lightly on all the fashionable heads have been very humorously dubbed "the millinery flippancies of 1932" nothing can be called flippant about the coiffures that contrast these very small pancake size lids.

Until you have carefully inspected your head from every angle in the brutally honest triple mirrors of your dressing table, and hurried to the beauty shop to beg for expert advice and instant aid, you haven't been a very particular hat buyer.

This year you simply can't bury a tousled coiffure under a hat and look anything but a mess . . . you can't wear these fetching new hats with a huge overstuffed mattress effect at the back of your neck . . . and unless you are hopelessly casual you will realize that the new flat methods of keeping your curls sleekly curved around your skull is the only way to match your hats to your own personality.

There isn't a store in town without a large beauty shop . . . some new beauty salon's are occupying nearly every foot of an entire floor . . . everything "new" is available. In these beauty shops are deft fingered operators who know more about the human female head than any bump and bulge knowing phrenologist. These clever operators can wield a hot iron with lots of efficient clicks, and finger wave a stubborn crop of curls into a smooth skull cap arrangement with all the finesse and cunning of years of heady experience.

There was a time when beauty sections, or shops, were the step-children of the various departments of a store, but now they are the most glamorous spots in any store. They are tucked high and away, not because they are not important, but to insure quiet for the facial rooms, where a world weary business woman can slip gratefully into the soft depths of a deeply cushioned chair, close her eyes for an hour or more, even steal forty winks of much needed sleep, while the magical fingers of a silent operator soothes away the lines and worry of a hectic week of frenzied business affairs.

Or you can sign up with an expert of the art of cutting, tie a huge white apron around your neck, and watch the hair fly . . . watch them turn your best angles, the best curves of jaw line, head line, and even nose line in the strong light and then skillfully cut your hair to accent all these good things, and watch them carefully conceal sharp corners and bad bulges with clusters of curls and dips of waving hair.

You can have individual haircuts, haircuts that are just for you, different from any other you will see . . . these personality haircuts are planned for daytime and evening . . . you wear the close sculptored effects with flat stiff looking ringlets for the smartest evening affairs . . . for daytime and street wear, the looser coiffures with a soft fringe of bangs drifting across the forehead.

Good Morning!

Trash.

But I can't let it just go at that because I wish to praise Robert Montgomery's enterprising and excellent performance in an impossible rôle; to speak gratefully of the beautiful work lavished on two tawdry scenes by Anna Appel; to remark that I think Tallulah Bankhead tries desperately to make something of nothing and succeeds as well as could anybody else under like difficulties, AND to express the opinion that producers are mighty foolish to put out rubbish like "Faithless" at a time when the public is shopping shrewdly for its movies.

See you tomorrow.

Church Union Marks Service of 50 Years

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Fifty years of cooperation by the churches of the Chicago Congregational union were celebrated yesterday with a program that culminated in a banquet at the Stevens hotel last night. The Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of New York, radio preacher for the Federal Council of churches, was the principal banquet speaker. President Frederick J. Newey of the union presided.

Dr. Cadman told the 1,200 guests that bad politics in any city has always followed the predatory spirit in business. He declared that bad politicians have less to do with degraded social and political conditions than lack of principle among business and industrial leaders.

"Business men are behind all rottenness in politics," Dr. Cadman asserted.

The speaker pointed to Miss Jane Addams as one of Chicago's greatest contributions to uplift. He declared that Miss Addams had "done more toward building the city of God than all her critics—the Daughters of the American Revolution—combined." Dr. Cadman also praised the work of the early Catholic missionaries who began traversing the central and northwest more than 200 years ago.

The Rev. Ernest Graham Guthrie, general director of the Congregational union, told of the organization's "church planning," to meet the requirements demanded by city population shifts. He declared the present population movements affecting Oak Park have been anticipated. In that city, which since its founding has been a Congregationalist center, Dr. Guthrie said, the population movement, with its influx of Catholic churches and synagogues, had been met through cooperative planning in such a way as to banish friction.

Prof. Arthur E. Holt of the Chicago Theological seminary and director of the United Religious survey, which is the city wide agency for "church planning," told 1,000 pastors yesterday morning the progress that work had made. He spoke at a ministers' meeting at the Central Y. M. C. A. which was held in connection with the anniversary of the Congregational union.

Displaying maps made during the survey, Dr. Holt defined a city as "a vortex of economic struggle." In that vortex, he asserted, the success of Chicago's 3,136 Protestant, 256 Catholic, and 143 Jewish temples and synagogues depended solely on the adoption of a large scale system of denominational and interdenominational planning.

"The real struggle in the city," said Dr. Holt, "is not with the bandit nor with the vicious elements. It is the struggle for economic power between all elements. The struggle is largely without ethics, religion or law—and often in partnership with the underworld—and so involved that it can be little influenced by the churches, which have followed population waves in hit and miss fashion."

Dr. Holt pointed to what he called the Protestant graveyard for churches on the north and northwest sides of the city.

"Scores of churches have died in this area," said Dr. Holt. "It is a regular cemetery of Protestant money. I suggest a commission which, having found the future prospects here to be overwhelmingly for Catholic and Lutheran churches, can make some provision for limiting other Protestant churches and perhaps giving some of the remaining ones interdenominational support.

The Ashland boulevard and Garfield park section was pointed out by Dr. Holt. He said the survey disclosed that the Protestant population had shrunk from 15,000 to 5,000, while the number of Protestant churches remained practically the same.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Copyright, 1932, by Tribune Co., Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read. Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

POOR DISGUISE.

"Anne . . . O! . . . O! . . . Anne! She's killed herself," shrieked Rudolph Shepard, staring at his wife. Hearing his cries, Christopher Newcome, his employer, rushed to the servants quarters.

The pillow on which Anne's tousled red head rested was covered with blood streaming from a bullet hole in the temple.

"Get a doctor, sir," pleaded the servant.

"No use . . . she died instantly. I told you unless you mended your ways this would happen!"

"Who discovered her?" demanded Kelley.

"I did, sir."

"Can't understand how she got my gun!" exclaimed Newcome as Kelley picked it up from the bed.

"You remember, sir, you said it wasn't working properly?" inquired Rudolph. "I brought it up here to fix, removed a piece of grit beneath the ejector and forgot to put it back in your room."

Prof. Fordney observed a uniform and nightgown on a chair beside the bed. Pulling back the covers his attention was drawn to a long recently made scratch running diagonally across the woman's chest. She had removed only her shoes and dress. On the back of both hands, clenched to her sides, were small dark bruises. A bowl of fresh violets stood on a night table with a card signed Rudolph beside it.

Fordney knew that Kelley, while Rudolph was explaining the presence of the gun, realized it was murder and not suicide.

WHEN DID YOU?

[See solution on page 27.]

Makes Opera Debut on 23d Birthday; Is Given Ovation

From the "golden horseshoe" to the "family circle" the plaudits poured forth for the dark-eyed shy lass who celebrated her twenty-third birthday with her New York operatic debut.

The opera was "La Gioconda," and after the second act the night belonged to Miss Bampton, who played the rôle of Laura, wife of the doge of Venice.

The opera allowed the young prima donna ample opportunity for her mezzo-soprano voice. And the applause and praise from critics attested this quality.

Rosa Ponselle, in the title rôle of the ballad singer, gave way to the newcomer in the curtain call.

As Miss Bampton stood alone on the stage, in the glare of lights and amidst the lengthy ovation, the schoolgirl's grin spread over her pretty face.

Chaliapin Gets Great Welcome in Packed House

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Not only a houseful but also an added stageful of enthusiasts were present to greet Feodor Chaliapin in his return to Chicago at Orchestra hall last night. The fact is worth recording if only to show that the great artists are still drawing audiences, though it must be all of two years since Orchestra hall had an overflow attendance.

Time has touched the famous Russian bass but lightly. Perhaps there is a bit more gray at his temples, a line or two more in his face. Perhaps, even, he is induced to scale his effects down a bit so that he uses his full voice less frequently. But he is still a personality to be estimated in terms of spiritual tonnage, an artist of acute, discerning imagination. And when he lets his voice boom out at full force it still has the old-time thrill.

Between his marvelously expressive voice and a no less marvelously expressive pair of hands, he is a weaver of tales in song such as the world has seldom beheld. For once here is a singer whose foreign languages are no handicap to him in America because he projects his meanings regardless of languages.

So he becomes at one time forcefully dramatic in the story of two of Napoleon's grenadiers, or ghostly in another Napoleonic episode, the field of Waterloo at midnight, or mystical in Rimsky-Korsakoff's "The Prophet," or comic in one of his encores about the man who got drunk because his sweetheart turned him down, or greatly, movingly, lyrically tender in another encore, and each one is a complete little drama in itself.

Chaliapin beamed at the greeting of the audience, as well he might, and assured his "dearest friends" that he was glad to be with them "more once for half an hour." The audience was quite as glad, and insisted on making it considerably more than half an hour. He no longer announces his numbers from a book of words, assembling them according to apparent mood, but has a prepared group, two of them in fact, with encores until he is tired of singing. He was assisted by the Chicago violinist, Sol Nemkovsky, last night, who played at the beginning of each half of the program.

Mischa Mischakoff, concert master of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and Rudolph Reuter, Chicago pianist, appeared in joint recital at Kimball hall last night. Their first number was the Cesar Franck Sonata for violin and piano, which they played with a fine sense of ensemble, a notable feature being the exquisite tone of Mr. Mischakoff's violin. Each in turn then made a solo appearance.

Miss Betty Rowe Will Join Debutante Set for Holidays

Popular Girl Coming from New York to Visit Father for Yule Season; Plan Entertainment.

BY JUDITH CASS.

AN attractive addition to the debutante ranks during the Christmas holiday season will be Miss Betty Rowe, who is coming west to spend the holidays with her father, Samuel Davis Rowe, and Mrs. Rowe.

Miss Rowe is living this winter in New York with her mother, Mrs. Eddy Rowe, at 180 East 79th street, and although she isn't having a large formal debut, her mother is giving a series of small affairs for her and she is listed among the current debutantes in the eastern city.

Miss Rowe has many friends here, and undoubtedly she will be included in all the debutante gayety while she is here. Mr. and Mrs. Rowe plan to entertain for her in some way while she is with them, probably at a dinner before one of the balls.

Miss Rowe, who finished at Miss Wheeler's in Providence last spring, will arrive on Dec. 17. Mr. and Mrs. Rowe and David Rowe, who is spending the winter with them, have joined the year 'round colony in Barrington this year. Mrs. Rowe is just back from a fortnight's visit in the east, part of which was spent with her brother, Charles Hickox, and his wife, the former Katherine Barker Spaulding, and their little daughter.

Sixteen of the season's debutantes will lunch today with Miss Rosamond Baker, debutante daughter of the Edward L. Bakers of Lake Forest, at the Woman's Athletic club. Miss Baker is having a series of small parties instead of one large one.

Mrs. Woodbury S. Ober and Mrs. Edison Dick of Lake Forest are to give a luncheon on Sunday for Miss Mary Reed and Miss Jean Schweppe. The 20 guests, including some members of the debutante set and some young married people, will meet first at the Obers' residence and then go on to the Dicks' house for luncheon.

More Parties for Holidays.

Mrs. James B. Forgan Jr. and Mrs. Mason Phelps of Lake Forest are to give a joint party on Dec. 29 for their daughters, Margaret and Nancy Forgan, and Betty Brooks. It is to be an informal affair, for the boys and girls vacationing from school, with the guests having supper at Mrs. Phelps' residence before going on to dance at the Forgan house.

Betty Brooks and Margaret Forgan are both at Farmington and will return to Lake Forest on Dec. 22. Nancy Forgan, who attends the Wheeler school, is expected to arrive home on the 17.

Mrs. Julian Armstrong is to give a dance on Dec. 30 at her Lake Bluff residence for her sub-deb daughter, Katharine, and her friends who will be at home from school for the holidays. Miss Armstrong is a student at the Mount Vernon seminary.

A message from New York yesterday brought the news that a marriage license was issued yesterday to Phyllis Pratt, 20 years old, and Paul H. Nitze, aged 25. They are to be married Friday at the residence of Miss Pratt's mother, Mrs. Ruth Sears Baker Pratt, on East 61st street.

Mr. Nitze's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Nitze, are leaving Wednesday afternoon to go to New York for the wedding, and Walter P. Paepcke, who is married to the former Elizabeth Nitze, is going at the same time. Mrs. Paepcke went east about a week ago to enjoy the pre-nuptial festivities.

Edith Atwater to Visit Mother.

Pretty, young Edith Atwater, who used to live here and who received most of her education at the Faulkner and Francis Parker schools, is to arrive in town Thursday for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Harold Pynchon of 210 East Pearson street, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edith L. Lobdell of 2716 Prairie avenue.

Visiting her family, however, isn't

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Henry White plans to sail his four master ship, the Abigail White, in search of a ship filled with pearl oysters sunk by a French captain before the world war in a lagoon in a South sea island. Arlette Mordecai, the French captain's granddaughter, has brought him complete instructions for finding the ship. Arlette is accompanied by an English woman of title, known as Ladybird. In his crew are Adam Eden, an unemployed engineer; Roberta Millbank, and Peter Orvan. Roberta's father died after his bank failed and Peter was his trusted employe. Henry Shepard, backer of the venture, plans to fill the boat with a cargo of his own choosing and stop at certain ports to trade cargoes.

INSTALLMENT VIII.

THE MATE MAKES GOOD.

Henery was staring toward the shore. A number of small cars appeared to be gathering. The inventor said, nervously: "Hiram, I want you to come with me to my lawyer's office, then to the bank. I'm goin' to need your backin'."

The two men went down the ladder, got aboard a motorboat and shoved off. Peter said: "Henery's folks are trying to get an injunction to keep him from spending money on us. I don't see how they can manage it. He may be a nut, but he's nobody's fool."

Roberta said: "He told me that he was a college graduate."

Ladybird went back into the cabin. Adam came aft. He looked grimy but efficient. "What's up?" he asked.

"Don't know yet. Things seem to be moving, though."

"What are all those bum cars doing over there? They keep coming. Have we got a contract to take 'em out to sea and dump 'em?"

"I'm wondering," Peter said. "This place is beginning to look not only

She looked over the side. "The current's stopped."

like a dump for scrapped cars but boats, too. See all those launches banked in there by the icehouse?"

"Ready to haul out for the winter," Adam offered. "Before they get to be even more frozen assets than they are now."

The minutes passed. Then Ladybird came out. She had changed into a man's white clothes, tunic and trousers, which fitted fairly well. She was a broad-shouldered young woman and the costume might have been an old one of the captain's, hung in some locker.

She said to Adam: "If you don't know it, donkeyman, I'm the mate."

"Well, you look the part."

"This is where I start acting it. We're going to haul in to the wharf."

"What?" Peter protested.

"You heard the order. Hop in the dinghy and carry a small line over there. Adam, you bend a hawser onto it. How much chain you got out?"

"She's nearly hove short, sir."

"Then as soon as your warp is ready, break her out and then take a strain of the hawser on the windlass. I'll slack the line to the kedge astern." She looked over the side. "The current's stopped."

"Let's go," said Adam, with his cheerful grin.

Peter was scared, but obeyed. Ladybird had her orders, though the captain had not suspected that she would act on them while he was ashore. There was by this time a little crowd of men on the wharf, and they tailed into the line Peter carried over, hauled in the big hawser, and made it fast.

Peter rowed back aboard. Adam started his winch, broke out the anchor, and hoisted it awash. Ladybird stood by to slack the cable to the kedge. Under Adam's instructions, Peter took his turns of the big hawser on the other drum and hauled in the line as Adam slowly reeled it in. It was about slack water and the current had stopped, though a slow eddy put strain enough on the bow to keep the hawser taut.

Slowly the big Abigail White moved toward the wharf, swinging on the kedge as Ladybird slacked it handsomely. The schooner was empty and light, and as there was not a breath of air stirring and scarcely any current her drift was gentle and easy. There was plenty of wharf space. At Ladybird's curt order Peter carried another line from the stern to the wharf's end, and the gathering crowd set it taut by man power.

The big vessel came in easily alongside, when a number of volunteers leaped aboard and handled lines to hold her snug. She was well berthed when the captain arrived, breathless.

"What the nation's goin' on here?"

"Berthed her, as you ordered, sir," Ladybird said, and lighted a cigaret.

"Well I'll be darned." He stared at her with a gleam in his blue frosty eyes, then laughed. "What if the tide had turned on you?"

"If the hawser had parted I'd only had to drop the anchor, sir."

"I guess you make good, Mister Mate."

Henery explained in his dry, whimsical way with its curious sudden flashes of eagerness:

"What a vessel like this has got mostly is space, carryin' capacity. Seems like a shame to waste it, even if we ain't sure of a market for the cargo. I'm just takin' a chance."

"On what, sir?" Adam asked.

"Sellin' or tradin' off my stuff. I figger to pay the overhead anyhow, and meantime you folks can go ahead with whatever you got in mind."

"What are we carrying beside the foodstuffs the captain mentioned?" Peter asked.

"Used cars and boats. I advertised in the local papers hereabouts to buy any of both that ran to suit me for cash not to exceed a hundred dollars for any one boat or car. Well, sir, I got some bargains."

"I'll bet you have," Adam said. "Too bad we can't carry a few shore cottages, too."

"O, I bought a couple bungalows," Henery said. "Got a fellow takin' 'em down and numberin' the parts to stow on deck. Between the boats. Dunnage, like."

"And it's your idea to trade off this stuff in some foreign port for local products?" Adam asked.

"Don't know of any law against tradin' things," Henery said. "I aim to forget about money. Until we get home again."

"If the United States government can do it, why can't you?" Peter asked.

"That's what I want to find out, Mr. Peter. Uncle Sam ain't so dumb as lots of scared folks nowadays like to tell each other. He carried down a lot of his surplus flour to Brazil and swapped it out for their surplus coffee. Not a cent changed hands—'cept a few tips, maybe, to the boys that lugged it back and forth. Well, I'd save that, even. Hand those lads a little soap and safety razors."

"What else could you bring back, Mr. Shepard?" Roberta asked.

"And salt," amended the captain. "When I loaded it at Turks island I could have paid all my labor with a few of those early experiments in tin cars over on the wharf. They'd have gambled for her, and the noisier when her proud owner was going for a ride."

GASOLINE ALLEY—INTERVIEW

Two Hard Guys of Films Owe Start to Chorus

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 28.—Two of the hardest guys on the celluloid—that is, they always are hard in their film characters—started life as chorus men in the "Pitter Patter" company together. I am referring to Jimmy Cagney and Allen Jenkins.

Jenkins, who was "Allyn" in his theater debut as a dancing man, bids fair to become one of the popular portrayers of tough mug roles—something like the way Edward G. Robinson started out—following his work in Fox's "Rackety Rax," Warner's "I Am a Fugitive," and "Hard to Handle."

The friendship that led Cagney and Jenkins off the sidewalks of New York and around to the stage entrance together persists here. Neither ever worked as a chorus man after that one show.

Since then Jenkins prefaced his debut in Hollywood by playing in the second stage company of "What Price Glory." He replaced Spencer Tracy in the leading role of "The Last Mile," played in the original stage productions of "The Front Page," "Wonder Boy" and "Blessed Event," and really crashed the films when he was imported here to play the same part in the cinema version of "Blessed Event," being the gangster who talks hard but gets scared. Right now he has a lead in the "Mind-reader."

At present Messrs. Cagney and Jenkins are having sort of a continual reunion here. Jenkins, who is something of a yachtsman, has been dragging Cagney down to the docks at San Pedro to price the boats, and the pair eventually expect to buy a sailing craft together.

Adolphe Menjou is practicing threading a needle with his tongue for his new role as a magician in "Now You See It" at RKO.

The lion that got excited and bit Buster Crabbe in Paramount's "King of the Jungle" was none other than a sedate and patriarchial old animal named Gilmore, who started life as mascot for a Los Angeles corporation and grew up not to have a human hand raised against him. The reason Gilmore got excited was because some one at the Paramount studio was trying to induce him to climb a tree, and Crabbe happened to be closest at hand when this unfamiliar assignment got him flustered. And the bite didn't bother Buster very much, I understand, because Gilmore doesn't have that kind of teeth.

It took two circus training cars to bring Clyde Beatty's lions, tigers and other pets from Peru, Ind., to Universal City for Beatty's film "The Big Cage." Beatty expects to have cameras record a sequence in which he handles a couple dozen lions and tigers in one act.

Betty Rowe to Be in Chicago for Yule Parties

Coming from New York to Visit Father.

the prime reason for coming to Chicago just at this time, for Miss Atwater is one of the four young people in the cast of "Springtime for Henry," which opens its Chicago engagement Friday night at the Blackstone theater.

Edith is just 21, but already she has played in several stage productions, including Galsworthy's "Escape," "The Black Crook," and "After Dark" in Christopher Morley's Hoboken theater and in stock companies in Gloucester, Mass., and Woodstock, N. Y.

Mrs. James O. Heyworth of Lake Forest has gone east to spend the winter in Southport, Conn., and New York. Her house has been leased by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hobings, newcomers to Lake Forest from New York. The Hobings intend to reside permanently in Lake Forest and will find another house after Mrs. Heyworth returns in the late spring.

Mrs. Cecil Barnes left last week-end for the east. While the length of her stay is indefinite, she will be back in time to spend Christmas with her family.

Edith Cummings Returns Soon.

Miss Edith Cummings will return soon from a series of visits in the south. She was a guest of the "Jock" Whitneys at a race meeting at their Middleburg, Va., estate early in the month, and then spent Thanksgiving with the John Bordens at their plantation at Grenada, Miss. Her mother, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, closed her Lake Forest residence a few weeks ago and moved into her town apartment for the winter.

Mrs. William H. Mitchell, who also has been visiting the Whitneys, returned to Lake Forest on Sunday night and departed again yesterday for a short hunting trip.

Miss Marjorie Horton, daughter of Mrs. Samuel M. Rinaker of Lake Forest, has come in to be at the Drake hotel for a week because there are so many activities going on in town for the young people that it is practically impossible to attend them all and commute back and forth from the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolcott Blair have opened their lovely town house on Lake View avenue overlooking Lincoln park. Since their return from Europe in early October they had been occupying the Lake Forest residence of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clow Jr.

Mrs. Keene Addington is to remain in Lake Forest with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Otis L. Hubbard, until after the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward W. Willits of Highland Park have closed their house on South Sheridan road and moved to the Moraine hotel. Later in the season they may go to Tucson, Ariz. Mr. and Mrs. Cyril P. Mertens and Mrs. Earl W. Spencer are among other Highland Parkers at the Moraine for the early winter.

Go to Phoenix for Winter.

Mrs. Robert Bartlett and Miss Audrey Bartlett of Lake Forest have gone to Phoenix, Ariz., to spend the winter there. Miss Beverly Bartlett is at the Marlborough school in Los Angeles this winter.

The Burridge Butlers have closed their Hinsdale residence and have left to open their Phoenix place for the winter. Their western estate is in Arcadia, a fashionable community about ten miles from Phoenix, and they have an enviable location on the slope of Camelback mountain with a gorgeous view of the desert and the irrigated citrus groves beyond.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Fowler of Winnetka returned yesterday from a visit in New York and Philadelphia. They were joined for Thanksgiving by their daughter, Mary, and Miss June Darling of Kenilworth, who are students at the Ogontz school.

Mr. and Mrs. Rochester B. Slaughter arrived at the Drake hotel yesterday from their estate at Land o' Lakes, Wis., to spend a few weeks in Chicago.

Junior League Fair Meeting.

About 100 members of the Junior league will meet with officials of A Century of Progress at noon today in the Administration building to discuss plans for promoting "The Enchanted Island," the publicizing of which the league has undertaken along with the operation of the Children's theater, one of the island's many attractions for youngsters.

President Rufus C. Dawes of A Century of Progress, Nathaniel Owings of the exposition staff, and Miss Dorothy Schmidt, chairman of the Century of Progress committee of the league, will be among the speakers.

Gifts for a dollar and even less will be on sale today, along with more expensive things, of course, at the Ell Bates sale to be held at Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen's residence, 1430 Astor street, from 10 to 6 o'clock.

The committee in charge of the second annual dinner dance to be given by the Highland Park-Ravinia center of the Infant Welfare on Saturday night at the Shawnee Country club has arranged for bridge tables for those who do not care to dance. There will also be a surprise program of entertainment. Mrs. John C. Bray is chairman of the dance committee.

An exhibition and sale of Fireside Industries of Berea college was opened in the Colonial room of the Blackstone hotel yesterday and will continue today and tomorrow from 9 in the morning until 9 at night.

Mrs. Samuel T. Chase announces that the White Elephant Rummage shop will hold its annual Christmas sale on Friday. There will be a collection of new things. Mrs. Charles K. Foster and Mrs. Allen Watson are chairmen of arrangements. Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Watson are to give a picnic lunch at the shop for the committee members.

Mrs. Robert G. McGann's plan to leave for California with Mr. McGann will not materialize now for some time, as she fell on Saturday and broke her hip. She is now at Alice Home hospital and will be there for at least a month.

THE STAGE

The American Theater society is unable to find a play for its Chicago subscription program to follow "There's Always Juliet," which will end its engagement at the Erlanger theater next Saturday night. This will cause a gap of three weeks at least in what has been promised as an "autumn series of five plays."

A likely candidate for the fourth play, to open Dec. 26, is the Theater guild's dramatization of "The Good Earth," which will end its New York run next Saturday night and go on tour. The American Theater society represents a merger of the circuits of the Theater guild and the Dramatic league. The organization appears to be unable to find or produce plays according to schedule.

Helen Menken, who appeared with the Chicago Civic Shakespeare company last fall, will soon become an actress-manager, with "Saint Wench," a drama by John Colton, author of "Rain" and "Shanghai Gesture," as her vehicle. She started rehearsals and plans for a Broadway premiere early in January.

"Saint Wench" was first staged on the Pacific coast in 1931 with Ruth Chatterton in the central role. Mr. Colton says that the play comes from a Croatian source, and names a certain William Begovic as the original author.

Short and Long Evening Capes Shown in Paris

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Smart Parisiennes are stepping out these chilly nights under the protection of cape wraps instead of coats.

In the sketch today are shown the long and short types of the caped wrap invasion. In the lower part of the sketch is pictured the three-quarters length cape that has taken Paris by storm. In black Lyons velvet, it completely wraps around the body, starting at the right shoulder, and ending with a right side closing. There is a high standing collar of black fox fur, which also starts on the right shoulder, encircles the neck, and descends, shawl fashion, down the closing, to the waist.

At the top of the sketch is shown the back and front of a caped coatee, which is just as popular as the real caps. It is also in velvet, in a deep, rich purple, comes to the bottom of the hips, and as you can see in the upper left sketch, has a waist-deep capelet. This capelet, which has a surplice closing in front, is bordered with sable.

Mrs. Kendall Claims World Can't Afford Any More Gandhis

Mrs. Patricia Kendall, American writer who has spent several years in India, told the English Speaking union and the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations yesterday that "we cannot afford any more Gandhis." She addressed a joint luncheon of the two groups at the Palmer house.

"Our welfare and prosperity are definitely tied up with the Indian question," Mrs. Kendall declared. "If Mr Gandhi has his way there will be war. The Indian people are not ready to take over their government in accordance with Great Britain's promises of 75 years ago. In not one direction have the Indians shown themselves ready for that responsibility.

"If Gandhi's followers take over the railroads, Great Britain's war ships will be assembled to protect her property, and we will be compelled to control the Pacific. If four and a half billion dollars are wiped off the London Stock Exchange because of the loss of the railroads, think what that is going to do to Wall street."

Liberal Use of Ginger Ale Enlivens Menu

Pomegranate Flavor Adds Pretty Color as Well.

BY MARY MEADE.

Something that will add that sprightly sparkle to timeworn but still tasty food combinations is ginger ale. And a new flavor to prompt that what-is-it, taste-it-again sensation, is pomegranate ginger ale, lately brought on the market.

The use of ginger ale in food combinations is not a new idea, but the pomegranate flavored ale, which can be used for every purpose and in every recipe in which the plain type is incorporated, brings a new exotic tang to those foods.

Start the dinner, for instance, with a fruit cocktail—the little symmetrical cubes or balls of fruit perked up with a dressing of pomegranate ginger ale. The pomegranate sirup used to flavor this ginger ale contributes the dainty pink color and the faintly sweet aroma artistic kitcheneers will appreciate.

Or a cool ginger ale salad will make an appropriate refreshment for the choice little afternoon club. Made with either the plain or pomegranate variety of ginger ale to tingle the tongue, it is given body and a holiday spirit by the addition of shredded blanched almonds and chopped candied citron.

Ginger ale in fruit beverages gives that necessary punch to punch, and here again the pomegranate ginger ale may be used in the same proportions. Combine it with blended fruit juices and float a block of orange ice in the bowl. Or add it to sweet cider for a gay cold weather note. The following tasty julep promises a flip to the most blasé palate:

MINT JULEP.

1 cup lemon juice
1 bunch fresh mint
1½ cups sugar
¼ cup water
2 pints ginger ale
Ice

Add mint leaves, sugar, and water to lemon juice. Let stand 30 minutes. Pour over a large piece of ice and add ginger ale. Serve in small glasses.

CIDER PUNCH.

3 cups sugar
2 cups water
Grated rind 2 oranges and 1 lemon
2 qts. cider
Juice 6 oranges and 6 lemons
4 cloves
Small stick cinnamon
1 qt. ginger ale
1 pint orange ice

Boil the sugar and water to a sirup with the spices. Cool. Strain into fruit juices. Chill. Before serving add the cider and ginger ale and pour over the block of orange ice into a punch bowl.

GINGER ALE SALAD.

1 cup water
1 pint ginger ale
2 tsp. lemon juice
¼ cup orange juice
1 cup sugar
¼ cup shredded blanched almonds
¼ cup chopped candied citron
1 cup shredded pineapple
4 tbsp. lemon flavored gelatin
½ cup pineapple juice

Dissolve sugar in pineapple juice, 1 cup water, orange juice, and lemon juice. Bring to the boiling point and add the gelatin to dissolve. Cool and add the rest of the ingredients. Pour into one large mold or individual molds and chill in refrigerator. Unmold on crisp lettuce.

College Pair, Wed, Treading a Thorny Path

BY DORIS BLAKE.

They are two young college people, still attending school, but married and living in a tiny apartment, some of the time exquisitely happy, some of the time not. Moments of regret over their early marriage are beginning to appear for both man and girl.

His discontent he works off in "temperamental fits," as his beloved calls them. Any little act on his young wife's part will send him into a tantrum, highly sprinkled with profanity, unfortunately. The young woman's duty becomes the making up one after each explosion. The heavy silence gets her, and she is willing to speak and forget.

Several times she has thrown into the ring a divorce threat, "which he takes with calmness," the girl wife reports. Says he's mighty sick of it all and would appreciate the life of a single man once more. Between the arguments, however, they have wonderful times together. So much so that the girl wonders during these happy hours how she could ever have thought of leaving her man.

"He is restless when we are alone evenings," she further reports. "He has one of those temperaments that has to be doing something, seeing people, or he is cheated. Personally, I like nothing better than a quiet evening at home. I prefer people who are interesting, refined, educated. He doesn't care for any particular type—just likes people generally. I do not enjoy his silly friends and have stayed at home alone rather than go out with them."

What "Lu" wants is help on building her marriage for permanence. Divorce is the last thing she ever wants from her husband.

One of the problems of young marriage is the cooped-up feeling a tiny apartment gives to restless youth. Another is not to mention divorce, even as a threat. It's bad psychology. And still another is one of the things you learn from living. You simply cannot say, "I prefer this and that and it has to be my way!" It's compromise, compromise, compromise all along the line of living, and women have to do more of it than men. Right or wrong, that's the way it works out.

So if you have a restless, young, sociable individual on your hands you must learn you can't keep him cooped up; that isolation is for the old, and not too good for them either.

Critic Derides Women's Love of Cold Creams

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

A correspondent, male, we have reason to suspect, protests about our modern methods of skin cleansing when, he argues, our forbears got along with soap and water. He thinks this annual expenditure for cream and lotion, of which our sex is guilty, the "bunk and nothing but the bunk, so help him grandma!"

Well, grandma lived, and worked, and thrived under more natural conditions than we do. She probably lived more outdoors. Anyway, she got around on her own two feet more. She had a better chance than we in the daily performance of her household duties to build up a strong inner resistance. Isn't it reasonable to suppose that our current mode of living demands a more elaborate, more scientific method of face cleaning?

Anyway, if it is "the bunk and nothing but," it's grand bunk and we women love it, which is reason enough for us to pursue the creams and lotions with all our might. After all, we still do keep on using soap and water. The creams and lotions are simply contributions born of a modern day necessity.

But speaking of this pursuit of the complexion beautiful, let's see what can be done about keeping the skin clear of that commonest of all blemishes—blackheads, or comedones as they are more elegantly designated. Let's look at the kind of skin that provides the most fertile soil for them.

By common vote the skin with the thin film and the heavy film of grease is most susceptible. You see comedones in dry skins, but investigation usually discloses that they were implanted there when the skin was in more oily condition. The comedone proper is not dirt. It is only grimed on top. The blackhead itself is a formation due to a bacterial disease of the fat glands of the skin. The germ is called acne bacilli because of its capacity for creating a real acne problem out of these imprisoned formations.

If blackheads are allowed to remain in the skin they become pimples. The lesions enlarge and become inflamed. This is why no single blackhead should be looked upon as a harmless blemish.

The True Story of the American Wage-Earner as a Stabilizing Force

We promised to give to you important operators of American business affairs, who are apparently among the readers of these pages, some rather direct information regarding the equally important mass of America's wage-earners who are now in the forefront of your minds.

It is not our purpose to discuss this great American wage-earning mass as a market for your products. If, in your judgment, they are not a market, then you may as well close up shop. American factories, including your factory, are geared for mass production. And the only place you can get the mass consumption necessary for such production is in your overpoweringly great wage-earning masses. Selected, of course, from amongst that mass that is still employed and best employed; but there is no longer even a desperate hope of any great market in any other class.

* * * * *

Our purpose is rather to discuss the stability of that wage-earning mass, the tremendous job it has done in holding the boat steady during the past three years when the very captains have been most doubtful of the outcome, its position now as you come into calmer seas, and its capacity to carry on as you lay your course toward the harbor of prosperity.

First of all, please be advised that we do not presume to speak for the wage-earners of America, but we do feel very capable of speaking of them. True Story Magazine is at the receiving end of many, many thousands of their letters and manuscripts, all too real in their personal expression and far too numerous to have any doubt of their authenticity.

These letters and manuscripts tell us in no uncertain terms that the American wage-earner still wants the good things of life, the more cultural things with which he was getting acquainted in 1928 and 1929, that his spirit has in no wise been broken, and that his capacity for getting these things under a process of selectivity is about the same as yours.

True Story is fortunate in always having about two million of this selected group that is still employed, and well employed. We know this because True Story is mainly sold on the newsstand from month to month. It is practically the only magazine that wage-earning America does buy. And we know from long experience that when wage-earners get out of a job, or when things tighten up, the first thing they stop buying is a magazine.

* * * * *

So first we take our innumerable human documents here at True Story Magazine to find out whether the wants and desires and ambitions of the wage-earners are still the same. Then we try to see whether they are getting any of these things in the more selected groups where capacity still remains, and then we go over to your side of the fence and see how this desire and capacity is reflected in what you are doing at the factory end.

Almost any product is as good to check on as any other. Automobiles are probably the hardest test; so let's take them.

Toward the end of this year of our Lord 1932 the biggest selling automobile amongst the higher priced cars—that is, cars that sell for a thousand dollars or more—represents only about five percent of the total sales of automobiles. And in its advertising, this car claims a sale three times as great as any other car in its class.

Each of the two most famous, best known makes of high priced automobiles this year represents less than six-tenths of one percent of the total automobile sales.

All of the automobiles of all of the automobile companies that come above the first price levels represent less than thirty percent of the total sales.

So you have over seventy percent of the total automobile output for 1932 concentrated in Plymouths and Chevies and Fords and Rocknes and Essexes.

These are facts about which a considerable amount of thinking can be done. Of course, quite a few of you malefactors of great wealth, as you used to be popularly called, are now riding in Plymouths and Chevies and Fords. But all recent surveys show that a very high percentage of these Plymouths and Chevies and Fords are still going to the great wage-earning market where they have always gone. In fact, one of the three big automobile companies just recently checked this up and found it so.

It is exceedingly interesting how we are able here at True Story to take the mass of grist that comes to our mill, get the perfect reflection of what it means, and then go out and find it verified in your mill.

1932 FOOTBALL TAKES 37 LIVES; LIST SMALLER

Fewer Fatalities On Organized Teams.

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Despite added safeguards in the rules, death again took heavy toll of football players in the United States and territories during the season now drawing to a close. Records show that 37 succumbed to injuries in games on sandlot, club, municipal, high school and college gridirons.

With most high school schedules completed, the total for the year probably will fall well below the record number of 50 fatally injured in 1931, but the present figure is the second largest for any year since national records were kept. Up to 1931 the largest number was 26, in 1925.

Of the 37 dead, five were college players, 17 high school, and 15 sandlot, semi-pro and club team competitors.

Stricter Officiating Helps.

The new rules, passed last spring and designed to ward against any such casualty list as that of last year, seem to have been successful in organized college and university conferences, where games were played under stricter officiating and better coaching. Reports on sandlots, neighborhood and some high school games, however, indicate some of the deaths might have been avoided if there had been closer adherence to the rules and better medical supervision.

Although five college players died of football injuries, only one was hurt during a regularly scheduled game—Ralph McClure of Colorado college, whose neck was broken in a game against the University of Colorado. The other college players who died all were injured in interclass games or in practice.

Football Not Blamed.

John Panek, captain of the Denver university team, died Saturday of influenza and general infection, but university authorities said his football playing was not responsible.

It has been estimated that at least 400,000 high school boys play the game each year on organized school teams, 50,000 on college teams, and unestimated thousands more on semi-pro, municipal and unorganized neighborhood teams. In the light of the number participating in the game the fatalities do not seem large.

In organized professional football, where the game is played under the old rules, as the dead ball and flying wedges, flying tackles and blocks are allowed, there were no fatal or even serious injuries.

The full list of deaths and their causes as gathered from Associated Press reports and by New York university in collaboration with the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters follows:

GOPHERS ELECT OEN CAPTAIN OF ELEVEN IN 1933

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Roy Oen of Thief River Falls, Minn., for two years varsity center, today was elected captain of the 1933 University of Minnesota football team. His selection to succeed Capt. Walt Hass was announced tonight at a banquet given for the Gophers at the St. Paul Athletic club. Oen is 22 years old and has won two letters in football, his only varsity sport.

NEWCOMER LEADS MIAMI-BILTMORE OPEN GOLF MEET

Revolta, Michigan Pro, Has 144 for 36 Holes.

Coral Gables, Fla., Nov. 28.—(AP)—John Revolta, 21 year old professional from Menominee, Mich., came home with 73—71—144 to win second day honors in the last few minutes of today's play in the $10,000 Miami-Biltmore open golf tournament.

Until the last few scores were posted the lead at the tournament's half way mark had been conceded to the 145s registered by Johnny Farrell of New York and Al Espinosa of Akron.

Revolta coupled a 36 and 35 for second day play in the nation's richest 1932 golf tourney as he pulled the lead from the two veterans after the gallery had departed for the day.

Revolta was Wisconsin state open champion in 1930 and 1931. He played for Chippewa Falls club before moving across the state line to Michigan.

Farrell Shoots a 70.

Farrell had two 35s today for a 70 to add to his 75 of Sunday. Al Espinosa took 36—36—71 today, but had 74 Sunday for his 145.

Roland Hancock, Stoneham, Mass., who stood in second place as play started today, was in third place tonight with a 71—75—146.

Six professionals were grouped with scores of 147 and four with marks of 148. The contenders at 147 were Jack Cattell, Jacksonville, Fla., pro, who led the field yesterday with 69—78; Joe Kirkwood, Chicago, with 72—75; Paul Runyan, West Chester, N. Y., with 75—72; Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., with 77—70; Walter Hagen, Detroit, with 75—72, and Tommy Armour, Boca Raton, Fla., with 73—74.

Sarazen Cards 150.

Gene Sarazen, defending the title he won at the last $10,000 Miami Biltmore open in March, 1932, was within the first twenty finishers with a 77—73—150.

Playing in his first major tournament, Revolta, a dark horse on Florida courses, was one over par on his outbound trip, playing in rain squalls that attacked the difficult course at noon. He pulled his game up on the back nine, however, and was 1 under par to take an even par 71 for the eighteen holes.

Twenty-nine professionals were within 8 strokes of the leaders as the half way mark in the tournament was reached.

The Chicagoans among the 62 professionals who qualified for the final 36 holes include Kirkwood, Abe Espinosa, 76—76—152; Dave Tosh, 80—73—153; John Rouse, 79—75—154; Horton Smith, 78—76—154, and Tom Carney, 83—76—159.

Following are the amateurs who will be included in final 36 hole play tomorrow for low score and a leg on the Henry L. Doherty cup:

Curtis Bryan, Jacksonville, Fla., 77—78—155; Celest. Durand Jr., Brooklyn, 81—80—161; Tom Goodwin, Monroe, N. Y., 84—80—164; H. Carl Danz Jr., Orlando, Fla., 80—85—165; H. B. Rust Jr., Providence, R. I., 86—80—166; Art Lynch, New York, 84—82—166; Ike Merrill Jr., Orlando, Fla., 86—81—167; T. S. Price, Coral Gables, 90—81—171; C. Harmon, Orlando, Fla., 88—83—171, and Jack Vlos, Chicago, 88—88—172.

CHICAGO SETS LOWEST BIG 10 BASKET PRICES

Following the policy it established this autumn in football, when its prices were the lowest in the conference, the University of Chicago has set the lowest basketball admission prices in the Big Ten. Season books for 13 home games will be $5, an average price of 39 cents a game. Because of the low price, no federal tax is imposed.

Prices for individual games also will be well under the average for colleges. For all nonconference games except Notre Dame's appearance on the Midway, tickets will be 40 cents with no tax imposed. The six home conference games and the Notre Dame game will be 75 cents, including tax. These prices are for reserved seats.

Admission for the Christmas week basketball tournament, Dec. 26 to Dec. 31, will be 35 cents through the quarter-finals. For the semi-finals and the Maroon-Kentucky game general admission will be 40 cents and reserved seats, including tax, 75 cents.

It Bostrom Could Only Sew He'd Do His Own Stitching

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Capt. Helge Bulgy Bostrom, among the most rugged of major league defense men and one of the most popular members of the Blackhawks, derives some of his fame from his ruggedness and some from his popularity as a team man. But his greatest item of fame is something that causes no hockey player any envy: Bulgy is the most hemstitched human in hockey and perhaps in all sport.

Hockey players have a way of keeping track of their stitches just as they keep track of their goals and assists. Bostrom is the champion of them all when it comes to having wounds sewed up. In his hockey career he has submitted to 243 stitches.

Previous to last year Capt. Helge was among the leaders with 101 stitches. Then a year ago last Thursday, while the Hawks were playing the Rangers in New York, Graham checked Earl Seibert and the big Ranger did a spin and slashed Helge's lower leg and instep with his skate. The sewing then set in in earnest, 142 stitches being required to close the wound. This gave Helge the record for the biggest sewing at one sitting and the high run for a hockey career with 243.

Don't Let Those Wrinkles Fool You.

Some folks say that Bostrom is the Jack Quinn, the Bob Fitzsimmons, or the Reggie McNamara of hockey, which is to say he is carrying on as a top flight performer much beyond the span allotted to topnotchers in professional sports. Helge, however, says that those turtlelike wrinkles in his neck have nothing to do with age and merely reflect the outdoor life he's always led.

The books show he was born in Winnipeg Jan. 9, 1896. Though that's an early date as compared with other Hawk birthdays the circumstance doesn't worry Helge, and he plans to stay in the majors about 20 years longer.

Since Bostrom broke into organized hockey with the Winnipeg Ypres in 1918 he has played in eight world series playoffs—with Edmonton, Vancouver, and the Blackhawks.

In addition to his hockey Bostrom once launched a career as a heavyweight boxer, but found that his aggressiveness caused him to bore into his adversaries in such a way that his face often collided with the glove of his opponent. He frequently ran into gloves with such force that he knocked himself to the floor. While this really was no reflection on Bulgy, his friends say, many fight fans thought he was being knocked down by the blows of his opponents and became prejudiced, advising him to stick to hockey.

BULGY

Tried His Hand at Baseball, Too.

Bulgy also has been a baseball player, holding down the third base job for the Dominion Express team in Vancouver, where he lives. He is said to have been a powerful hitter, but gave up the game because rooters for enemy teams insisted upon yelling "Hit it to Bostrom" whenever they were pulling for a rally.

While such stories are told about his flights in games other than hockey, there is only one anecdote about his hockey playing designed to embarrass the captain. When he was playing in the Pacific Coast league the circuit had a penalty shot regulation not unlike the free throw in basketball. The puck was placed 40 feet out from the cage and the penalty shooter was required to circle the rink, bear down on the puck, and shoot it at the open net while skating at full speed.

The first time Bostrom tried it, before a full house, he skated around the rink with a great show of power and grace but missed the puck entirely. He lit on his shoulders and he, instead of the puck, went into the net. This experience caused the Viking blood of our hero to boil no end. He concentrated on penalty goal shooting and set a record by making nine straight penalty goals in competition.

Pro Golfers Form Tourney Association

Miami, Fla., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Leading competitive golfers today organized a tournament golfers' association and plan an active campaign to promote open golf tournaments in the United States and Canada.

Gene Sarazen, American and British open champion, stated that the most important work of the association will be to aid cities and resorts in the promotion of open tournaments and that a survey will be made of American universities to determine the possibility of having professional golfers added to the athletic coaching staffs during a portion of the year.

"We expect," said Sarazen," that all professional golfers will benefit through our efforts, but have at this time requested support for the association only from players now in Miami who have been most successful during recent years in tournament competition."

It was decided that no officers will be elected, but that Robert E. Harlow, former manager of Walter Hagen, will act as manager for the association.

Through the efforts of Henry Picard and Walter Hagen, members of the association, an open tournament has been arranged for Charleston, S. C., to precede the North and South at Pinehurst, and negotiations have been started to arrange a West Coast of Florida circuit of tournaments.

Hanley Starts Picking Players for Coast Game

Coach Dick Hanley of the Northwestern football team returned to Evanston yesterday from a vacation trip in the east and immediately set to work picking the players who will compose the all star eastern eleven which is to play a team of west coast players Jan. 2 at San Francisco. The game is played annually for the benefit of the Shrine hospital for crippled children.

The east team again will be coached by Hanley and Andy Kerr of Colgate. Hanley will select eleven players from the central west, while Kerr will pick eleven from the east. The 22 players will assemble in Chicago on Dec. 19 for the trip west.

Choice of the players for the east team has been held up by the uncertainty attending the selection of the east's representative for the Rose Bowl game. With Colgate, Michigan, and Pittsburgh all under consideration, the coaches have withheld invitations to players on these teams.

Those to whom invitations probably will be issued this week are Moss of Purdue and Fenel of Northwestern, ends; Kurth of Notre Dame and Wells of Minnesota, tackles; Geiler of Purdue, center; Berry of Illinois and Rentner of Northwestern, half backs; Horstman of Purdue, full back; Harris of Notre Dame, Smith of Ohio, and Gonya of Northwestern, guards, and Newman of Michigan, quarter back.

PICK TROJANS TONIGHT.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 28.—(AP)—With the Rose tournament football committee meeting tomorrow night to officially pick the University of Southern California as the west's representative in the annual Rose bowl classic Jan. 2, the question of the Trojans' opponent was no nearer a solution today.

Michigan still stands as the favorite to get the game, if the Big Ten barrier against post-season games can be removed.

Cadets Know Notre Dame Plays, Can't Stop 'Em.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 28.—The Rockne stuff, as the Notre Dame football maneuvers are known to the trade, is still effective stuff when operated according to plan, and talk of its being out-moded had been premature.

The West Point players in last Saturday's game undoubtedly knew all the movements, not only because they and preceding generations—a generation being three years in football—had faced it before, but also because their coaches had been refreshing their own professional knowledge of Rockne stuff by studying this year's team intently for several weeks. Their observations had been communicated to the athletes at the military academy in special preparation for the Notre Dame game.

So It Isn't Important, Eh?

There is a tendency now to relegate the Notre Dame game to a position of secondary importance in the Army's football scheme and to suggest that the Navy game is the one that really counts. Sentimentally the Navy game is the Army's favorite, but to have won from Notre Dame would have been a much greater achievement for West Point than a conquest of the Naval academy next Saturday might be. The players on both sides and the customers realized this and any one connected with the Army's football organization who contends otherwise is only trying to console himself.

There have been two almost perfect demonstrations of two football systems in the east within the last week. At Providence, on Thanksgiving, the Colgate team, coached by Andy Kerr, who was Pop Warner's understudy at Pitt and Stanford, performed the Warner stuff in a manner close to the theoretical ideal. While the line held according to theory, the backs handed the ball around in a most elaborate series of passes, meanwhile spinning, bowing, and tap-dancing with the automatic precision of a Wayburn chorus, according to theory.

It Is Pickpocket Strategy.

The result was that the Brown university boys who were not bowled over according to the blue prints were drawn off on futile errands in pursuit of decoys, also according to Pop Warner's most sanguine expectations. Mr. Warner's strategy is basically the same as that of some of the old fashioned mobs of pickpockets who, in turn, seem to have borrowed it from some of the great military captains.

The great military captains had a word for it. They called it a diversion. Among the pickpockets the diversion was created by a mock argument between two members of the troupe in the crowd at the head end of a street car. When the rest of the passengers became interested in the excitement the boys at the rear end lifted all the watches and wallets within reach and quietly handed them to still other parties.

If all went according to plan the entire team would then drop off at the next corner and hop another street car to start another argument. If, however, all did not go according to plan and the boys who lifted these articles were accused of doing same they would exclaim indignantly, "Who, me? Well then, search me."

Pretty When It Works.

This was a deception play and theoretically it was a very good play, but it did not always work and neither does the Warner stuff. But when the Warner stuff does work, as it did at Providence, it is very pretty to watch, with most of the defensive team sitting emphatically down at the invitation of the offensive linemen or running into one another on the loose in a confused pursuit of several parties who did have the ball a second ago but haven't got it now.

Often in the Thanksgiving game members of the Brown team rushed up to tackle members of the Colgate back field who assumed an air of injured innocence and said, "Who, me?"

The Rockne stuff is less elaborate, presenting fewer chances for error in execution, but both kinds of stuff have this in common with an omelette, that even given the materials and the recipe, an awful mess can be made of it by parties who do not know pre-

Ohio Picks Capt. Hinchman for Tribune Football Award

Columbus, O., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Lewis Hinchman, Ohio State's fighting captain and left half back, was named most valuable player on the 1932 Buckeye squad and is a candidate for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S ninth annual Big Ten silver football trophy. Hinchman also will receive THE TRIBUNE'S white gold football watch charm.

Joe Gailus of Vandergrift, Pa., and Sidney Gillman of Minneapolis, Minn., tonight were chosen co-captains of the 1933 Ohio State team. It was the first time in the school's athletic history joint football leaders were named.

Gailus, 22 years old, plays guard. Gillman, 21, is an end. Both are juniors, Gailus in the college of arts and Gillman in commerce.

For three years, Hinchman, son of William Hinchman, major league baseball scout, has been one of the most consistent players on the Ohio team, both on the defense and offense.

Leads in Playing Time.

During the last year Hinchman piled up the most playing time of any Ohio State player, participating in 469 minutes out of a possible 480 in the eight games on the Buckeye schedule. His closest rival in the matter was Gillman with a playing time of 435 minutes.

In addition Hinchman, from his left half position, did most of the Ohio State passing and backfield tackling especially during the later games.

Statistics covering Hinchman's play during the year show that he scored four touchdowns for a total of 24 points and is credited with 21 tackles—by himself, after the runner had broken through the line.

Averages 3.61 Yards.

He carried the ball 90 times for a gain of 325 yards, an average of 3.61 yards.

Punting averages show he booted the ball 59 times for 2,082 yards, or an average of 37 yards. Summary of his kicking follows:

Team.	Punts.	Yardage.
Ohio Wesleyan university	6	243
Indiana	8	89
Michigan	8	283
Pittsburgh	7	209
Wisconsin	12	465
Northwestern	13	473
Pennsylvania	5	147
Illinois	5	173
Totals	59	2,082

Hinchman has the distinction of being the first captain of the Ohio State team to come from Columbus since the days of Lloyd Pixley in

IRON MAN

LEWIS HINCHMAN.

1921. Chick Harley, another Columbus product, captained the Ohio team in 1919. Hinchman has played several years of football in Columbus, four at North High school, where he was captain of the team during his last year.

Family of Athletes.

Lew is the third in his family to make a name for himself in athletics. Big Bill, his father, was known from coast to coast for his baseball playing. Young Bill is known for his basketball and baseball playing at Ohio State and for his professional baseball playing with Rochester. Now comes Lew, who has starred in football, baseball, basketball, and swimming and plans to complete the year as a regular on the track team.

During the spring of his sophomore year, Hinchman set a record for second year men by making three letters in a row, football, basketball and baseball, where he alternated at third base and right field.

Hinchman weighs 172 pounds, is 5 feet 10¾ inches tall and is a senior in the college of business administration. His favorite winter sport is bowling and he spends most of his summers golfing and swimming.

He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta, Sphinx, senior honorary society, and Bucket and Dipper, junior men's honorary society.

PICKING NOTRE DAME.

FOOTBALL forecasters, including The Wake, frequently give space to explaining gridiron upsets in which their selection was defeated. These explanations are not uncommonly called "alibis," although seldom intended as such. Therefore it is at least a change to be asked to explain an upset like the Notre Dame-Army contest and to be asked why Notre Dame in this column was picked to win contrary to betting odds and prevailing expert opinion.

In Saturday's forecast we rated the teams "equal" on their showing against Pittsburgh, although Army had the better comparative score. To overcome that comparative score one Pitt touchdown against the Irish was thrown out as being a direct result of the Notre Dame panic following the first touchdown. We expressed concern because the Irish running attack had been so frustrated by Northwestern.

Now let's see how to figure Notre Dame to win—except by partisanship. After losing to Pitt, Army rolled up commanding scores against Yale and Harvard, causing an overappraisal of strength. It was widely touted. While Army teams always fight, the Cadets probably would not have the desperate spirit which brought victory a year ago.

Notre Dame did not gain by its running attack against Northwestern. Hanley's special defense attended to part of that. A light but desperate line, consistent in defense all season, furnished the rest. But that defense also needed the secondary, and that opened the way for passes. Notre Dame's defense of its passer and hurrying of the opposing passer were even stronger than they appeared.

Notre Dame's own defense also nullified and made puny Northwestern's running attack, including Rentner. Its offense indicated no eleven could meet both its pass attack and running attack at the same time. That Notre Dame had developed a new running attack with flanker trimmings was not known in advance.

So it was possible to reason that Notre Dame, stung by criticism because of losing one game, would be ready psychologically; that the Irish would score more than once either by infantry or air bombing; that Notre Dame's great line would stop Army backs, and that Army passes would not be enough to overcome other disadvantages.

Since it worked out that way, it's a great pleasure to explain the reasoning prompting the choice of Notre Dame to beat Army. On the other hand, we appreciate forbearance of those who did not ask us to explain the choice of Indiana to beat Illinois or of Northwestern to beat Minnesota.

OHIO AND IOWA CUT PROGRAMS; N. U. ACTS TODAY

Decline in Football Revenue Cause.

Drastic curtailment, if not a complete suspension, of minor sports programs in the Big Ten at the Western conference faculty committee meeting in Chicago Saturday was forecast last night. Football receipts, depended on to finance the minor sports which can not pay their own way, fell to a new low this season and athletic directors have been forced to revise their budgets.

Two schools, Ohio State and Iowa, yesterday acted to reduce athletic department expenditures by curtailing minor sports. Ohio State will have varsity competition only in basketball and track, while Iowa's athletic board ordered each sport be made to pay for itself.

Wisconsin and Indiana already have abolished intercollegiate competition in several sports. However, Michigan's board in control of athletics recently announced it would try to carry on a full program of sports.

A meeting of Northwestern's faculty committee on athletics has been called for today by K. L. Wilson, athletic director, to decide on the athletic program for the remainder of the school year. The marked decrease in revenue from the 1932 football season will necessitate a realignment of the athletic budget, Mr. Wilson said last night.

An effort will be made to retain the various varsity sports such as baseball, swimming, golf, and tennis, Mr. Wilson said, although on a greatly reduced plane. Schedules in these sports will be curtailed materially, he pointed out. Golf, tennis, and swimming may be maintained on an intramural basis, while a few games with other schools probably will be scheduled by the baseball team.

Receipts Off $75,000.

Football receipts at Northwestern this fall were off approximately $75,000 from the budget estimate made last summer. The fact that the annual payment of interest and principal on the stadium swallows up a large slice of the football income is causing difficulty in balancing the athletic budget this year.

"We hope to follow our athletic program with as little curtailment as possible," Mr. Wilson said. "In view of the decreased receipts we will be forced to effect numerous savings. Schedules will be reduced in all minor sports, although we hope to maintain these teams even if only on an intramural basis. We also hope that it will not be necessary to make any cuts in the personnel of our staff this year."

IOWA TO TRIM SCHEDULES

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—University of Iowa's athletic board today ordered that "the schedules of all sports for 1932-'33 be revised to put each on a self-sustaining basis," but hope was expressed that all of the nine sports could be retained on the athletic program.

Dr. E. H. Lauer, athletic director, said at the close of the board meeting that the department had followed a similar program last year with marked success, but the 1933 program would have to go even farther. All of the coaches will probably go to the western conference meeting in Chicago this week-end, where it is hoped that they can arrange for some Big Ten competition in every branch, he said.

Admission prices were reduced to 25 cents for nonconference basketball games and to 40 cents for conference games.

OHIO DROPS BASEBALL

Columbus, O., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The board of athletic control at Ohio State university Monday voted to abandon intercollegiate baseball as the first step in refinancing the athletic program made necessary by the decreased football receipts.

The athletic board decided that for the remainder of the fiscal school year, ending July 1, varsity teams will represent Ohio State only in basketball and track.

Tennis, golf, and swimming will operate on an intramural basis, with baseball on a modified basis.

L. W. St. John, Ohio State athletic director, said Monday that there is a possibility that several games may be scheduled with Big Ten baseball teams, but that they will have to be approved by the athletic board of Ohio State should such be the case.

Wright's Job in Jeopardy.

Football receipts, the "godfather" of minor sports for years, took a sharp drop at Ohio State this fall when they diminished approximately 50 per cent and this has caused the board of athletic control to put in overtime hours in juggling the budget for the remainder of the fiscal year which ends July 1, 1933.

No action was taken concerning the position of Coach Wayne Wright, who has been in charge of Buckeye baseball teams for a number of years. If the "one or two traditional" games are booked and approved it is expected that Wright will be in charge of the team at a greatly reduced salary. If these games are not approved the coaching position no doubt will be abolished.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Charles H. Theriot's 3 year old colt, Scout Master, won the Worthington Valley handicap, feature here today, by a neck from A. C. Bostwick's Scuttle. Joseph McPherson's Glastonbury was third, two lengths away, while Risque, the favorite, went the way of all other favorites today, being out of the money.

Winner Pays $7.50.

The winner, ridden by Frankie Catrone, paid $7.50. The time for the mile and one-sixteenth was 1:47.

J. A. Adler's War Plane was the first favorite to win today, and in scoring in the sixth race took a nose decision, giving Jockey Robertson three winners for the afternoon. Miss Corrine, which finished second, would have won with a stronger ride than Todd was able to give. Dark Mist was third, three lengths away. The time was 1:48 3-5. The winner paid $4.80.

Double for Genesco Stable.

The Genesco stable and Jockey Robertson made a sensational double, in so far as the odds were concerned, when Rubio scored a length victory over Mountain Elk in the third race. Rometheus was third.

Broad Lights of the Genesco stable cantered home in the second race, for 2 year olds, by four lengths under an energetic ride by Robertson.

Army Learns Rockne Stuff Is Still Good

cisely how. The Rockne stuff demands reliable blocking by two guards and two backs to expedite things for the man with the ball, and the only really reliable block is one that knocks a tackler down for the duration of that play.

Almost invariably the man with the ball on Notre Dame's side could depend on these guards and backs to do this for him, and it was a gauge of the relative proficiency of the two teams that the Army players were being knocked over consistently by men they knew were assigned to knock them over and whom they had been taught not to be knocked over by.

Can Blame Harvard, Yale.

The Cadets, if they want some one to share the fault with them for that which happened Saturday, might farm out some of the responsibility to their friends at Yale and Harvard. The Yale and Harvard games were supposed to give them practical experience in the problems of football, but the Yales and Harvards let down the Cadets. They were Yales and Harvards, but they were below the standard when the Army met them, and when the West Pointers were able to tromp all over them they naturally favored the idea that this was due largely to their own excellence. The Army had met only one first class team, that being Pitt, in the accumulation of a large reputation and a delusion of power and grandeur.

Hunk Anderson has tampered little with the work of the master at Notre Dame, but Rockne himself was not set in his ways and would have introduced some gadget from time to time. Anderson, knowing how familiar the Cadets were with the Rockne stuff, added a gaudy radiator cap to the job to keep it new and competitive. He assigned one of the backs on some plays to detach himself from the formation just before the passing of the ball from center and go take a walk for himself.

This back seemed to be just going somewhere to see a man about something, but he came to life with the snap from center and with a quick wheel dropped all over the Army end, cutting him down. He never did see that man he was always walking away to see.

Right from Sing Sing.

This, I believe, is Sing Sing stuff. They had a similar play at the old gray academy up-river last fall in which Alabama Pitts suddenly yelled, "So long, bums. You can't block and you can't tackle, and I'm quitting because I'm through." At that Capt. Pitts started off the field with his headgear in his hand and the rest of the team stood up, relaxed, as though startled by such language. The center then snapped the ball and Capt. Pitts broke downfield to receive a long pass.

I am not accusing Mr. Anderson of stealing a play from Sing Sing. Football plays are public property once they are exposed in action, and the games form one great exchange of ideas and stuff. Maybe that was the way Sing Sing got it.

Walking Fish? No, It Must Be a Mud Puppy

BY BOB BECKER.

In THE TRIBUNE'S vox pop column of recent date a reader advised Dr. Lange Koch that he needn't go to Greenland for "fossils of four-legged fish that walked ashore" because "we have plenty in Illinois in the Mississippi river." The further suggestion regarding these walking fish [?] was that the World's Fair next year could get specimens above the Keokuk dam.

Outdoor fans will be particularly interested in the description of this "walking fish" as given in vox pop, because it gives us the clew to the identification and classification of this creature. The description as published is: ". . . they have four legs, tail like an eel, skin like a catfish, mouth like a perch, but the skin on the head folds over downward, giving the creature an odd appearance."

Must Be Mud Puppy.

This remarkable animal can be none other than our old but mysterious friend the mud puppy, one of the large salamanders of eastern North America. In other words, it is what most youngsters call the water lizard. Along the Mississippi the name seems to be river pup. This curious animal is an amphibian, all salamanders forming the second of the principal groups of amphibians, the first being the toads and frogs.

There isn't any doubt but what a river pup or mud puppy is a fascinating creature, because of its life history. But it hardly deserves the name of walking fish. It looks something like a lizard, although lizards are scaled and the mud puppy is scaleless. The fact that this salamander is wholly aquatic serves to spread the fable that it is a fish, and every year several anglers who catch these amphibians on their hooks bring them to the Field museum for identification.

Gills on Side of Head.

Together with a stout body, short limbs and tail, and large, almost rectangular head, the large river pup in northern Illinois and the middle west has gills on the side of its head which doubtless are responsible for that vox pop description: "The skin on the head folds over downward." The gills are borne on three fleshy stalks on each side. When a mud puppy is taken from the water these gills are not seen in their normal position, so doubtless the average observer wouldn't consider them gills at all; just folds of skin at the back of the head.

Although a lot of adult fishermen do not know necturus maculosus, the big river pup, students in high schools and colleges are bound to scrape an acquaintance with him because we understand that one biological supply house alone sells around 2,000 of these curious amphibians each year. They are used for dissection in elementary vertebrate anatomy classes.

ILLINOIS PREPS DIVIDE ON NEW BASKET RULES

Members of the Illinois High School Athletic association have voted to employ the 10 second center line basketball rule, according to announcement yesterday from the office of C. W. Whitten, secretary. This rule was incorporated in the national code this season to speed up offensive play.

By the terms of the 10 second rule, a line shall be drawn through the center of all floors more than 80 feet in length. The ball must be advanced beyond this line in 10 seconds. On floors less than 80 feet in length, two lines will be drawn which will provide offensive territory of 42 feet for each quintet.

The other new basketball rule, which demands that the player on the pivot line must dispose of the ball within three seconds, was voted down by the Illinois association. The vote was 236 to 226. The vote on the 10 second rule was 227 for use of the rule as written, or with the interpretation, to 172 against.

U. S. Skating Team Named to Race Norway

The United States Ice Skating team, which will visit Europe and compete in an international series of speed races against skaters of Norway, yesterday was selected by Frank M. Kalteux, president of the Amateur Skating Union of the United States. It will consist of Eddie Schroeder of Chicago, Valentine Bialis of Utica, N. Y., Bert Taylor of New York City, Eddie Wedge of Detroit and Carl Springer of New York City. All were members of the United States Olympic skating team last winter.

President Kalteux will accompany the team as manager. The party will sail on Dec. 28 and arrive in Norway shortly after the first of the year. This will give the skaters at least three weeks' training in Oslo, Norway, where the races will be held.

Enter World Championships.

Kalteux also will enter the skaters in the world championships which will be held two weeks later at Oslo. In these championships all the stars of Europe will compete.

Upon hearing that they had been left off the team Eddie Murphy and O'Neil Farrell, Chicago's star skaters of the 1928 and 1932 Olympic teams, filed protests with Kalteux. When the officials of the various associations of the National Skating union met in Detroit recently and selected four men for the team, both Farrell and Murphy were named as alternates, they pointed out.

Calls Meeting with Skaters.

Kalteux said he would call a special meeting with the Chicago Olympic skaters next week to settle the controversy.

RACE FANS ASK GOVERNOR'S VETO OF MICHEL BILL

Oppose 8½% "Take" from Mutuel Pool.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—State Senator Victor P. Michel's race track bill has been returned to Gov. Emmerson by Attorney General Carlstrom, legal as to form. It is expected that the governor will take final action soon. Reports were heard today that many protests against the bill had reached the governor's office.

The bill, passed by the recent special session of the general assembly, provides that the daily license fee of Chicago race tracks shall be increased from $2,500 to $3,500 a day and associations are permitted to increase their take out of the betting pool from 6½ to 8½ per cent.

The bill provides that the increase in license fees, amounting for the season to about $160,000, will go to the Illinois Emergency Relief fund. The added 2 per cent on the mutuel take, which in a season will total, according to conservative estimates, $640,000, goes into the coffers of the race tracks.

The bill was sent to the attorney general for an opinion. He found no legal defects.

Gov. Emmerson has not indicated whether he will veto or sign the bill.

Berwyn Parrots Play Berg Boosters Sunday

Boxer Is Disqualified by Referee.

Tommy Paul, Buffalo, N. Y., featherweight champion, stopped Young Geno of La Salle, Ill., in the third round of the 10 round windup at White City last night. It was a nontitle match, Paul weighing 127 pounds and Geno, 126½. Geno lost the contest when he dropped to the canvas twice without being hit. One thousand spectators paid $807.90.

Paul, who was making his Chicago debut, started the bout as if he meant to end it in a hurry. He landed several hard right swings on Geno's face and a left to the body that made the La Salle boxer wince. Geno missed repeatedly.

Geno Better in Second.

The second round swung to Geno. He took the lead from the champion and landed most of the punches during the round. The spectators immediately took interest in the match and shouted encouragement to Geno, but their enthusiasm was short lived.

Shortly after the third round opened Paul landed to the head with both hands and Geno went down. He arose before Referee Oscar Richman could start a count, but immediately dropped back to the mat again. The referee overlooked the technicality, but when the La Salle boxer again dropped without being hit, Richman awarded the bout to Paul.

It Is Commission Rule.

The crowd booed the decision, but Referee Richman had no alternative. An Illinois athletic commission rule states that when a fighter goes down without being hit he is automatically disqualified.

The best bout on the card was the five round semi-final between Freddy Tompkins, Milwaukee junior welterweight, and Phil McQuillan of the south side. Tompkins won after being knocked down in the first round. Other results:

Young Joe Wolcott beat Roosevelt Haines [5].

Paddy Walther and Fred Hawkette drew [5].

Charley Cerminaro knocked out Sammy Morales [3].

Joe Barlow beat Mickey O'Shea [5].

Irish Take Cure for Ego from Films

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Coach Hunk Anderson, who proved himself somewhat of a psychologist last week by engineering an underdog Notre Dame team to a 21 to 0 victory over Army, was busy today anticipating the moves of Southern California for the game Dec. 10 at Los Angeles.

While campus chatter and football talk all over the nation still centered around the great blocking and perfect execution of the Irish in Saturday's game, Anderson busied himself today discounting the victory over Army in the minds of his players.

Charts Trojan Formations.

Today's noon meeting found Anderson at the blackboard diagramming Southern California's formations as the players filed into the room in the library assigned for this purpose. Anderson gave a technical shop talk concerning the Trojans, who have won 18 straight games.

Practice was cancelled for the day, but Anderson herded his squad into Washington hall, university theater, this afternoon to look at pictures of last year's 16 to 14 Southern California victory. The coach commented on various U. S. C. and Notre Dame formations during showing of the film.

Further experimental work in the field of inspirational psychology was undertaken when Anderson instructed student managers to tack up a batch of pictures, newspaper clippings, and publicity releases from the coast concerning the prowess of South California in last year's game and the prestige of this year's Pacific coast champions.

They'll Get an Eyeful.

If there are any of the Irish left tomorrow who still have sweet dreams of Saturday's victory in their heads Anderson said he plans to produce more material for nightmares about Southern California.

MY UBL PLANS TO REJOIN GOPHERS TEAM NEXT YEAR

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Myron Ubl, injured University of Minnesota football player, today began to look toward the 1933 football season. Ubl, who suffered a fractured sternum before the opening of the season and later contracted pneumonia, hopes to leave the University hospital next week.

"Although the doctors haven't told me yet whether I can play football again, I can still eat and hope. They said they'll have to wait until next spring before they can tell," Ubl said.

Prep Charity Game Plans Are Canceled

The last hope for a post-season charity football game between Morgan Park and Mount Carmel for the city championship faded yesterday when the parents of 32 members of the Morgan Park squad again refused to give their sons permission to play. Official announcement that the game would not be played was made by Father Fitzgerald, Mount Carmel athletic director.

"The game is definitely off. Unless we receive an offer to play an out of town game there will be no more football for the Mount Carmel team this year," said Father Fitzgerald. "Besides, we have started preparations for the basketball season."

Father Fitzgerald denied reports that Mount Carmel was negotiating for a game with either Washington High of East Chicago, winner of the Northern Indiana High School conference championship or Hall Township of Spring Valley, Ill., which last year claimed the Illinois state title with Harrison Tech.

The final decision on the Mount Carmel-Morgan Park game was reached after several meetings. The first conference between Catholic league and City league officials was held last Monday.

Wendell Phillips' lightweight basketball team will open its season Thursday afternoon, meeting Tuley on the latter's court. The heavyweight squad will open its schedule on Friday against Roosevelt. Among the veterans on the heavy team are Ward, center; Chapman and Gant, guards, and Mitchell and Giles, forwards.

Benny Macuwsky and Melvin Anderson, forwards, were the only veterans among the 16 players who reported for heavyweight basketball at Fenger. Thirty-four are seeking places on the lightweight squad. Fenger starts the season Saturday at Calumet City.

Bob Horak, who just concluded a successful season on the football field, reported in a basketball uniform yesterday at Riverside. Horak, who plays forward, is one of the veterans on the heavyweight team.

Harrison Tech begins its basketball season Friday night, meeting Glenbard of the West Suburban league at Glen Ellyn. Two games will be played.

Preliminary races for the swimming titles of the Chicago Public High School league will be held Saturday night at the Austin High school pool. The diving championships will be held in the same pool on Dec. 7. The finals are scheduled at the University of Chicago Dec. 10.

The finals of the City league's rifle tournament are scheduled at the Hamilton club Dec. 8 and 9.

EDDIE TOLAN IS DISCOVERED IN VAUDEVILLE ACT

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Eddie Tolan, the Michigan boy who won the 100 and 200 meter dashes in last summer's Olympic games, has been working for the last month as a vaudeville actor. He turned in his amateur card, got a job with a unit under Bill Robinson, the colored dancer, and has since been appearing on the stage.

Tolan had two reasons for the step. He is practically the sole support of his mother and several brothers and sisters in Detroit, and he wants to earn enough so that he can continue his study of medicine.

Tolan could not be reached today. He is living quietly in Harlem, attending to his job. His manager said that the young man, who is the latest holder of the "world's fastest human" title, is studious and appealing on the stage.

The young man's contribution to the act is in the nature of a brief lecture. He comes out and explains how he won his races and tells about some of them.

CAMPBELL PLANS NEW ATTEMPT AT SPEED RECORD

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell, holder of the world's automobile speed record of 253.968 miles an hour, probably will make an attempt in February at Daytona Beach, Fla., to break his own mark, friends said today.

Sir Malcolm himself was reticent as to his plans, but friends said they were convinced he planned again to speed along the Florida stands in an effort to raise the mark to 300 miles an hour, a figure he has set as a possible speed.

Spencer Coal Girls' Quintet Beats Fernwood A.C., 59-10

Led by Cassie Martin and Lillian Rozhan, the Spencer Coals girls' basketball team last night scored its eighth consecutive victory of the season by defeating the Fernwood Athletic club, 59 to 10, on the Fernwood court. Martin scored 11 points, while Rozhan garnered 12. The Spencers will seek their ninth victory against the Lombard Blues at the Irving Park Y. M. C. A. gymnasium tomorrow.

BEST C. Y. O. BOXERS OF WEST SIDE

New Boxers Bid for C. Y. O. Tourney Honor

Out of the 32 survivors of a field of 1,534 amateur boxers who meet in the semi-finals and finals of the Catholic Youth Organization tournament Friday night at the Chicago Stadium will emerge a boxer whose ability stamps him as the outstanding puncher of the tourney.

Last year acclaim went to George Haberski, who defeated Leo Rodak in the bantamweight finals. This year Haberski was eliminated by Jimmy Christy in the quarter-finals. In Christy some observers see the 1932 tournament choice.

Ketter Wins by Knockouts.

There are other boxers whose work in the preliminaries already has drawn approval. Frank Ketter, representing Our Lady of Vilna, who is six feet three inches tall and weighs approximately 200 pounds, has won every bout in the tournament by a knockout. In the same division is another outstanding contender for tournament honors. He is Chester Bukowski, who lost in the semi-finals last year.

Oscar O'Hanion, who won the flyweight title last year, is one of the two holdover champions still in the running. His chief rival is expected to be Henry Fuscaldo from SS. Peter and Paul. Max Marek is the second 1931 champion. Marek, however, has moved up from the 160 pound class to the light heavyweight. John Persche, last year's champion, did not enter the tournament. Marek is regarded as the most finished boxer in this year's event.

Set Two Minute Round Limit.

Rounds in the semi-finals and finals will be limited to two minutes to speed up the tournament, it was announced yesterday. There will be 24 three round bouts with mandatory decisions.

ST. PAUL CLUB OUSTS MANAGER TO SAVE MONEY

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Albert P. Leifield, manager of the St. Paul Baseball club of the American association, was dismissed today. The announcement was made by R. J. Connery, president of the Saints.

Leifield's dismissal, it was said, was due to the decreased receipts last season. Connery expects to appoint a playing manager for 1933. Connery will select a new manager at the minor league meeting at Columbus, O., next week.

The Saints finished seventh in the association last season after winning the pennant in 1931 and finished second in 1930. The release of Leifield leaves both twin cities clubs without managers. Donie Bush, manager of the Minneapolis Millers, resigned to manage the Cincinnati Reds. Bush's successor is expected to be picked this week.

Electrical Trap to Speed Shooting at Glen View

A new electrical trap, the only one of its kind in the central states, will greet Glen View trapshooters when they inaugurate the 1932-'33 trap season at the club grounds Sunday morning. Under the old system there was a slight pause from the time the shooter called "pull" until the clay pigeon was released. With the new electrical trap this delay has been eliminated, and the pigeon makes its appearance almost simultaneously with the shooter calling "pull."

Blackhawks End Road Trip with Ottawa Contest

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 28.—[Special.]—The Chicago Blackhawks will complete their first away from home journey of the 1932-'33 schedule here tomorrow night against the Ottawa Senators, who are back in the National Hockey league after a year's absence. If the Hawks win the game Coach Emil Iverson will not feel so badly about the disastrous results of the trip thus far.

Johnny Gottselig and Roger Jenkins are almost certain to play against the Senators. Each suffered a wrenched knee, Gottselig in the Boston Bruin game and Jenkins in the battle with the Rangers.

In the three games played on the trip the Hawks have gained only one point out of a possible six.

A victory is needed to keep the Hawks in second place. If they beat Ottawa and the Rangers defeat Boston, the Hawks will be only half a game behind the Bruins for the American division leadership.

Dinsmore Joins National Hockey League as Referee

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Charles [Dinny] Dinsmore, former star with the Montreal Maroons, today was added to the refereeing staff of the National Hockey league.

M'Millen and Kampfer Meet Again Tonight

Hans Kampfer, rated one of the toughest wrestlers in the game, will attempt to prove his recent victory over Jim McMillen was no fluke when they meet tonight in a finish battle at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue.

Kampfer tossed the former Illinois football star out of the ring five times, after which the referee gave the decision to the German.

Tonight's victor has been promised a championship match here early next month with Jim Londos, the present titleholder. However, Joe Savoldi, appearing in the semi-windup against John Katan, Canadian, declares if he is the winner he will ask the state athletic commission to ask for a bout between the Kampfer-McMillen winner and himself, the victor to meet Londos.

Kampfer, starting his second campaign in this country for the title, has changed from a defensive to an offensive grappler. Savoldi's appearance here is his first in two years.

World's Fair Crowds to See Title Events

Seven national championship sports events have been awarded to Chicago as the nucleus of an international sports carnival to be held in connection with A Century of Progress—the 1933 World's Fair, J. L. Bingham, assistant to the president of the Amateur Athletic union of the United States, announced yesterday. Mr. Bingham is a secretary of the World's Fair sports committee.

The championships—only the first to be announced of twenty or thirty—will be held mainly at Soldiers' field and the Exposition lagoon.

National Track Meet Here.

The 1933 championships awarded to Chicago for 1933 are the men's senior and junior track and field, the women's track and field, gymnastics, four-wall handball, men's swimming, weight lifting and senior cross-country.

Incidentally the World's Fair games will mark the introduction for the first time in national championships of the exclusive use of the metric system. In consequence, many new records are expected. The fair will mark the passing of the yard, foot and inch from American athletics.

Expects Record Meet.

"The most important track event in this country, the men's senior and junior meet, will take place at Soldiers' field stadium, probably early in July," Mr. Bingham said. "It will be a three day meet, with the junior events taking place on the first day, the senior on the second day and the relays and decathlon on the third.

"Because of the World's Fair, we expect this to be the largest track and field meet in history. Between 600 and 700 of the finest athletes in the United States will take part.

"The two day women's junior and senior track and field meet will take place at Soldiers' field in the middle of June and is expected to attract between 1,200 and 1,500 juniors and 200 to 300 seniors.

"Other outstanding events already awarded to Chicago for 1933 are the men's swimming championships, the national open golf tournament, for the first of August; the women's national golf tournament, the national senior cross country race, the gymnastics, the weight lifting and the four wall handball championships.

Letourner and Hill Teams Lead in Six Day Race

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—A steadily mounting record of stolen laps entertained a crowd of about 5,000 tonight in Madison Square Garden as the 53d international six day bicycle race completed its first round of the clock.

The teams of Letourner-Debaets and Hill-Grimm were tied for the mileage leadership at midnight, but the former pair had five more points.

In the second division, one lap behind the leaders, were the combinations of Andy-Peden, Linari-Severgnini and McNamara-Dempsey. Mickey Rodak of Chicago and his partner, Bobby Walthour, were four laps behind the leaders.

During the excitement in the afternoon one of the youngsters in the crowd excitedly dropped his pocket knife on the track. Fortunately, no casualties were recorded.

Jimmy Walthour Sr., who trains both young Jimmy and Bobby, was a victim of the afternoon's most dangerous spill. It occurred after the ninth sprint when Croley and Taverne fell to the track, flat, crashing into Walthour.

The standing at midnight, 27th hour:

	Miles.	Laps.	Pts.
Letourner-Debaets	.500	9	46
Hill-Grimm	.500	9	41
Andy-Peden	.500	8	52

Weston yesterday afternoon beat Thurnblad, 50 to 47, in 77 innings, while Lookabaugh defeated Allen Hall, the leader, 50 to 38, in 44 innings. The final two matches of the tournament will be played today. Hall will meet Kenney in the afternoon and in the evening Hall will play Thurnblad.

The standings:

Beating Giants Sunday Is First Part of Job.

The Bears started practive yesterday for the game with the New York Giants at Wrigley field Sunday. Even the influenza brigade, numbering five players, was on the job for the Bears scent, the National Football league pennant.

That 7 to 7 tie with the Spartans last Sunday served only to tighten the race by giving both Bears and Spartans the opportunity to emerge on top of the heap.

How Race Figures.

There are several possibilities, but the two in which the Bears are interested go like this:

Should the Packers defeat Portsmouth next Sunday, and should the Bears trim the Giants and then whip the Packers Dec. 11, the Bears will annex the title. In that case the standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Bears	6	1	.857
Green Bay	11	2	.846
Portsmouth	5	2	.714

However, should Portsmouth defeat the Packers and should the Bears win from both the Giants and the Packers, the Bears and Spartans would be tied for the title. In that case the standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Bears	6	1	.857
Portsmouth	6	1	.857
Green Bay	10	3	.769

In case of a tie, the Bears and Spartans have agreed to play it off at Wrigley field Dec. 18.

Not Discouraged by Tie.

The Bears, instead of being discouraged by the tie at Portsmouth, feel they overcame a tremendous handicap by playing with five men in poor condition because of the flu. Nesbitt, Brumbaugh, Corbett and Hewitt refused to be left at home. Carlson, who did not go to Portsmouth with the club, left the Illinois Masonic hospital and caught a train to arrive two hours before game time. He played one quarter.

Sunday will be ladies day, the last one this season. Requests for tickets should be mailed to the Chicago Bears Football club, Ladies Day Ticket Office, Wrigley Field, Chicago. It is imperative that a self-addressed and stamped envelope be enclosed.

De Paul Counts on Tall Veterans for Court Victories

Success or failure of De Paul university's basketball team will hinge chiefly on the performances of three tall veterans. They are Ed Weston, center; Capt. Tony Lauritis, guard, and Pete Barskis, forward.

Barskis is the tallest member of the De Paul squad, standing 6 feet 4 inches in height. He shows to great advantage under the basket.

Barskis performed well in several games last year, but his efforts usually came in streaks. The chief reason he did not play regularly was awkwardness in moving his long form about the floor. Barskis, this year, appears to be much improved in his floor game.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 28.—Bond prices drifted lower todaw under the influence of unsettled political conditions both at home and abroad. Speculative issues again suffered the brunt of the fall, while high grades, including government and corporation bonds, managed to maintain a firm front. "Keep liquid" seemed to be the motto of the big bond buyers.

The market was largely unresponsive to trade news and paid little heed to the fresh drop of the pound to a new low. At the moment there is no important buying coming into any division of the market, and prices are being forced lower by gradual liquidation. At present about one-third of the advance of the averages since early last summer has been canceled.

Trade at Low Ebb.

Though volume of trading in United States governments was at low ebb this division of the market gave a relatively better account of itself than did other sections, aided in some measure by the shifting of investments into more liquid form.

Municipal bankers have noted some shifting on the part of banks out of municipals into short-term governments. As a result of undiminished demand for these liquid investments dealers today anticipated another low cost to the treasury on its sale, scheduled for today, of about $100,000,000 of discount bills.

Rail Bonds Decline.

The lower trend of speculative bonds included bonds of the Baltimore and Ohio, which held the position of market leadership of the recent upswing. The 4½s, due 1933, deposits of which are now being received under the road's refunding plan, were traded in large volume at a level around 8 points below their top for the recent upswing.

Other declines in corporation bonds included speculative utilities and industrials as well as the rails. The decline bonds of the Canadian Railway systems, most of which were a point or more lower.

Toledo Edison.

Toledo Edison company has issued first mortgage 30 year 5 per cent bonds. Would you advise me as to whether these bonds are sound?—B. C.

Toledo Edison company is a subsidiary of Toledo Light and Power company, part of the Cities Service Power and Light system. About 97 per cent of total revenues is from the sale of electricity in Toledo, O., and environs. The remainder comes from sale of steam heating, hot water service, and gas.

About the middle of November, 1932, the company issued $27,500,000 first 5s, due 1962. The funds realized will be used to retire $11,480,000 first 5s, due 1947; $13,500,000 first 4½s, due 1965; $907,000 Defiance Gas and Electric first 5s, due 1942, and $582,000 Defiance Gas and Electric first and refunding 7s, due 1942, and for other purposes.

The new bonds will constitute the company's only funded debt and are secured by a first mortgage on all properties, subject to minor divisional liens.

Annual interest requirements on the total funded debt to be outstanding total $1,375,000 a year. This charge was earned 3.5 times before depreciation in the year ended Aug. 31, 1932. Net available for interest on this issue, after depreciation, was about three times annual charges.

Gross for 1931 was $10,072,000, against $10,903,000 for 1930, and $11,316,000 for 1929. Fixed charges were earned 3.51 times in 1931, 4.34 times in 1930, 4.33 times in 1929, 3.38 times in 1928, and 2.15 times in 1927.

Giving effect to new financing current assets on Aug. 31, 1932, were $3,898,000, and current liabilities were $2,403,000. Working capital was $1,495,000, against $1,025,000 on Dec. 31, 1931.

The new bonds are regarded as sound.

Phoenix Mutual.

I think there is danger of a possible misunderstanding creeping up based upon the comment you made in your report on Phoenix Mutual (Life Insurance company), indicating we use the "convention" basis June, 1931. The closed report . . . should correct this.—Robert A. Judd, Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance company.

The report which Mr. Judd sent reads in part as follows: "The insurance commissioner of Connecticut, however, has ruled that companies shall make a 'special deduction from surplus' (using convention values) 'to adjust security holdings to true value as of Dec. 31, 1931.'"

We are sending a copy of this to the source from which we received the information that the company's figures were based on "convention values."

Refuses to Pay Rent.

TO THE EDITOR: I am a widow 83 years of age and rented a flat in my building to a tenant who, since the first month, has failed to pay rent. Knowing I am alone, he has more or less buffaloed me in this matter.

The rent quoted at time of rental was so cheap it made decorating prohibitive and the tenant was so advised. About two weeks ago he presented in strong arm methods a bill for materials and labor for decorating, claiming to have done the work himself. This bill was equal to two months' rent and the work was done without my knowledge or consent.

Since the tenant defaulted in rent he has purchased an automobile. My livelihood depends on the income I receive from this property. I would appreciate it if you could advise how I can collect. I cannot afford to hire a lawyer or court costs, but feel that you can help me in some way. Can we have him removed from the property if he fails to settle or make some adjustment?—J. S.

ANSWER: Yes. You fail to state whether or not a lease was signed by the tenant. Assuming that this is not the case, we suggest serving a five day notice to vacate. These forms can be secured from any stationery store. If results are not obtained you must secure a court order for eviction.

Regarding the collection of back rent, unless the tenant can produce receipts for having paid, you must bring suit and get a judgment against him.

As your funds are limited and as you may need legal advice we suggest you consult the Legal Aid society, 203 North Wabash avenue, Chicago.

Bank Files Foreclosure Bill.

TO THE EDITOR: In 1927 I made a first mortgage with the —— bank. All taxes, interest and payments were made promptly up until January, 1932. I have been out of work and unable to pay taxes and interest. The bank filed a bill of foreclosure, being the trustee in this case. Shortly thereafter the bank closed and a receiver has been appointed. Will this bill of foreclosure hold good.—D. D. J.

ANSWER: The answer to your case depends upon how far foreclosure proceedings have progressed. A closed bank resigns all active trust and in all probability, if necessary, a supplemental bill will follow. We assume your mortgage was owned by the bank and therefore comes under the jurisdiction of the receiver. Consult the receiver for the present status of your case.

BANKS GET LESS, RELIEF LOANS BY R.F.C. HIGHER

October Borrowings Total $194,423,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—Improvement in banking and financial conditions, on the one hand, and a steadily increasing demand for emergency relief funds, on the other, were reflected today in the October report of the Reconstruction Finance corporation made public by South Trimble, clerk of the house of representatives.

Between August, the first complete month for which the corporation made its loan operations public, and October advances to banks and other financial institutions declined from 122 million dollars to 59 millions. Advances to states for relief of destitution increased from nearly 14 millions in August to 22¼ millions in October.

32 Millions for Relief.

Loans totaling $194,423,000 were authorized by the corporation during October, according to the report made public today. Of the total, $59,023,185 went to 553 banks and other financial institutions, $27,634,762 went to states for relief of destitution, $81,514,500 was authorized for construction of 21 "self-liquidating projects" in 14 states, $251,000 was loaned to three institutions engaged in "the orderly marketing of agricultural commodities," and $24,000,000 was made available to the corporation's agricultural regionals for loans to farmers and live stock men.

In addition, the report said, $7,500,000 was allocated to the secretary of agriculture for crop production loans to farmers.

Only twenty-four financial institutions in Illinois were authorized to receive loans by the corporation in October according to the report. Seventeen were banks—two in Chicago proper—five were building and loan associations—four in Chicago—and two were insurance companies, also in Chicago.

These institutions, with the amounts authorized to them, were as follows:

45 Millions Are Repaid.

Repayments of loans during the month amounted to $45,762,310, the corporation reported. Of the total, it was said, $38,940,161 was repaid by banks, $1,150 by credit unions, $1,265,900 by building and loan associations, $351,765 by insurance companies, $10,768 by joint stock land banks, $556,618 by live stock credit corporations, $1,842,830 by mortgage loan companies, $282,428 by agricultural credit corporations, and $1,910,500 by railroads. No repayments of relief of self-liquidating project loans were reported during the month, although the corporation said that $14,000 of a self-liquidating project loan had been canceled.

The report disclosed that of the 81½ millions advanced for self-liquidating construction projects during the month not a single dollar was actually disbursed.

Increase Capitalization.

The corporation took advantage of its first refinancing operation to increase its note issue capitalization to one billion dollars. During the month 67½ million dollars of matured corporation debentures which had been purchased by the secretary of the treasury were taken up and a new issue of a billion dollars was authorized.

The corporation in October subscribed 36 million dollars to the capital stock of the 12 regional agricultural credit corporations, established to make loans to farmers and stockmen. Of the total subscription, only 24 millions had been paid in by the corporation, the remaining 12 millions having been allocated to the secretary of agriculture for crop production loans.

Auto Makers Are Cheered by Hope of December Sales

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Automobile manufacturers saw a favorable trend today in reports indicating from 115,000 to 130,000 automobiles would be placed on the market in December. Dow, Jones & Co. placed the number at 123,965. Models in the hands of dealers were said to have decreased sharply.

Davis, Illinois Life Receiver, Takes Charge

The status of the 200,000 policyholders of the Illinois Life Insurance company is likely to be determined in the next few days it was indicated last night after the appointment by federal Judge James H. Wilkerson of Gen. Abel Davis as temporary receiver for the 40 year old concern.

GEN. ABEL DAVIS. [Wallinger Photo.]

It was learned that Gen. Davis who is chairman of the Chicago Title and Trust company, will leave today for the east to confer with officials of insurance companies there over the possibility of reorganizing the company or arranging for the reinsurance of its policyholders

Undecided on Policy Protection.

In designating Gen. Davis as temporary receiver Judge Wilkerson took under advisement the motions made by counsel for the various litigants in the case as to the form or the receivership order. Judge Wilkerson ordered all the bills consolidated and declared that he has not yet arrived at a definite decision as to the best means for the protection of policyholders.

"The important thing is to maintain confidence in the company and protect the policyholders. I must first examine the various orders submitted by counsel," he said.

Directors of the company last week had consented to the appointment of an equity receiver in a resolution in which they denied the allegations of insolvency of the company and bad faith on the part of the management.

Assets 28 Millions Up.

The company is one of the oldest insurance companies in the middle west, having been formed in 1893. It has insurance outstanding at the present time of approximately $150,000,000, which is held by 200,000 policyholders. Its assets are variously estimated from $28,000,000 to $35,000,000, exclusive of investments of approximately $12,000,000 in bonds and mortgages of the Stevens and La Salle hotels, both of which have defaulted on their interest.

It was reported yesterday that several insurance companies are prepared to make bids for reinsuring the policyholders of the company. Whether such a program, if adopted, would call for a sacrifice on the part of policyholders with regard to cash surrender and loan privileges is not known. The company has already admitted its inability to meet demands for loans and redemption but declared that the assets were sufficient to meet all death claims.

Davis Takes Over Assets.

Gen. Davis was directed by Judge Wilkerson to take immediate possession of the assets of the company while the court took under advisement its ultimate order.

Gen. Davis said last night that he had already taken charge. "My only advice to policyholders at this time is to be patient until we all can be certain just what course to pursue," he said. "I also want to urge policyholders whose premiums are coming due to pay them. All premiums paid to the receiver will be kept in an entirely separate fund and applied to keep the insurance in force if the business is reorganized or the policies reinsured. Otherwise the premiums so paid to the receiver will be returned to the policyholders."

HUNDREDS GET WORK IN MILLS AT FALL RIVER

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Hundreds of mill workers were given employment here today with the resumption of operations at three cotton goods manufacturing plants.

The Firestone cotton mills reopened after being shut down since last August and work was begun on a two shift basis. More than 700 persons were given work.

The King Philip plant E of the Berkshire fine spinning associates began work that provided employment for more than 600 workers.

At the Howard-Arthur mills preparations were made for manufacturing which was expected to employ several hundred workers within a week or two.

AVIATION CORP. BOARD TO MEET IN EAST TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 28.—A meeting of directors of the Aviation Corporation of Delaware is expected to be held tomorrow, at which representatives of the present management, headed by Robert Lehman, chairman of the board, and of E. L. Cord, holder of 30 per cent of the company's stock, will seek an agreement on a compromise board of directors.

The new board will consist of fifteen directors, five to be appointed by the present management, five by the Cord interests, and five jointly by the rival groups. The names of several prominent men have been proposed as the five impartial directors.

PRICE OF SILVER HITS ALL TIME LOW IN N. Y.

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Continuing its decline of the last several days, New York spot silver was quoted today at 25⅝ cents an ounce, the lowest level in history.

The previous low level was 25¾ cents, established on Feb. 16, 1931, and repeated last Saturday. In London bar silver declined ¼ pence to 17 13-16 pence an ounce. The lowest price ever recorded for silver in London in terms of sterling was set on Feb. 19, 1931, at 12 pence an ounce. At that time the British pound was on a gold basis and holding close to its parity with the dollar.

Rail President Urges Taxes on Earning Basis

BY SCRUTATOR.

A radical change in the system of taxation is advocated by several railroad officials. They propose that assessed values on railroad property should at least be partly based on what the property can earn, rather than entirely on general property values.

F. W. SARGENT. [Matzene Photo.]

The proposal of the railroads results from the increasing burden of taxes in recent years, which has been accentuated in the last two or three years by declining revenues. Some state and local authorities, it is said, have taken railroad earnings into consideration at times in fixing assessed values, but no definite principle or practice has been established.

No Assessment Uniformity.

"The railroads are taxed on the ad valorem basis in all states except Minnesota, where they are taxed on 5 per cent of their intrastate revenues," Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western, explained yesterday. "The various states have tax commissions, but there has been no uniformity in arriving at values. In some of the western states we have been obliged to litigate assessments and have received favorable decisions to the effect that where railroad property is assessed on the ad valorem basis, as is other property, taxes must be reduced to the common level applicable to real estate generally.

"The states consider what they regard as actual, physical value, measured by original cost, cost of reproduction new less depreciation, capitalization, and gross and net earnings. In other words, they claim to take into consideration all these factors. In practice they quite generally ignore net earnings, except in the years when net earnings are favorable. In many places in the western territory schools could not operate except for railroad taxes, and in times such as these the disposition is to get all taxes possible from the railroads because of inability of large areas of farm land to pay any taxes whatever."

Explains Tax Theory.

Then Mr. Sargent proposed the new theory of taxation that railroad men have been studying.

"I see nothing to do but to continue in a vigorous manner our efforts looking toward the making of fair assessments," he said. "Since railroad property cannot be sold on the market for taxes, but must be used for transportation purposes, it has little value in the absence of net earnings. Therefore, net earnings should be and must be made to represent an important factor in arriving at true values."

This theory of fixing values and imposing taxation suggests a radical change by which usage and earning power should be considered, rather than ad valorem values, particularly in large properties devoted to highly specialized uses. A railroad is not worth much except for transportation purposes, as Mr. Sargent says, but the heads of great steel and motor companies, as well as others, might also claim that usage largely determines the value of their properties.

Net Off, Taxes Double.

Some data on taxes was supplied by Mr. Sargent, who pointed out that revenues of the North Western this year will be $12,000,000 less than they were in 1913, or a reduction of 14½ per cent. On the other hand, taxes will be nearly $4,000,000, or 104 per cent, higher than in 1913.

State and local taxes for all class I railroads in the United States rose steadily from $232,206,340 in 1920 to $308,220,733 in 1930 and eased to $293,100,089 in 1931. Total operating revenues rose from slightly more than 5½ billion dollars to more than 6 1-3 billions in 1926, and then dropped to about 4 1-5 billions in 1931. Taxes, including federal levies, in relation to gross income, have risen steadily, taking 4.4 cents of each dollar of gross revenue in 1920 and mounting to 7.3 cents in 1931.

From 1920 to 1927, inclusive, taxes were the fourth largest item of railroad expenses, being exceeded only by labor, materials, and fuel. After 1928, however, taxes supplanted fuel in third place.

BANKS EXPAND BUSINESS LOANS, REPORTS SHOW

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Bankers loosened their purse strings last week to extend further credit to business and industry judging from the position of the reserve banks in the principal cities as shown in the weekly report issued yesterday through the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

The report gives the position of the reporting banks in the leading cities of the country at the close of business last Wednesday and reveals that total loans and discounts of the institutions reporting had risen $32,000,000 over the previous week. The actual expansion is moderate but is regarded as significant inasmuch as the deposits, both time and demand, were declining during the period in which credit was being increased.

Reverses Recent Trend.

The recent trend has been one of steadily mounting deposits while loans and discounts were remaining stationary or even, in several weeks, being reduced. The figures lend some support to recent declarations that bankers believe confidence has returned sufficiently to ease up on the policy of extreme liquidity adhered to in recent months. That such a change in policy is definitely adopted, however, awaits confirmation in the next few weeks.

While bankers may be increasing their loans there is still ample demand for the short term securities being issued by the United States treasury. It is this type of investment which the banks have utilized in recent months in maintaining liquid positions.

Loans at One-Tenth of 1 Per cent

Secretary of the Treasury Mills announced last night that bids received on the $100,000,000 treasury bill issue offered last week ranged as high as 99.975 which is equivalent to an annual interest rate of one-tenth of 1 per cent. The lowest bid accepted was 99.963 or equivalent to an annual rate of .15 per cent. Subscriptions totaled $302,630,000 or more than three times the amount offered.

Aside from the increase in loans and decline in deposits there was a significant drop last week in the amount of government funds deposited with the reporting reserve banks. With no profitable outlet for the money the banks turned back to the government $28,000,000 on which they were paying 2¼ per cent interest. Demand deposits were down $25,000,000 and time deposits were off $12,000,000.

Sell Federal Securities.

The banks also reduced their holdings of government securities by $51,000,000 and increased their investments in other securities by $5,000,000. The reduction in governments may reflect in part the obtaining of funds to pay off Christmas savings accounts.

The reporting banks cut down their borrowing from the reserve banks by $3,000,000, bringing the total down to $95,000,000.

The new manufacturing operations, together with the expansion of a number of existing industries, had provided employment for 500 persons, the bureau report said.

Manufacturers of apparel were more numerous among the new firms than any other group.

Large Roads' Operating Net Ahead of '31

October revenue statements issued yesterday by several large railroads indicate that the aggregate net operating income on the class 1 roads for the month will closely approximate the total for the corresponding month of 1931. Some of the large roads, notably the Chicago and North Western, the New York Central, and the Baltimore and Ohio, reported material gains in net operating income over October last year.

Gross revenues of the reporting carriers continued to run below the year ago level in keeping with the lower volume of traffic and the higher net reported by some of the roads reflects the rigid economy which has been effected by rail managements. The first 64 roads to report for October show operating net of $61,613,000, against $62,114,000 in the same month last year, a decrease of less than 1 per cent. Of the roads reporting, 34 had actual gains in net.

North Western Earnings Up.

The Chicago and North Western's October net operating income was nearly double the comparable month of 1931. While gross operating revenues fell from $8,497,653 to $7,048,328, a reduction in expenses enabled the system to show net operating income of $1,014,051, against $524,517 in October, 1931.

The New York Central railroad showed the largest gain over last year yet reported by a major system. Net operating income was $3,575,385, against $1,868,242 in October last year. The improvement was shown in the face of a $5,000,000 shrinkage in gross revenues.

The Baltimore and Ohio also reported a gain. The road has October net operating income of $3,409,351, as compared with $3,361,732 last year. Among the large roads which reported smaller net operating totals were the Atchison, Rock Island Lines and the Burlington.

Reports of Roads.

*Deficit.

Current reports on November car loadings are being interpreted favorably in railroad circles. Basing their predictions on the first results reported by leading lines some railroad men believe that November net operating results in the aggregate will equal if not slightly exceed November last year. If November aggregate net does exceed last year it will be the first time since 1929 that monthly earnings topped the year ago figures.

U.S. Auto Exports Increase; More Heavy Trucks Sold

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—A better demand for heavier trucks, the commerce department reported today, resulted in an increase of $97,524 in exports of automotive products during October. The total was $5,355,793.

STERLING SINKS TO $3.173-8, NEW ALL TIME LOW

Its Fall Drives Down Commodity Prices.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 28.—The pound sterling, for years the money of international trade because of its safety and steadiness, today fell to the lowest price in its history at $3.17⅜, nearly 35 per cent below parity and ⅝ cent cheaper than the previous record low of $3.18 reached on Feb. 4, 1920.

In its fall the pound carried down prices of commodities in all directions and drove bar silver also to the lowest price on record, 25⅝ cents an ounce, compared with the previous record minimum of 25¾ cents an ounce first reached on Feb. 16, 1931, and duplicated last Saturday.

The depreciation of the British monetary unit to the cheapest price in terms of the dollar ever quoted was not spectacular. It was accomplished in bull trading and represented merely the progressive discouragement of the financial world over the problem of the war debts payments due Dec. 15.

Recent Drop 17 Cents.

The pound has steadily gone down since the attitude of congress toward a postponement of next month's payment of $95,550,000 became evident. Its fall has quickened as the plight of Great Britain became clearer. At today's low the exchange was approximately 17 cents beneath the price quoted when the British government's note, asking postponement of the Dec. 15 payment was received.

In financial circles it was said that there is growing concern lest failure to reach a solution of the war debts problem should precipitate another crisis. British treasury balances in this market amount to less than half the December payment and not all of them are available for use in that connection.

In the event that no postponement is granted bankers say, it is evident that Great Britain will have to send us gold or else default. Payment in gold would take about 14 per cent of the present slender gold reserves of the Bank of England, further weakening the backing of the pound sterling.

Little Speculative Selling.

Sterling opened in New York at $3.19¼, off 2¼ cents from Saturday's final price, and after falling to $3.17⅜ rallied fractionally to close at $3.18¼, off 2¼ cents net. Business was done in small lots of 5,000 pounds to 10,000 pounds, about one-fifth the normal size, and only a small amount of speculative selling, emanating chiefly from abroad, was apparent.

Other foreign exchange rates were depressed by the action of sterling, but there were no wide declines. The franc dropped ⅛ point to 3.91⅛ cents, guilders rose 1 point to 40.20 cents, and belgas and Swiss francs were unchanged at 13.85 cents and 19.23 cents, respectively. The Canadian dollar went to a discount of 16 per cent, compared with a discount of 15¼ per cent on Saturday, and Scandinavian exchanges fell 7 to 15 points.

Bankers Shrink from Credits.

Talk of possible credits in this market to support sterling or to put the British treasury in funds to meet the December payments received scant courtesy in banking quarters. Nothing of the sort has been suggested by the British government, it was said, and under the circumstances an ordinary banking credit would appear impracticable.

If it comes to a question of paying in gold at the last minute credit could, of course, be established at once against the security of the gold in transit, either through arrangement between the British treasury and bankers here or between the Bank of England and the federal reserve banks.

CHICAGO BREWING COMPANY PLANS $100,000 ADDITION

Will Increase Capacity to 100,000 Barrels.

BY AL CHASE.

Foreseeing an early O. K. on real beer by Uncle Sam, the North American Brewery company, it was learned yesterday, contemplates erecting a $100,000 addition to its plant at 2336 Bosworth avenue. When completed the company will have a yearly capacity of 100,000 barrels. The new addition will be able to turn out 25,000 barrels of real beer annually. Prior to the Volstead act the plant had a capacity of 75,000 barrels yearly.

Will Start Work Soon.

Plans are now being drawn by Richard Griesser & Son and work is expected to start shortly, with the expectation of having the addition completed in two months. At present the plant is employing twenty men. With the return of legal beer and the completion of the addition the company will employ approximately 100, it was stated.

News of the contemplated addition were disclosed when the papers of incorporation for the North American Brewery company were filed for record at the county recorder's office. Harold S. Lederer is president of the new corporation, Simon Lederer is vice president, and S. T. Terman of S. E. Terman & Co., real estate firm, is secretary and treasurer.

Began Brewing in 1914.

The North American Brewery company began brewing real beer back in 1914. When the dry era began it secured a federal permit to make near beer and has been one of the six brewing companies in Chicago which have continued to operate under a Washington license.

As an indication of the activity in the brewing situation in the Chicago area it was learned yesterday that the North American Brewery company recently has been deluged with offers to buy the plant as it stands. According to Mr. Terman the plant is in a position to start making real beer within a few hours of the receipt of federal permission.

Atlantic Coast Line Recalls 705 Shop Workers to Jobs

Rocky Mount, N. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Atlantic Coast Line railway announced today it would recall 705 men to work in its shops here between Dec. 1 and Dec. 22.

H. G. TAYLOR IS NAMED 'UMPIRE' BY WEST'S RAILS

Chief Work to Be On Rates, Schedules.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Announcement of the appointment of Harry Guy Taylor, former Nebraska newspaper man, as commissioner of the western railroads was made yesterday. Mr. Taylor, who has been manager of public relations for the car service division of the American Railway association, will come to Chicago from Washington, D. C., in about ten days. His appointment becomes effective Dec. 15.

Carl R. Gray, president of the Union Pacific, who announced Mr. Taylor's selection on behalf of a committee of railroad presidents, emphasized his previous statement that the new commissioner is not a "czar."

'Mr. Taylor will be an umpire in disputes and discussions arising among the railroads," Mr. Gray said just before boarding the Century for New York City. "He will not be a czar as many papers reported. Such a position would be in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Rates His Main Problem.

"A large part of Mr. Taylor's duties will consist of settling passenger fare and freight rate matters."

With his appointment as commissioner Mr. Taylor also becomes chairman of the Western Association of Railway Executives. His offices in Chicago are yet to be selected.

The executives issued the following statement in connection with the appointment:

"The commissioner's duties are clearly defined in an agreement which has been executed by all the western railroads, and are principally in connection with securing cooperative action between the various lines in matters of rates and train schedules.

"Attention is especially called to the unfortunate appellation of 'czar' which has been used frequently while the plan has been under consideration. Such a position as this title implies is a manifest impossibility in the railroad field. No railroad can legally or morally divest itself of ultimate freedom of action, nor is that contemplated.

Neutral in Disputes.

"The commissioner in his neutral position can and undoubtedly will bring into each situation, as it arises, a consideration divested of individual bias, and for that reason can contribute greatly to a disposition fair to all parties and the public alike."

The railway executives' committee who made the selection consisted of the following in addition to Mr. Gray, who was chairman: L. W. Baldwin, Missouri Pacific; Ralph Budd, Burlington; Charles Donnelly, Northern Pacific; F. W. Sargent, the North Western; and H. A. Scandrett, Milwaukee road.

Mr. Taylor is 52 years old. He published newspapers in Almena and Central City, Neb., and served in the Nebraska legislature in 1911. From 1913 to 1927 he was a member of the Nebraska state railway commission. He became connected with the American Railway association in 1927. In addition Mr. Taylor has served as president of the National Association of Railway and Utilities Commissioners and as chairman of the Central Western Shippers' Advisory board.

STOCK MARKET DRONES ALONG; GAINS A LITTLE

Breaks in Sterling, Wheat Hold Back Bulls.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 28.—Another very mild stock market ushered in the new week in Wall street today. While the list appeared to be headed sharply lower a couple of times, it managed to snap back to around previous closing levels. The close was firm and quiet with fractional gains outnumbering losses among the leaders.

A popularly accepted indication of the lack of liquidation in stocks was volume, which hardly attained 500,000 shares. This almost complete absence of realizing in the face of a further dip in sterling to a new record low and the reaction of more than a cent a bushel in wheat furnished much comfort to speculative circles.

Believe Market "Sold Out."

As the close drew around with the market holding its own, the assumption was that traders look at the market as "sold out" and are shunning the bear side despite the unsettling war debt discussion and the attendant depreciation of sterling. The rank and file of dealers appear to be coming around to the belief that a rally might be nearer at hand than is indicated on the surface at the moment. However, the disposition is to go slowly and let the market prove itself.

Gold mining shares furnished almost the only excitement for tape readers. The slump in silver, sterling, and other commodity prices, and the indifference in other sections of the share market gave mining stock speculators an opportunity to get behind their issues for a rise. Homestake sold at a new high price with a rise of 6 points and McIntyre and Alaska Juneau were active and strong.

Rails Heaviest Group.

While there was another good loadings report as well as several satisfying October statements on earnings the railroad group turned out to be about the heaviest of the list. New York Central's net, for instance, was nearly double that of the same month last year, but the better outlook on paper failed to help the market for that carrier leader. It dropped a good sized fraction on the day and similar recessions were posted by Santa Fe, Chesapeake and Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Lackawanna, and Illinois Central.

The recognized pivotal group was as strong a sector as any. American Can registered the only notable setback—and that was a trifling fraction—against small advances on the day for American Telephone, Du Pont, General Electric, General Motors, Radio, Steel, and Westinghouse.

Odd Sale in Socony.

Socony-Vacuum attracted some attention with a delayed delivery transaction involving 200 shares at a half point below the market for regular delivery. The time asked was 50 days. Socony dipped a fraction, but oils for the most part tagged along with the rest of the market close to Saturday's closings.

Copper shares gave little attention to the approaching conference on the industry's ills.

As is usually the case, farm implement and mail order issues took their cue from grain prices, wheat's softness bringing intermittent pressure and resultant loss of ground for Case, Harvester, and Montgomery Ward, with Sears-Roebuck unchanged on a small volume. Allied Chemical, however, resisted well for a fractional tally on the upside.

LARD UNDER PRESSURE; CLOSE AT INSIDE PRICES

Liquidation combined with moderate hedging pressure and limited support from the speculative and packing interests, also the weakness in grains and cotton, had a depressing influence on prices of lard, and they closed 2½@10c lower. November closed at $4.45, with cash lard $4.37½ for regular, loose and leaf at $3.75, and neutral at $5.75. Bellies were unchanged with little interest taken either in spot or futures, the former being $4.75. Liverpool lard was 3d lower. Prices follow:

BUTTER AND EGGS

Butter and egg futures continued making new highs for the year on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Butter failed to hold its advances but eggs closed at the best levels of the day. Butter was unchanged to ½c lower for the day and eggs up ⅛@⅝c. Butter opened steady and advanced sharply later as a result of bullish weekly storage news. The movement last week in the ten markets was 3,400,000 lbs greater than last year. Profit taking came out on the advance, however, and the market reacted. Eggs opened firm but eased on profit taking. In the last hour, the market turned upward, moderate new buying and covering carrying prices forward. Receipts were about equal to last year, but the storage movement was 12,000 cases less than last year in the four markets. Sales: Butter, 197 cars; eggs, 169 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 4 cars; eggs, 20 cars. Prices follow:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today, with an easier undertone. Offerings were more liberal for both spot and future shipment. Sales reported were 24,000 bags of Philippines for February-March shipment at 2.81c to an outport refiner, and 18,000 bags at 2.88c for April-May shipment. Sugars in prompt position were offered at 2.95c, or 5 points below the asked price of last week, with no buying interest. Continued easiness of the spot market, together with the disappointing London market as a result of the weakness in sterling exchange caused further declines in futures, where all active positions sold at new lows for the movement, while the more distant positions made new low records for the life of the contract. Approximate sales were 35,450 tons. Prices follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.
December	.84	.84	.77	.78	.87

July	.92	.93	.88	.88	.94
September	.98	.98	.93	.93	.99

Refined was easier following the decline in raws with prices reduced 10 points to the basis of 4.15c for fine granulated.

PRICES OF WHEAT DECLINE; NEAR ALL TIME LOWS

War Debts and Sterling Break Start Selling.

WHEAT PRICES IN GOLD

Wheat prices in leading markets on a gold basis, computed from rates of exchange prevailing at the time they closed, follow:

	Monday.	Saturday.
Chicago, December	.42¼	.43⅜
Winnipeg, December	.37⅞	.38¼
Liverpool, December	.49⅝	.49⅞
Winnipeg, No. 2 Manitoba	.54	.53⅝
Rotterdam, November	.46¼	.45⅝
Buenos Aires, February	.39⅛	.38½

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The world's financial situation continues to dominate the wheat trade, and the break in sterling exchange to a new all time record low, combined with the controversy over the war debts, started a selling movement yesterday which carried futures in the local market to within a fraction of a cent of the lowest figures known for the December and to a new low for the season for the July.

Local sentiment was distinctly bearish, and, with a lack of aggressive support, prices gradually drifted lower. An outstanding feature was the lack of rallying power, and the finish was at the bottom, with net losses of ½@1⅛c. A large part of the day's business was in changing over from the December into the May and from the latter into the July.

December Wheat Weakens.

December wheat was under pressure from liquidating longs and went to 4⅝c under May at the last, against 4⅛c on Saturday, while the July was only ⅝c over May at the last, against 1c over the previous session. The finish on all futures was at practically the bottom, with December at 42⅛@42¼c, the lowest figures at which any future has ever closed on the local exchange. May wheat was 46⅝@47c and July 47¼@47⅜c at the last.

American wheat markets, however, seemed to be more influenced by the war debt developments and break in exchange rates than did those in other countries. Winnipeg was off ⅛c on a gold basis, with December at 37⅞c, compared with 45c in Canadian funds as shown on the blackboards, the latter being ⅛c under Saturday's finish. Liverpool, figured on the basis of $3.18 for sterling, was unchanged to ⅛c higher, with December at 49⅝c, or 7c over the same delivery in Chicago.

Somewhat less favorable crop reports were received from Argentina late in the day, but failed to attract much attention from the trade. February wheat in Buenos Aires gained ⅝c for the day and closed at 39⅛c.

The holding tendency on the part of farmers is commencing to make itself felt, as the domestic visible supply of wheat was reduced 3,694,000 bu for the week owing to increased takings by mills. The total is 176,013,000 bu, against 221,799,000 bu last year.

Corn Futures Lower.

Scattered selling developed in corn and prices declined fractionally, with the close at the bottom to ⅛c above, with net losses of ⅛@⅜c. December was 23⅞@24c, May, 28⅝@28¾c, and July, 30¼@30⅜c at the last, the July being at a new low for the season. Country offerings to arrive were again small, and shipping demand decidedly slow.

According to trade gossip a line of long oats held for foreign account was liquidated yesterday. This gave the market an easy undertone and the close was at net losses of ⅛@⅜c. December was 15⅝c and May 17⅜c at the last. Rye was unchanged to ⅛c lower, with December 29¾c and May 31⅝c.

The committee which is investigating barley futures and contract grades held a meeting Monday and reported satisfactory progress was being made. Milwaukee brewers will shortly appear before the committee and state their views as to what they feel would be a desirable grade for delivery on future contracts. There was no speculative trading yesterday, with the May closing ⅛c lower at 32⅝c bid.

FRISCO DISCARDS TWO MAJOR JOBS TO SAVE $88,000

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The office of chairman of the board of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway company, held by E. N. Brown, and the road's New York offices have been eliminated since the receivership of Nov. 2, with an annual saving of $88,000, it was announced today.

J. M. Kurn, former president and co-receiver with John G. Lonsdale, said the saving represents the $30,000 salary of Brown, the $20,000 salary of C. W. Michel, vice president, and the salaries of eight minor employés and rentals. Michel, however, will be retained as New York representative of the road, at a greatly reduced salary.

HAVANA STEAMSHIP CONFERENCE OPENS FIGHT ON SEA TRAINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—Members of the Havana Steamship conference are appealing to exporters today to stand by them in their rate fight with the Seatrain Lines, Inc., the newest entrant in the Atlantic seaboard-Havana trade, which has been refused membership in the conference.

In their statement to shippers the members of the Havana conference declared they would continue in their refusal to recognize Seatrain Lines and placed responsibility for the present situation on the latter company. The members of the conference, which includes the American and Cuban, Munson, Ward, and United Fruit lines, had denied the request of the Seatrain Lines for admittance to the conference holding that its rates should be higher and that it had refused to recognize the differential principle in rate fixing.

The Seatrain service is termed by the competitors an extension of train service. Freight is transferred directly in cars from the rail lines in Hoboken to shipboard and then to the rails in Havana and New Orleans. The competing lines break down bulk freight at the rail ends.

COTTON AT NEW LOWS; BELOW 6 CENT LEVEL ON OLD CROP MONTHS

Cotton prices declined to new low levels, all old crop futures selling under the 6c basis for futures in Chicago with spots in New York also down to 5.80c, off 10 points. New Orleans, 5.70c; Galveston, 5.65c, and Houston, 5.60c. Futures showed net declines of 9@17 cents Chicago leading the break.

Demoralization in sterling exchange was the main unsettling factor, causing liquidation and liberal selling by the south and professionals which proved of larger volume than the trade was able to absorb except at lower prices.

Weekly trade reports were rather less encouraging and there was nothing but the low prices to induce new buying. A small rally was on at one time but finished at practically the inside.

The cotton trade is much interested in the present farm legislation, although it is not encouraging for new business on either side of the market at present, the disposition being to await more tangible news. Prices follow:

FIGHTS RECEIVER ACTION AGAINST 333 N. MICHIGAN

Petition for an injunction to restrain foreclosure action against the 333 North Michigan Avenue building and a bill charging the Greenebaum Sons' Investment company, the Central Republic Bank and Trust company as trustee of the property, and ten directors of the 333 North Michigan Building corporation with a conspiracy to force foreclosure was filed in the Superior court yesterday. The plaintiff was Herman J. Weber, a bondholder owning $20,000 of the $6,200,000 issue of June, 1927.

The bill charged that the directors manipulated rents and profits from the building to their individual benefits and by an agreement diverted substantial amounts of the income so that the bonds were defaulted. The bill charged that the conspiracy was begun so that the bonds might be purchased by the directors at a small part of their actual worth. In furtherance of the conspiracy, the bill charged, the bank as trustee declared the $6,032,000 worth of bonds still outstanding due and began foreclosure.

The bill asked that the reorganization of the building corporation by the bank, the investment company, and the directors be halted. The suit asks that another receiver be appointed and placed in charge of the property.

CANADA REDUCES GRAIN STORAGE RATES IN WEST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 28.—Announcement was made today that, effective at once, the rates for the average of grain in all terminal elevators west of Fort William have been decreased from one-thirtieth of 1 cent per bushel per day to one-forty-fifth of 1 cent per bushel per day.

Montreal and other eastern elevators are no affected by the change, which has been made on orders of the federal government in response to requests for farmer aid and despite the protests of elevator companies, who maintain the old rate was rock bottom so far as affording any profit from the storage operations.

HOG PRICES DROP 10-15C, TO NEAR LOW OF THE YEAR

Cattle, Sheep Advance on Light Receipts.

After a comparatively firm start yesterday, the hog market turned reactionary and slumped to a 10@15c lower close, with the bulk of late sales only 10c above the 1932 low. Contrary to expectations, the trade was unable to withstand the pressure of the 45,000 hogs unloaded at Chicago yesterday. It was the largest run since March and showed an increase of 45 per cent compared with the average Monday run during the last six weeks.

Action was poor on opening rounds, but after the 10@15c lower price basis had been established, demand expanded and the clearance was the best of the fall season for Monday, with only about 3,000 left.

Eastern buying orders were among the largest in recent months. Five small local houses bought 7,500 head, while Armour, Swift and Wilson handled 28,000. All were anxious to keep their killing and cutting floors going in full force for the benefit of the thousands of visitors from the live stock show who regard a trip through the packing houses as one of the main attractions.

Cattle Receipts Drop.

The lightest cattle receipts in three months, the result of the demoralizing break in prices the last two weeks, sent the market into a mild advance yesterday. Only 10,000 head were unloaded at Chicago. The average Monday run during the last 12 weeks stands at 20,800.

All buyers were on hand early and showed more willingness to buy, despite the prospects of a record auction of beef animals from the show during the last half of the week. Gains of mostly 25c were scored in steers. Swift paid $8.00, the extreme top, for a string of 77 Fulton county, Ill., cattle that averaged 1,232 lbs. They were billed east for slaughter. Twenty-one show rejects averaging 1,140 lbs reached $7.85. Few other sales were made above $7.50, with the bulk of the crop at $5.00@6.75.

Contrasted to last week, the supply of prime medium and weighty steers was short, which supports the theory that the recent break is likely to shut off the supply of well finished beeves for a time. Cows and heifers ruled strong to 25c higher and showed good action on the rise. Calves were strong to 25c higher. Stockers and feeders were active and firm.

Lambs Advance Again.

Lambs retained last week's 50c advance early yesterday and closed 15@25c higher. Action continued fair with prices $1.25@1.50 above the low spot of last month. Lamb supplies in the coolers have been held down by extremely light sheep receipts the last few weeks and packers are evidently encountering a shortage that might prove more than temporary, according to some in the trade. Yesterday's run of 20,000 seemed moderate, but it was below average for this time of the year, when fed westerns are usually moving in from the corn belt in volume.

Buyers with eastern connections were the most aggressive. Packers paid the $6.60 top for fed westerns. Yearling wethers sold up to $5.50. Mixed yearling ewes and wethers sold at $5.00, highest of the fall season for this class.

COPPER LEADERS HOPE FOR ACCORD AT CONFERENCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 28.—Hopes for a solution of the copper problem were extended today on the eve of the opening of formal conferences here by world producers.

The formal meetings tomorrow follow a series of conversations among producers who have been here for several weeks. While these have been entirely secret, it is reported substantial progress has been made.

That a continuation of the production curtailment agreement now in force, which held output down to 20 per cent of capacity this year, is desired by a majority of the producers is known, but there are some who will fight for larger allowables than those allotted under the old agreement. It is the general belief some kind of an agreement on curtailment will grow out of the meetings.

On the matter of marketing agreements it is expected an accord will come only after much wrangling.

In Equity No. 1340.
Plaintiffs,
vs.
INDIANA LIMESTONE COMPANY, ET AL.,
Defendants.

NOTICE OF SALE OF CORPORATE PROPERTY BY SPECIAL MASTER.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Albert Ward, Special Master in Chancery, in a certain action pending in the United States District Court for the Southern District of Indiana, wherein The Cleveland Trust Company and Rudolf A. Malm, Trustees, are plaintiffs, and Indiana Limestone Company, et al., are defendants, being Equity Cause No. 1340, pursuant to order and decree of said District Court, will offer for sale at public auction on Wednesday, December 28, 1932, at 10 o'clock a. m., Central Standard Time, at the main office of Indiana Limestone Company in Bedford, Indiana, all of the property, business and assets of Indiana Limestone Company, an Indiana corporation.

The property so to be offered for sale will include real estate, leaseholds, buildings and appurtenances, machinery, equipment, materials and supplies, bills, notes, accounts receivable and inventory, contracts, patent rights, trade marks and trade names, choses in action, rights, privileges and franchises, and all and singular the property, assets and business of said Indiana Limestone Company of every kind, character and description, of whatsoever kind and wheresoever situate.

A more particular list, description and schedule of said property is on file in the Office of the Clerk of the United States District Court for the Southern District of Indiana, in the Federal Building in the City of Indianapolis, and in the office of Albert Ward, Special Master, Room No. 548 Consolidated Building, in the City of Indianapolis, and at the main office of said defendant, Indiana Limestone Company, in the City of Bedford, Lawrence County, Indiana; to which descriptions and schedules reference is hereby made.

The said property will be offered separately and bids will be received as follows:

First: The property subject to the First Mortgage and Deed of Trust of Indiana Limestone Company, dated May 1, 1926, which will be offered as an entirety, subject to state, county and municipal taxes and assessments and a certain mortgage on a part of said property in the sum of $19,477.08 and accrued interest to date of confirmation of sale; said property being more specifically described in said decree in Section III First thereof.

Second: The property not subject to said Mortgage, which will be offered as an entirety subject to—

(a) Certain loans aggregating as of October 31, 1932, the sum of $580,716.75, which will be adjusted to date of confirmation of sale, payable to First Union Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago, and Oliver A. Bestel, Trustees, Chicago, Illinois, together with interest thereon at the rate of 6% per annum; said loans being secured by a certain chattel mortgage to said First Union Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago, and Oliver A. Bestel, Trustees, and by assignment and pledge of certain accounts receivable of Indiana Limestone Company, defendant.

(b) Accounts payable, salaries and wages payable, and commissions payable as shown by the books of account of said Indiana Limestone Company as of October 31, 1932, with adjustments of said accounts in a normal course of business of said Indiana Limestone Company up to and including date of confirmation of sale; and Federal, State and local Taxes and assessments.

The purchaser shall also specifically assume and agree to perform and abide by the terms, covenants and conditions of the several construction contracts, sales contracts and contracts of lease to which said Indiana Limestone Company is a party, and which contracts on the part of said Company, are to be kept, performed and observed, according to the terms thereof.

Third: All of said property shall then be offered and bids will be received therefor as an entirety, subject to the liens, claims and contracts as set forth in paragraphs First and Second hereof.

Bidders will be required to accompany all bids with cash or certified check as follows:

A. On all bids for property covered by the mortgage, Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.00);

B. On all bids of the property not covered by the mortgage, Twenty-five Thousand Dollars ($25,000.00);

C. On all bids of the property as an entirety, Seventy-five Thousand Dollars ($75,000.00).

D. No bidder will be required to deposit more than Seventy-five Thousand Dollars ($75,000.00) with any combination of bids.

Upon confirmation of the sale the purchaser will be required to make such cash payments additional to the amounts accompanying any such bid and to execute such specific agreements of assumption of liabilities of said defendant as the Court herein may direct. Payment of the amount bid not required to be paid in cash may be made in cash or by tendering first mortgage bonds and coupons or debentures and coupons, or both, as heretofore issued by said defendant, Indiana Limestone Company, to the extent that the same will be entitled to share in the proceeds of such sale as provided in said decree.

The business of said defendant, Indiana Limestone Company, is now being carried on and said property, assets and business will be sold as a going concern.

Full details, including descriptions of property and terms and conditions of sale, are more particularly set forth in the decree of foreclosure and order of sale of the United States District Court for the Southern District of Indiana, made and entered on November 26, 1932, to which reference is hereby made. A true copy of said decree is on file and may be inspected by prospective bidders at the following places: The office of the Clerk of the United States District Court for the Southern District of Indiana in the Federal Building at Indianapolis, Indiana; the office of Albert Ward, Special Master, Room No. 548 Consolidated Building, Indianapolis, Indiana; and the principal office of defendant, Indiana Limestone Company, in the City of Bedford, Lawrence County, Indiana.

Bids may be made in writing addressed to the Special Master, Albert Ward, and delivered prior to the date of sale, or at the time of sale, and oral bids may be made at the time of sale.

The said United States District Court reserves the right to reject any and all bids which, in the judgment of said Court, are inadequate, or are subject to just objection.

ALBERT WARD,
Special Master.
